Scattered Pearls vol. I

Foreword

This year, during the gathering at Raiwind, this most humble servant had the good luck of meeting Maulana Yunus Palanpuri, son of Maulana Muhammad Umar Palanpuri. We were discussing international affairs, when shortly before leaving this most humble servant saw a note-book shortly before leaving. It turned out that the honourable Maulana used this note book to write down whatever important or interesting point he had during his studies, so that he could easily benefit therefrom when need arose. This is common practice among our respected elders and other scholars. Otherwise it happens quite often that one comes across some significant piece of information and then when one needs it one simply can not remember where one read it, leaving one with nothing but regret. This is why someone said:

The honourable Maulana had obviously inherited his love for books and reading from his respected father, Maulana Muhammad Umar Palanpuri, so as to be a source of delight for his father. This most humble servant had witnessed it so many times, the honourable Maulana forgot the world around himself when he was with his books. He was particularly interested in Tafsir. Once he said to me: 'I'd like to study the books of Hadith as well, but the Qur'an is an unfathomable ocean, no matter how often you dive in it, you will always return with yet another treasure of pearls. I simply can't help plunging myself into the ocean of the Holy Qur'an, so as to plunge myself into the ocean of Hadith.' He was most inclined toward 'Tafsir ul Qur'an bil Quran' (i.e. Tafsir of the Holy thought Qur'an the Holy Qur'an itself), then to Tafsir ul Qur'an bil Hadith, then to Tafsir ul Qur'an bi aqwai us-Sahaba Wat-taba'in. He feared Tafsir bir rai (i.e. Tafsir based on one's personal opinion) very much, and he would weep bitterly and tremble with fear on such occasions. Even to Arabs he would say: 'Listen, I only wish you well, and you should also wish your descendants well (so tell them): Never try to understand the Holy Qur'an without the help of the sacred Ahadith and the sayings of the noble companions, otherwise you will go astray and you will lead others astray, too!

He was extremely fond of reading. Once in Nizamuddin the two of us went to his room, the halls of which were full of books. We sat down on his bed. He mustered the room, then gestured toward the books and said: ‘May Allah grant their authors a goodly reward! How hard they had worked to write these books, while we find it difficult to read them. But listen! Maulvi Usman! Don’t think that they are useless. Never think that they were written, in vain. Allah shall cause each line, each point each injunction thereof to come alive in the hearts of people through Da’wah and Tablígh—may He already do so! The only reason why I want to stay alive is to read each of these books at least once in my lifetime.’ At another occasion he said: ‘People think of what are these books? Whereas they should consider the following: What if Imam Bukhari and Imam Muslim had not compiled their Sahihin. how would we have ever got to know about Hadith? The same is true for other books. One stipulation which the honorable Maulana made still echoes in my mind— he said: ‘O Allah, let my tongue utter the words of the Holy Qur'an and the sacred Ahadith penetrate my heart, and let me act accordingly. Let me be one who carries the Holy Qur'an and the sacred Ahadith to all corners of the world. Amin.

When he got to know about a good book, he would immediately order it and keep it in his shelf. A number of times he had ordered books from Pakistan through his humble servant. As a result of his fondness for religious knowledge, he would meet scholars and students of madaris with utmost love, humbleness and affection, which shall however be delved upon right now. But what can I do? As I write these lines I again and again remember his love and affection, his being absorbed by his studies, his love for Tafsir, his being completely lost in his prayers, his humbleness, his concern for the Ummah, his daily morning lectures at Nizamuddin, his addresses at Raiwind, his instructions to groups which were about to go forth for Tablígh.

and how the audience would listen with rapt attention when he talked to them about the greatness, and majesty of Allah, and how the people hoped the true religion of Allah would come alive in the hearts of all the people of the world, and how the people came to think of falsehood and vanity to be nothing more than a spider’s web. How sympathetic he was toward the poor and downtrodden. How concerned he was for the affluent, especially the young generation. How eager he was to draw benefit from people’s talents and to find a proper venue to put their talents to use! His humility, humbleness, and simplicity! His wishing others well from the bottom of his heart! His fear regarding his own self! His anxiety for the hereafter, his taking guidance from the verse of the Holy Qur'an, no matter what the circumstances might be. His precaution regarding common property. This awareness of international affairs this becoming restless on getting to know about people’s apostasy and his immediately sending some groups (of missionaries) there. How much he enjoined those who were associated with him for a long period of time to work for the welfare of this Ummah, and to develop true concern for them, to strive to develop a special relationship with Allah Most High and to rid them selves of spiritual vices such as envy rancour malice and so forth. His concern for communal affair. His concern to correct the prayer-times of America and other countries. His expertise in astronomy and his pointing out the mistakes made by senior astronomers. His obedience toward his leader. His strictly following his advice. His requesting saints and scholars to rectify any mistake he might have made during his lectures, and how they would reassure him, how hard he would try to send every year gifts to scholars and saints; his perusing the speeches of Maulana Yusuf, his meeting those who resided in the centre before his embarking an a journey, and his asking them for forgiveness— even those who were much younger than him. How beneficial his speeches were for people of all classes, and how they felt that he was in deed talking to them. How humble he used to be in front of the honourable Maulana Anamul Hasan, and how he would say to this servant of Allah: ‘Indeed, I have absorbed the honorable Maulana.}
They were those whom Allah had guided, so follow their ways.

Malik bin Dinar stated that such stories are gifts from Paradise. He also said: "Narrate these stories as much as possible, for they are genius, and it is quite possible that you might find a truly rare and invaluable gem among them."

Sufyan bin Uyaynah said: "When mention of righteous people is made, Divine mercy descends when mention of righteous people is made."

All this sprang from my pen - almost of its own - when writing Maulana Muhammad Umar's name, and how much I would like to keep writing on and on, but I shall content myself with whatever I wrote.

When I browsed through Maulana Yunus copy, I found that it contained references of books as well as many important and beneficial points. The compilation which clearly indicate his fondness and love for books and reading. I humbly submitted that the matter contained in this copy should be published. The honourable Maulana however refused, saying that this copy is meant only to aid his memory, but on my insistence and my telling him how much others would benefit from the material contained in this copy, and that our elders would get the gist of their studies published and also due to my relationship with his respected father, he finally acceded to my humble request and handed his copy over to me. This is a collection of various highly beneficial topics. They were compiled as they came across, hence one should not try to find any peculiar order or sequence in this compilation - there is none. That is why this compilation was entitled 'Scattered Pearls.' May Allah grant the honourable Maulana a godly reward, and may He let this compilation become a means of Sadaqah -e-farzah (perpetual charity) for him and his parents. For the time being, only one part there of shall be published but soon - de e deh - the second part, too shall be published.

May Allah accept this humble effort on part of His bondman, and may He make it a means of salvation, and may He embellish...

it with the blessings of His pious bondmen. My elder brother Maulana Umar Farooq did the necessary corrections and proof-reading, while my dear friend Jawed Hazarwi arranged the printing. May Allah grant them both a goodly reward.

Effort in Islam

Islam is true. Efforts in that direction require four months. There are four types of effort in Islam:

The effort of listening …… Ta’līm
The effort of speaking …… Da’wah
The effort of thinking …… Dīnār
The effort of asking …… Du’a

Faith ripens through Mujahadah, it is strengthened through Dawah, it spreads through migration, and it is saved through discharging the rights of Allah’s servants. (Maulana Ahmad Ludi, Isma’îl Bîlayî)

A preacher (Da’i) should keep performing good deeds individually along with his concern for communal welfare

Sayyidina Abu Hureirah رضی اللہ عنہ said: ‘Who is fasting today?’ Sayyidina Abu Bakr رضی اللہ عنہ then said: ‘I am’. He then asked: ‘Who has attended a funeral-prayer today?’ Sayyidina Abu Bakr رضی اللہ عنہ said: ‘I did.’ He then asked: ‘Who fed any poor person today?’ Sayyidina Abu Bakr رضی اللہ عنہ said: ‘I did.’ The Noble Prophet ﷺ then said: ‘A person who does all this in one day shall surely go to paradise.’ (Hayatus-Salatihah 2/648)

The amazing virtues of bidding good and forbidding evil

Sayyidina Anas رضی اللہ عنہ said: Should I not tell you about people who are neither prophets nor martyrs, but yet, on the Day of Judgement their rank shall be so exalted that even the Prophets and martyrs will be astonished. They shall be on special pulpits, and they shall easily be recognized,” the companions said: ‘O Messenger of Allah ﷺ! Who are those people?’ The Noble Prophet ﷺ said: ‘They are those who make Allah’s servants dear to Allah, and who make Allah dear to His servants, they walk on earth well-wishers of everyone.” I said: “I understand how they make Allah dear to His servants, but I can’t understand how they make Allah’s servants dear to Allah.” The Noble Prophet ﷺ said: “These people ask others to do such deeds which are dear to Allah, and they stop them from deeds which are disliked by Allah. So if they do deeds which are liked by Allah, then they become dear to Allah.” (Hayaatul-Sallaha 2/905)

Sayyiduna Husayn bin Abbas ﷺ narrated: I said to the Noble Prophet ﷺ: “Messenger of Allah! Bidding good and forbidding evil are the chief-virtue of the righteous people. When shall they be abandoned?” The Noble Prophet ﷺ said: “When the same voices which cropped up in the children of Israel, will crop up in you.” I asked: “O Messenger of Allah! Which voices cropped up in the children of Israel?” The Noble Prophet ﷺ said: “When your righteous people adopt a lenient stance toward the wicked in matters of religion, for the sake of this worldly life when the worst of people lay claim to religious knowledge, and when the young ones meddle in government affairs. At that time you will be involved in a great trial. You will rush towards trials, and trials will rush to warn you.” (Hayaatul-Sallaha 2/905)

A special virtue of reciting the Holy Qur’an in the path of Allah.

In Musnad Ahmad has been mentioned that if anyone recites one thousand Ayat in the path of Allah, then, on the Day of Judgment, he shall be written among the Prophets, the saints, the martyrs and the righteous. (Tafsir Ibn Kathir 1/507)

(If we get into the habit of reciting Surah Ya-sin daily during a ‘Chillah’ in the path of Allah then we shall acquire this virtue, too, Insha Allah.)

Calling unto Allah in the late hours of the night
Allah's Might

In Ibn Abi Hatim has been cited a marfoo' tradition according to which the Messenger of Allah said: 'I have been granted permission to tell you about one of the angels who carry the throne. The distance between his ear-lobe and his shoulder is so great that a bird would keep flying for seven hundred years.'

The chains of transmission of this Hadith are all excellent, and its narrators are reliable. (Tafsir Ibn Kathir 5/120)

How the Noble Prophet treated his companions

Once Sayyidina Jarir bin Abdullah Bajki went to visit the Noble Prophet whose dwelling was full of companions. When the Noble Prophet saw Sayyidina Jarir stand at the door-step, he looked toward his right and his left, but there was nowhere a place for him to sit. The Noble Prophet then took of his sheet, rolled it up and threw it toward Sayyidina Jarir telling him to sit on it. Sayyidina Jarir drew the sheet toward his chest, kissed and returned to the Noble Prophet. He said: 'O Messenger of Allah may Allah honour you as you had honoured me.' The Noble Prophet said: 'When any respectable person of any tribe comes to visit you then honour him.' (Hasanus-Sahabah 2/569)

Some deeds which shall save one from certain calamities

Abu Abdullah Hakim Tirmidhi mentioned the following in his book Nawadirul Wasil. Once Noble Prophet came to a group of companions who were sitting in the mosque, and said to them: Last night I saw strange things. I saw that one of my followers was surrounded by the punishment of the grave, when his ablations came and released him. Devils tried to frighten another follower of mine, when his remembering Allah came and rescued him. Angels of punishment had surrounded another follower of mine, when his prayers came and saved him.
Another follower of mine was on the verge of death due to extreme thirst, when ever he approached the cistern he was pushed away. Then his fast came and gave him to drink until he was satiated. Another follower of mine saw that the prophets were sitting in circles. He too, wanted to sit, but whenever he was about to do, so, he was made to leave. Then his purification bath came, took hold of his hand and made him sit next to me. A second follower of mine was enveloped in darkness from all sides, when suddenly his Hajj and Umrah came and brought him forth from the darkness to the light. Another follower of mine wanted to talk to the believers, but they would not talk to him. Then his strengthening the idea of kinship came and proclaimed: ‘Talk to him!’ So they talked to him. I saw another follower of mine who tried to ward off flames from his face, when his charity came to cover and protect his face, and it also shaded his head. Another follower of mine had been captured by the angels of punishment, when his bidding good and forbidding evil released him and brought him to the angels of mercy. Another follower of mine was kneeling on the ground, and there was a veil between him and his Lord, when his good moral character came, took hold of his hand and brought him into the proximity of his Lord. Another follower of mine was about to be given his record of deeds into his left hand. When his fear of Allah came and put his record right in front of him. Another follower of mine was standing at the edge of Hell, when his shivering (due to his fear of Allah) came and saved him. Another follower of mine was about to be thrown face down into Hell, when his crying (due to fear of Allah) and his tears came to save him. Another follower of mine was stumbling across the bridge ‘Sirat’, when his reciting Durud upon me came, took hold of his hand made him cross the bridge safely. Another follower of mine had reached the gates of Paradise, but it was closed. Right then his saying ‘La al ha la inu la’ came had the gate opened for him, and made him enter Paradise.

Qurratul ‘e, when mentioning this Hadith, said: “This is a great tradition. In it are mentioned certain deeds which shall save one from certain calamities.” (Tafsir Ibn Kathir, 3/71, 72)

An Ayat of the Holy Qur'an which confers honour

Imam Ahmad and Tabari recorded from Sayyidina Mu'az Zuhri that the Messenger of Allah said:

الحمد لله الذي لا إله إلا هو، وليكن له شريكًا في السلك، وليكن له ولياً من ذكرها وذكرها تبارك أبا

“This Ayat is the Ayat of Honour.” (Tafsir Madani 2/66)

Which creation was created on which day?

In Sehí Muslim and Sunan Nasai Sayyidina Abu Hurairah reported to have said: The Messenger of Allah, took hold of my hand and said: ‘Allah created dust and soil on Saturday. On Sunday, He created the mountains. On Monday, He created the trees. On Tuesday, He created all unpleasant things. On Wednesday, He created light. On Thursday, He created animals and Adam; ‘Allah was created on Friday after Adam and before nightfall’ (Tafsir Ibn Kathir 1/65)

Spend one Dirham for the sake of Allah and take ten Dirhams out of His treasure

Ubadah bin Muhammad bin Ishaq narrated that once a beggar came to Sayyidina Ali and said: ‘Sayyidina Hasan or Sayyidina Hussain, Go to your mother and tell her to give me one of the six Dirhams I had deposited with her.’ The child did as he was told. When he returned he said: ‘Mother says that you have kept these Dirhams to purchase flour.” Sayyidina Ali said: ‘A servant’s faith is not proven true until he relies more on what is in the treasuries of Allah than on what is with him. Tell your mother to send those six Dirhams. So she sent the money and Sayyidina Ali gave it to the beggar.

The narrator further mentioned that Sayyidina Ali had not left his seat yet when a man passed by, wanting to sell his camel. Sayyidina Ali asked him about its price. He said: ‘Its price is one hundred forty Dirhams.’ Sayyidina Ali said: ‘Tell him that I will pay you its price some time later. So the man tied the camel and left. A short while afterwards another man came and said: 'To whom does this camel belong?' Sayyidina Ali said: 'It is mine.' That man asked whether it was for sale. Sayyidina Ali replied in the affirmative. That man asked: 'How much is it?' 'Two hundred Dirhams', replied Sayyidina Ali. That man said: 'I purchased it for that amount.' and he handed the money over to Sayyidina Ali. Sayyidina Ali then gave one hundred forty Dirhams to the man from whom he had bought the camel, and the remaining sixty Dirhams he gave to Sayyidina Fatimah. She asked: 'What is this?' He said: 'This is what Allah has promised us through His Prophet. Whoever does good shall receive the like thereof tenfold.' (Surah An'âm, Ayat 181) (Hajjaj - Sahihah 2/201)

Reciting Azan into the ears of a grieved person

If one recites Azan into the ear of a grieved person, then his grief and worries will vanish. Sayyidina Ali narrated that once the Messenger of Allah informed me. He said: 'O son of Abu Taalib! Do you see me?' I said: 'Yes.' He said: 'Whoever gives himself in remembrance of Allah, it is given to him.' Then he said:

'Tell some of your family members to recite Azan into your ear, for this is a cure for grief.'

Sayyidina Ali said: 'This was done and my grief disappeared.' (Kanzul Umdah 2/638)

Reciting Azan into the ears of someone whose characters change for the worse

If anyone's character - whether human or animal - changes for the worse, then one should recite Azan into his ears. It has been recorded from Sayyidina Ali that the Messenger of Allah said:

'Sayyidina Ali said: 'I came to the Prophet with a man and his camel. The man said: 'I am going to the market. I do not know whether I shall return or not.' The Prophet smiled and said: 'Then recite Azan into his ears.' (Diyarim, Minhaj Shaukh Mubhchah 2/45)

Reciting Azan when pestered by Satan

When one feels pestered by Satan, then one should recite Azan aloud, because this causes Satan to run away. Sayyidina Suhail said: 'My father had sent me to Banu Hamtha. There was a child or someone with me. We passed by a wall when a voice called the name of my companion. He looked at the wall, but there was nothing. I mentioned this to my father. He said: 'Had I known that something like this would happen, I would not have sent you. But if you hear a voice, then recite Azan, because I heard Sayyidina Abu Huraira report that the Messenger of Allah said: 'If you recite Azan, then Satan runs away, fasting.' (Musnad Shafi, 9/158)

Reciting Azan when besegued by evil spirits

If one sees and evil spirit, then one should recite Azan aloud. Sayyidina Saad bin Abi Waqqas narrated: I heard the Messenger of Allah say:

'If evil spirits besegue you, then recite Azan.'

(Musnad Abdu Razzaq 5/163)

Some further instances when one should recite Azan

Besides the instances cited above, it is appropriate to recite Azan at the following occasions:

1) When a fire breaks out.
2) When encountering insidious enemies.
3) When one gets angry.
4) When a traveller forgets his way.
5) When one suffers from epilepsy. One should recite Azan on these occasions. In Imamad Fatawa it has been mentioned that it is a Sunnah to recite Azan on the following occasions:

1) Before the Farz prayer.
2) Reciting Azan into the ears of a new-born child.
Scattered Pearls

3) When a fire breaks out.
4) When fighting the infidels.
5) When devils frights a traveller.
6) When one is sad.
7) When a traveller forgets his way.
8) At times of anger.
9) When one suffers a fit of epilepsy.
10) When the character of a person or an animal changes for the worse. This has been mentioned by the author of Raddul Mukhtar, (Ma’bud Faw’i 1/165).

Twenty angels are with every human being during day and night

In Tafsir Ibn Jarir has been mentioned that once Sayyidina Uthman bin Affan came to the Noble Prophet, سلامة الله عليه وسلم, and asked him: ‘How many angels are with a person?’ The Messenger of Allah, سلامة الله عليه وسلم, said: ‘Toward the right is the angel who records virtues, who is in charge of the angel on the left. So if a person does a good deed, the angel on the right records it as ten good deeds. And if the person does any evil deed, then the angel on the left tells the angel on the right whether he should record it. The angel on the right says: ‘No wait a while.’ Thus the angel on the left takes percussion three times. If the person has not repented by then, the angel on the right says: ‘May Allah relieve us of this one. What an evil companion he is. He has no regard for Allah. He feels not ashamed of Him.’ Allah further stated that whatever is uttered by a person, there is an angel to record it. Then there are two angels in front of you and behind you Allah says:

一架 على نفسي من بين وحي ولامن حلاة يعطلاه من أم字母
One angel holds you by your hair. When you humble your self before Allah he raises your rank, and if you are proud, then he humbles you. Two angels are near your ears. They guard whatever Darud you recite for me. One angel guards your mouth, lest any snake or other obnoxious creature enters it. Two angels are near your eyes. Thus there are ten angels with each of the children of Adam. Then the angels which are with you during day-time are different from those who are with you during the night. Thus Allah has appointed twenty angels for each human being. (Tafsir Ibn Kathir 3/352).

Forgiveness of all sins on account of treating a Muslim with respect

Sayyidina Anas, ﷺ, narrated that Sayyidina Salman Farsi, ﷺ, once visited Sayyidina Umar bin al Khattab, ﷺ. On seeing Sayyidina Salman Farsi, ﷺ, Sayyidina Umar bin al Khattab, ﷺ, offered him his cushion upon this Sayyidina Salman Farsi, ﷺ, said: ‘Indeed, Allah’s Messenger spoke the truth.’

Sayyidina Umar bin al Khattab, ﷺ, said: ‘O Abu Abdullah, tell me what Allah’s Messenger said.’ Sayyidina Salman Farsi, ﷺ, said: ‘Once I went to the Noble Prophet, سلامة الله عليه وسلم, who was reclining on a cushion. He offered the cushion to me and said: ‘Salman, if a Muslim visits another Muslim, and the host treats him with respect, then Allah shall surely for give him.’ (Hajatul Sahaba, 2561).

A Prophetic prescription of how to avoid an evil death

Uthman bin Affan said that when Sayyidina Haritha bin Nu’man had lost his eye-sight, he had a rope tied from the place where he offered his prayers to the door of his room. When any poor person came, he would take out something from his basket, take hold of the rope go to the poorer and give him what ever he had to give. His family said to him: ‘We can go in stead of you.’ He said: ‘I heard the Messenger of Allah, سلامة الله عليه وسلم, say: ‘Giving something to a poor person with one’s own hand saves one from an evil death.’’ (Hajatul Sahaba, 7/234).

Allah does not look with mercy at a proud person

Sayyidah Aishah, ﷺ, narrated: once I wore a new shirt. I looked at it with pleasure, because I liked it. Sayyidah Abu Bakr, ﷺ, said: ‘What are you looking at? Allah does not look at you with mercy right now.’ I said: ‘How come?’ He said: ‘Don’t you know that if a person becomes conceited on account of his Feeding one's Wife a morsel carries the reward of charity

Sayyidah Aishah (رضي الله عنها) narrated: 'I took off that shirt and gave it in charity. Upon this Sayyidina Abu Bakr (رضي الله عنه) narrated: 'This might be an expiation for your act.' (Hadith-
Sabah 2/399)

Three advices which the pious-ancestors would give their friends

1) If a person works for the Hereafter then Allah suffices him with regard to this world.
2) If a person sets his inner self right, then Allah sets right his outward appearance.
3) If anyone sets right his relation with Allah then Allah sets right his relation with the other humans and world would come to him humbled. (Ma'rifah Qur'an, 4/679)

Sayyidina Umar's god-consciousness

Aya's bin Salama recorded that his father (Sayyidina Salama) said: One Sayyidina Umar bin Al Khattab (رضي الله عنه) was walking through the market. He had a whip in his hand with which he slightly stroke the hem of my clothes and said: 'Give way!' In the next year when we met, he said to me: Salama do you intend to go for Hajj I said: 'Yes!' He then took me by my hand, gave me six hundred Dirhams and said: 'Use them during your journey. They are in return for the time when I once struck, you with my whip.' I said: O Commander of the Faithful, I do not even remember that!' He said: 'But I do. (i.e. this incident was on my mind throughout the year.)' (Hadith-
Sabah 2/645)

A Prophetic prescription of how to save oneself from or despot's oppression

Abu Rafe related that Sayyidina Abdullah bin Ja'far (رضي الله عنه) (forced by circumstances), married his daughter to Hujjaj bin Yusuf. He said to her: 'When he enters upon you, then recite this dua:

لا اله الا الله الحليم الكريم سبحان الله ورب العرش العليم
Sayyidina Abdullah further said: 'Whenever the Noble Prophet was confronted with any difficult situation, he used to recite this Dua:

(Sayyidina Abdullah's daughter recited this Dua as a result of which Hajjaj bin Yusuf could not even get near to her.)

(Hajjaj – Sahihah 3/711)

A brief deed which yields tremendous benefit and reward

Imam Baghawi recorded a Hadith, according to which the Messenger of Allah said: Allah decreed that if anyone recites after each prayer surah Fatihah, Ayatul Kursi and some Ayat of surah Al-Ikhlas, namely the one beginning with 'الله لا إله إلا هو and the one beginning with 'الله هو الأعلى

and the Ayat beginning with 'فَإِنِّي أُعِينُكُمْ عِينَي

Then I shall build him a house in Paradise. I shall grant him a place in Haziratul Quds. I shall look at him with mercy seventy times each day. I shall fulfill seventy of his needs. I shall protect him against each anxious person and enemy, and I shall cause him to be triumphant. (Mustafiq Qur'an 2/47)

The Noble Prophet's Character

Once the Noble Prophet went to the market. One of his companions presented two Miswaks to him, which he happily accepted. One of those Miswaks was perfectly straight while the other was crooked. The Noble Prophet gave the straight one to the person who accompanied him and kept the crooked one for himself.
then you carry something evil of which you should rid yourself as soon as possible. (Hijayath - Sahabah 3/55)

Five phrases which Sayyidina Jibril taught to the Noble Prophet who in turn taught them to Sayyidah Fatimah who in turn taught them to the whole Ummah

Sayyidina Sa'waid bin Ghaflah narrated that once Sayyidina Ali was struck by famine. He said to Sayyidah Fatimah: 'May be you should go to the noble Prophet and ask him for something.' So Sayyidah Fatimah went to the Noble Prophet. Sayyidah Um Aiman was with him when Sayyidah Fatimah knocked the door, the Noble Prophet said: 'Who is敲门者?' and said to Sayyidah Um Aiman: 'It seems like Fatimah is knocking. How come she's coming at this time? She never came at such a time before.' Sayyidah Fatimah then entered and said: 'O Messenger of Allah! We are the angels' diet consists of flesh and blood. What does our diet consist of?' He replied: 'By Him who sent me with the truth, no fire was lit in the house of Muhammad in the last thirty days! I have received some goats, though. If you want, you can take five goats, or if you want I can teach you five phrases which Jibril had taught me.' Sayyidah Fatimah said: 'Teach me the five phrases which Jibril had taught you.' He said: 'Say:

Thereafter Sayyidah Fatimah left. When she came to Sayyidina Ali, he asked her what had happened. She said: 'I went there to take something pertaining to this world, but I brought something pertaining to the hereafter,' Sayyidina Ali said: 'Then this is the best of your days.' (Hijayath - Sahabah 3/56)
Scattered Pearls

Sayyidina Ali preferred religion over his worldly life and learnt five phrases from the Noble Prophet.

(Note: Nowadays a Muslim would say: ‘Please give me five thousand goats and teach me those five phrases as well.’)

Sayyidina Ali, narrated: Once the Noble Prophet ﷺ said to me: ‘Should I give you five thousand goats, or should I teach you your five phrases which shall set right your worldly affairs as well as your hereafter?’

I said: ‘O Messenger of Allah ﷺ, give me five thousand goats are way too many, but do teach me those five phrases.’ The Noble Prophet ﷺ said: ‘say:

الله يهنيئي، ينفح في ملكه ويدثب لي كشمي، وتنعى

O Allah, forgive my sins, and expand my moral character with whatever provision you grant me, and let me not long, for something which you have kept away from me.’ (Payatus - Sahihah 3/268)

The Sahabi who had the great fortune of prostrating on a spot which is superior even to the Arsh and the kursh!

Sayyidina Abu Khuzaimah ﷺ, narrated that once he saw a dream in which he was prostrating on the Noble Prophet’s forehead. He mentioned this dream to the Noble Prophet who then laid down and said: ‘Make your dream come true.’ So he prostrated on the Noble Prophet’s forehead. (Tanbouazan - Sunnah 2/256)

Justice between two wives

Yahya bin Saeed ﷺ, narrated that Sayyidina Muadh bin Jabal ﷺ had two wives. When it was the turn of one wife, he would not eat ablution in the house of the other wife. Then he and his wives traveled to Syria, where both of his wives fell ill at the same time. And strange are Allah’s ways! They also died at the same time. The people were very busy on that day. So both wives were buried in one grave. Sayyidina Muadh bin Jabal ﷺ, drew lots in order to decide which of his wives should be kept in the grave first.

Yahya bin Saeed ﷺ further said: Sayyidina Muadh bin Jabal had two wives. When he was with one of them, he would not even have water from the house of the other. (Payatus - Sahihah 2/769)

Sayyidina Ibn Abbas ﷺ said: ‘I bear witness that I heard Sayyidina Ibn Abbas ﷺ say: I bear witness that I heard Sayyidina Umar ﷺ recite the Talbiyah. We were at that time in the plain of Arafat. One person asked him: ‘Do you know when Sayyidina Ibn Abbas ﷺ recited the Talbiyah?’ Umar ﷺ said: ‘I don’t know. (This he said out of precaution) the people were amazed by Sayyidina Ibn Abbas’ recitation and precaution.’ (Payatus - Sahihah 2/769)

The punishment of slandering a Muslim

Sayyidina Ali Murtaza ﷺ, related that if anyone looks down upon a Muslim man or woman because of his/her poverty, then, on the Day of Judgement Allah shall humble and disgrace such a person in front of all the former and the latter generations. And if anyone slanders a Muslim man or woman, attributing any vice to him/her, then, on the Day of Judgement Allah shall cause such a person to stand on a mount of Fire until he denies himself. (Musannaf Qur’an 1/601)

Whether it is permissible to write ‘Bismillah’ in the beginning of a letter.

It is a Sunnah to commence a letter with ‘Bismillah’, but the honorable jurists have deducted the following rule from the texts of the Holy Qur’an and the Sunnah, that if there is apprehension that a paper on which Allah’s name is written, is treated without due respect, if there is apprehension that such a paper is thrown away, then it is not permissible to write ‘Bismillah’ or any of Allah’s names. Otherwise one would himself become guilty of disrespect. Everyone knows what happens nowadays to letters which people write to one another. Sooner or later they land in the gutter or any other dirty place. Hence, it seems appropriate to say 'Eisnillah' (rather than to write it) when commencing a letter, so as to discharge the Sunnah. (Ma'ajrin Qur'an 6:357)

Those two Ayaat which the Beneficent Himself wrote two thousand years before the creation:

It has been recorded from Sayyidina Tm Albasid that the Messenger of Allah سے محمد ﷺ said: 'Allah sent down two Ayaat which are among the treasures of Paradise. The Beneficent Himself wrote these two Ayaat two thousand years before the creation. If anyone recites them after the Isha-prayer, then it shall be as though he had offered the Tahajjud-prayer.

In Mustadrak Hakim and Baihaqi comes the Messenger of Allah سے محمد ﷺ said: 'Allah concluded Surah Baqarah with those two Ayaat which were sent down upon me from the treasury beneath the Arsh. Hence memorize those Ayaat and teach them also to your women and children'. This is why Sayyidina Umar Faruq said: 'No person in his right mind should go to sleep without reciting these two Ayaat.

(Note: These Ayaat are the last two Ayaat of Surah Baqarah) (Ma'ajrin Qur'an 1/492)

How the Noble Prophet treated Sayyidina Hudaibah

Sayyidina Hudaibah, narrated: Once during the month of Ramadan I offered the prayer along with the Noble Prophet صلى الله عليه وسلم. Therefore he took a bath, and I accompanied him. (After he completed his bath) there was some water left in the vessel. The Noble Prophet صلى الله عليه وسلم said: 'If you want you can take a bath with this water, and if you want to you can add more water to it.' I said: 'O Messenger of Allah صلى الله عليه وسلم I prefer the water you left over on larger quantity of water.' So I took a bath from this water the Noble Prophet صلى الله عليه وسلم said: 'Ibn Hudaibah, set aside the vessels you find difficult.' (Ma'ajrin Qur'an 1/492) scanned me. I said: 'There is no need for you to screen me.' He said: 'no, I shall screen you, just as you had screened me.' (Fayadhah - Sahabah 2/667)

An effective method of having one's prayers accepted

The mashaaih and scholars have written with regard to the virtues of reciting سے اللہ ﷺ يتمرن الوکل that if one recites one thousand times with conviction and firm faith and then prays for something, then Allah shall not reject the prayer. One should also recite this Ayaat when one is overcome by worries and anxieties. (Ma'ajrin Qur'an 2/244)

In one Hadith has been mentioned: 'I fear for my Ummah with regard to three things: One, that there shall be much wealth, because of which my followers shall envy one another, and shed each other's blood. Two that the book of Allah is laid open (i.e. that everyone claims to understand it because of having read a translation thereof) and that people try to understand what cannot be understood by anyone but Allah (i.e. those Ayaat which are known as Mutashabihat). Three, that the people's knowledge increases and then they waste it, and that they give up the zeal to increase knowledge.' (Ma'ajrin Qur'an 2/21)

Protection against each evil

In Musnad Bazzar has been related from Sayyidina Abu Hurairah that the Messenger of Allah صلى الله عليه وسلم said: 'If someone recites the Ayat-ul-kursi and the first three verses of surah Ghafir in the morning, then he shall be protected against each unpleasant occurrence and evil throughout the day.' Tirmidhi, too, recorded this. There is however difference of opinion regarding one of the transmitters of this Hadith. (Tafir Ibn Kathir 8/228, Musnad Qur'an 7/701)

Protection against one's enemy

Imam Abu Dawud and Imam Tirmidhi recovered the following from Sayyidina Mihrab bin Abi Sufrah who said that the following was related to him by a person who heard the Messenger of Allah صلى الله عليه وسلم say: 'When you are
A strange incident

Thabit bin Banani related that once he went with Sayyidina Musaab bin Zuhayr somewhere. The former went into an orchard after dinner. He said: Before the prayer I recited Ya Rabb, help me. The Prophet (peace be upon him) replied: 'Ya Rabb, help me.' When suddenly I saw a person dressed in Yamani clothes. He said to me: you write. He recited: Fath al-Qadir (Peace be upon him). He then said: Ya Rabb, accept my repentance and when you recite: Fath al-Qadir (Peace be upon him). Then said: Ya Rabb, no one has seen me dressed in Yamani clothes. They however denied having seen any such person. In one more tradition has been mentioned that the people considered this person to be Sayyidina Iyaz. (Bukhari, Al-Adab, 7686)

An effective prescription for a blessed sustenance

Maulana Shibli Ahmad Ghari Phulpuri stated that the following had been related from Jannat Fajri Imadullah. He said: if anyone recites regularly the following ayat in the morning, then he shall be protected against indigence. He further said that this is a highly effective prescription. This is the Ayat:

لا يغيب نور من يشاء وهو القوي العزيز

[Al-Fatiha 1:7]

How Sayyidina Umar turned a reprobate into a religious minded person

Bint Katir related from Ibn Abi Hatim that among the people of Syria there was a very strong man with an impression figure who used to come to Sayyidina Umar. After some time that person stopped coming. Sayyidina Umar one day asked the people about his whereabouts. The people said: O commander of the faithful, do not ask about him. He has taken to drinking and remains intoxicated most of the time.' Sayyidina Umar at that time called for his writer and said to him: write:

من عمر بن الخطاب إلى شأن ابن قناعة، سأل عليه بن أحمد محمد بن عبد الله الذي لا يسيئ غيظ الناس وقيله به تدبر عمق تدبر فبلغوا ندم في الطول ولا للاهو أمه المحضر.

From Umar bin Al-Khattab to such... and... such, son of such and such. After greeting you with 'Salam' I praise Allah besides whom there is no god, in your presence. He is the Forgiver of sin, acceptor of repentance, severe in punishing, full of might. There is no god except Him. Unto Him is the return.

Then he requested all those who were present to pray for that person, that Allah may turn his heart (toward obedience) and accept his repentance. Sayyidina Umar then said to one of his Messengers to hand over the letter to that person until he has become sober, and not to give it to anyone else. When the person received the letter, he read it again and again, pondering over its contents, that contains a warning of punishment as well as a promise of forgiveness. Then he began to cry and repented with such a repentance after which he never ever went close to liquor.
Scattered Pearls

When Seyyidina Umar رضى الله عنه got to know about this he said: 'Cases like this should be treated in this manner. If you see your brother involved in any vice, then think how you can get him back on the right path. Let him hope for Allah's mercy. Pray for him, and do not become Satan's aide with regard to him, then means do not scold him so as to make him angry which could cause him to drift farther and farther away from religion. This would be naught but helping Satan.' (Ibn Kathir) (Ma'ariful Quran 75:86)

How poorly the Muslims were equipped during the Battle of Badr

The Messenger of Allah ﷺ departed from Madinah Munawwarah on the twelfth of Ramadhan. He was accompanied by 313, 314 or may be 315 men. They were so poorly equipped that the whole group had only two horses and seventy camels. One horse belonged to Sayyidina Zubair bin Awam رضى الله عنه and the other horse belonged to Sayyidina Mas'ood رضى الله عنه. One camel was shared by two, three men. Sayyidina Abdullah bin Mas'ood رضي الله عنه narrated that one of the occasions of the Battle of Badr three men shared one camel, and they would turn in riding. Sayyidina Abu Lubabah رضي الله عنه, Sayyidina Ali رضي الله عنه, and the Messenger of Allah ﷺ, had shared one camel. When it was the Noble Prophet's turn to walk, Sayyidina Abu Lubabah رضي الله عنه and Sayyidina Ali رضي الله عنه said: 'O Messenger of Allah, keep seated. We shall walk instead of you.' To this he said: 'You are not stronger than me, nor do I stand less in need of Divine reward than you.' (Secret - e - Mustafa 2:58)

The story of the Noble Prophet's son-in-law, Abul Aas bin Rabii

Among the captives taken on the Day of Badr, there was also the Noble Prophet's son-in-law Abul Aas bin Rabii. He was the husband of the Noble Prophet's Daughter Sayyidah Zainab رضي الله عنها. The Noble Prophet's Khadijah رضي الله عنها was married to Abul Aas at her mother's behest, prior to the commencement of the prophetic mission. Abul Aas was an affluent, honest trader, all the daughters of Allah's Messenger ﷺ accepted Islam. Abul Aas however persisted in his paganistic practices. The Quraysh pressurized him to divorce the daughter of Allah's Messenger ﷺ as long as he was not just as the sons of Abu Lahab had done, promising him to marry him to any girl he likes. Abul Aas however refused. He said that no woman of the world attracts him as compared to a noble lady like Sayyidah Zainab.

When the Quraysh set out to fight at Badr, Abul Aas, too was among them. He was captured along with many others. When the people of Makkah sent money to ransom the captives, Sayyidah Zainab رضي الله عنها sent the necklace which was given to her by her mother on the occasion of her marriage. The Noble Prophet's eyes welled up with tears when he saw the necklace. He said to his companions: 'If you deem it appropriate, then we shall ransom the captive and let this captive go without any ransom.' The companions readily agreed. Thus the captive was freed and the necklace returned. The Noble Prophet ﷺ however took Abul Aas' promise that he would send Sayyidah Zainab to Madinah as soon as he reached Makkah. On reaching Makkah, Abul Aas allowed Sayyidah Zainab رضي الله عنها to go to Madinah, accompanied by his brother kinah bin Rabii.

Kinaanah made Sayyidah Zainab رضي الله عنها mount the camel right at noon-time. He fetched his quiver full of arrows and his bow and thus the journey began. The Quraysh heavily disliked it that the daughter of the Messenger's ﷺ daughter left Makkah so openly, so Abu Sufyan and others went to Dhi Tuwa and stopped the travelers. They said: 'We are in no need of stopping Muhammad's daughter from traveling, but it is a matter of disgrace for us if she leaves so openly. Hence it seems appropriate that you take her back to Makkah right now and leave any time during the night.' Kinaanah accepted this offer. However before that, Habbar bin Aswad (who later on accepted Islam) had stopped the camel and intimidated, Sayyidah Zainab رضي الله عنها. She was pregnant at that time, but suffered an abortion due to intense fear. This caused Kinaah to take his bow and arrows and say, "If anyone dares to get near that camel I shall shoot him with my arrows until his body resembles a sieve."

In short, Kinaah returned to Makkah, and after spending two, three nights there, they rescued their journey during night-time. The Messenger of Allah had ordered Sayyidina Zaid bin Harithah and one man belonging to the Ansar to wait at a place called 'Batan Yajij', and to accompany Sayyidah Zainab, from there to Al Madinah. When they arrived at Batan Yajij and met Kinaah in Rabii', Kinaah went back to Makkah, while Zaid bin Harithah, and his companion accompanied Sayyidah Zainab to Al Madinah. She arrived there one month after the Battle of Badr.

Sayyidah Zainab started living with her august father, and while Abul Aas continued to live in Makkah.

Prior to the conquest of Makkah, Abul Aas went on a business trip to Syria. Since the people of Makkah considered him as reliable and trustworthy, they too, had invested in this trip. On the way back, Abul Aas was intercepted by a handful of Muslims. They confiscated all his goods, while he himself somehow managed to escape to Al Madinah, where he sought shelter with Sayyidah Zainab.

In the morning when the Messenger of Allah came to lead the prayer, Sayyidah Zainab proclaimed from the women's section of the mosque: "O people, I have granted Abul Aas shelter and refuge." After the prayer, the Messenger of Allah turned toward the people and said:

"O people! Did you hear what I heard?" They said: "Yes." He said: "By Him in whose hands is my soul! I had no knowledge thereof until I heard what you heard. Indeed, even the most humble of Muslims is in a position to grant shelter and refuge."

He then went to his daughter and said: "My daughter, show him all respect that is due to him but do not get intimate with him, for you are not lawful for him, (i.e. you are a Muslim and he is a pagan).

He then said to the troop who had intercepted Abul Aas: "You know about my relations with him, (i.e Abul Aas). So if you deem it appropriate, then return his goods to him, otherwise consider it as a gift from Allah; which you are deserving of! The Noble Prophet had hardly finished, when the companions started returning the goods. They brought vessels, ropes, numbers, in short every thing, one piece after the other.

Abul Aas then set out to Makkah along with the goods. He gave all those who had invested their due share. After having settled accounts, he said:

"O people of Quraish! Are the belongings of any of you left with me, which he still has to take?" they said: "No, may Allah reward you well. We found you to be faithful generous," he said: "So I bear witness that there is no god except Allah and that Muhammad (صلى الله عليه وسلم) is the Messenger of Allah. By Allah, nothing had prevented me from accepting Islam (before that), except the fear of eating your wealth. But now that Allah returned it to you and now that I am relieved of it, I accepted Islam."

Thereafter Sayyidina Abul Aas left Makkah and went to Al Madinah, where the Messenger of Allah restored marital relations between him and Sayyidah Zainab (صلى الله عليه وسلم). (Seerat - v. Mustafa 2/174)
A virtuous wife

In one Hadith the Messenger of Allah is reported to have said: "If a woman is obedient to her husband, then the birds in the air pray for her forgiveness. The fish in the water pray for her forgiveness, the angels in heaven pray for her forgiveness, and the wild animals in the jungle pray for her forgiveness." (Bukhari Hadith, (Ma'rifat Qur'an 25/59)

Three types of wrong-doing

One type of wrong-doing is such that Allah never forgives it. One type is such that it might be forgiven, and the third is such that Allah does not forgive without taking reprisal first.

The first kind of wrong-doing is associating partners with Allah. The second kind of wrong-doing is any mistake committed with regard to the rights of Allah. The third kind of wrong-doing is any violation of the rights of Allah's servants. (Imam Khatib, with reference to Musnad Bazzaar) (Ma'rifat Qur'an 25/59)

The first Eid-prayer ever offered in Islam

After returning from Badr, on the first of Shawwal, the Noble Prophet offered the Eid-prayer. This was the first Eid-ul-Fitr. (Zarqani, 1/454) (Seerat-e-Mustafa 2/133)

The companion who belongs to the people of Paradise without having offered even a single prayer

Amr bin Thabit who was better known by the appellation Usairam had kept aloof from Islam and Muslims. On the day of Uhud however, Islam took root in his heart. He seized his sword and went to the battle-field where he fought the infidels until he fell wounded to the ground. When the people realized who he was, they were rather amazed. They asked him: "O Amr, what caused you to fight? Was it an inclination toward Islam or was it your sense of honour, and an urge to support your people?" Sayyidina Usairam replied:

One who supports a wrong-doer is himself a wrong-doer

In the Tafsir 'Ruh-ul-Ma'ani' the following Hadith has been cited in the interpretation of the Ayat:

لا يكون له عين إذًا للمجرمين

The Messenger of Allah is reported to have said: On the day of Judgement a proclamation shall be made: 'Where are the wrong-doers and those who helped them?' Thereafter even those who set straight the iniquities and punish a wrong-doer shall be put into a box made of iron and cast into Hell. (Ma'rifat Qur'an 5/25)

An important advice given by Sayyidina Umar bin Abdul Aziz

Sayyidina Umar bin Abdul Aziz wrote the following advice to a person: "I enjoin you to be God-conscious (i.e. to have Taqwa), without which no good deed is accepted, and mercy is shown only to God-conscious people, and god-consciousness is a thing without which one does not get reward for anything. There are many who preach, but only few who act.

Sayyidina Ali Murtaza said: "No deed remains small if it was performed with God-consciousness, and how could one call a deed small when it found acceptance in the Divine court?" (al Kithir) (Mu'atta' Qur'an 3/114)

As long as your ablution remains intact, the angels shall record virtues for you.

It has been recorded from Sayyidina Abu Humairah that the Messenger of Allah said to him: "When you perform wudu, the effect there of will be that the recording angels shall record virtues on your behalf as long as your ablution remains intact." (Mu'atta' Hadith 3/75)

A strange parable concerning minor and major sins

In the Musnad Ahmad has been mentioned that once Sayyidah Aishah wrote to Sayyidina Muawiyah: "If a person disobeys Allah, then even those who used to praise him begin to blame him, and even his friends become his enemies. Not worrying about sins leads to a man's destruction."

In an authentic Hadith the Messenger of Allah is reported to have said: "If a person commits a sin, then a black spot appears on his heart. Then, if he repents and seek for forgiveness, this spot is erased. And if he does not repent, then this spot continues to grow until it covers the whole heart, and this is referred to as 'Rain' in the Holy Qur'an.

There is a cover over their hearts because of what they used to earn.

But as for as the outcomes of sins are concerned, one needs to distinguish between minor and major sins. A saint once said: "The parable of minor and major sins is like that of a small and a big scorpion, or like that of a small and a big spark of fire. Man can not bear the pain caused by either of them. This is why

Muhammad bin Kaab Qurzi said: "The greatest act of worship is to refrain from sins. There are people who regularly offer Namaz-E-Ibrihim, but they do not give up sins, so their worship does not find acceptance in the Divine court."

Fudlall bin Ayyadh said: "The less significant you consider a sin to be, the more heinous it is in the sight of Allah."

The pious ancestors used to say that each sin is a Messenger of infidelity which calls towards the deeds and character of an infidel." (Mu'atta' Qur'an 2/504)

The agreement which Allah Himself wrote and which is kept in this custody

In the Sahih Muslim is a Hadith in which Sayyidina Abu Humairah recorded from the Messenger of Allah: "When Allah created the universe (and all what it contains), He inscribed something on a tablet what is in His custody. He wrote:

"Indeed, My mercy shall overcome my anger." (Mu'atta' Qur'an 3/506)

If the people do good deeds, then they shall be governed by a righteous person, and if they do evil deeds, then they shall be governed by a wicked person.

In Mishkat comes with reference to a tradition recorded by Abu Naeeem, that the Messenger of Allah said: "There is no god besides Me. I am the Sovereign and King of all kings. Their hearts are in My grasp. If My servants obey Me, then I fill the hearts of their kings and rulers with pity and mercy toward their subjects. And if My servants disobey Me, then I cause the hearts of their kings and rulers to become hard, and they inflict all sorts of punishments and their subjects. So do not waste your time by speaking ill of your rulers. Rather turn to Allah and think about setting your affairs right, so that I may set things right for you." Abu Dawud and Nasai recorded something similar from Sayyidah Aishah.
The sharia ruling regarding a universal disaster.

It is not permissible to watch cricket matches on TV. Doing so comprises several sins and evils. The first sin is to intentionally watch the pictures of those who play. This has been mentioned by Mufti Muhammad Shafi Usmani in Jami' al-Arba'in (Jama'atul Taleeq 3/339). On television the pictures of innumerable people are shown, and each picture one looks at is a new sin.

The second sin is that of looking pictures of women who are present in the stadium, and which are shown off and on during the match.

The third sin is that of purchasing a T.V. and keeping it in one's home, even if one does not use it. This has been mentioned in Fatwa Mubtada (Jama'atul Taleeq 3/28). If someone purchases musical instruments and other things which cause one to become neglectful, then he has committed an act which is abominable to the degree of unlawfulness (Makkah - Taleeq). A sin, even if one does not use those instruments, because one normally keeps things like that in order cheer up oneself. Fatwa Mubtada 338)

The forth sin is that of giving up the congregational prayer, as one commonly observes.

The fifth evil is that of wasting one's precious time. The sixth evil is that of engaging oneself in a useless activity, whereas a Hadith has been stated that the virtue of Islam consists of giving up what is of no use to one. The seventh evil is that one becomes neglectful of important religious and worldly affairs, as one commonly observes. The eighth evil is that one gets familiar with television, which leads to many other evils and sins.

The evil and sins of listening to commentaries

The first sin is that of giving up the congregational prayer; the second evil is that of engaging oneself in a useless activity, whereas Allah Most High has stated in the Holy Qur'an that one of the conditions of success is to keep away from useless activities. Shahih Bukhari 33.48)

The third evil is wasting of time, whereas Allah Most High has in the Holy Qur'an taken an oath ‘By the time’ so as to teach His servants the value of time.

The fourth evil is that one becomes oblivious of Divine Remembrance and the hereafter.

The fifth evil is that one's worldly affairs suffer, too, as is commonly observed.

(Mbnt Muhammad Adam Bakhsh
Fatwa Mubtada (Jama'atul Taleeq 3/28).

Who deserves the curse of Allah and His Messenger?

In one Hadith the Messenger of Allah is reported to have said: 'There are six kinds of people whom I have cursed, and whom Allah has cursed, and the invocations of a prophet are readily accepted these six kinds of people are:

1. The one who adds something to the book of Allah
2. The one who has come to power through tyranny and oppression and who honours the one whom Allah has disgraced, and who disgraces the one whom Allah has honoured.

3. The one who denies Divine pre-ordainment.

4. The one who considers as lawful what has been declared unlawful by Allah.

5. Those among my offspring who make lawful what has been declared unlawful.

6. The one who gives up my Sunnah. (Bukhari, taken from Al-Mukhtār)

In another tradition comes that the Messenger of Allah ﷺ said: “Allah has cursed the one who casts a glance and the one who is glanced at.” This however is only in case the one who was glanced at did have any such intentions (i.e. of attracting others).

Sayyidah Abu Hurairah ﷺ reported that the Messenger of Allah ﷺ said: “Cursed is man who disposes women’s clothing, and cursed is a woman who disposes men’s clothing.” (Musnad)

Someone once said to Sayyidah Ayshah ﷺ: “There is a woman who wears man’s shoes.” Sayyidah Ayshah replied: “The Messenger of Allah ﷺ cursed women who adopt men’s fashion.”

Sayyidah Ina’ Abas reported that the Messenger of Allah ﷺ cursed men who effeminise themselves and roam around as transvestites, and he cursed such women who imitated men’s clothes. In the Sahih Bukhari has been mentioned that Sayyidinā Abdullah bin Mas’ud reported: “Allah’s curse is on the one who tattoos and the one who gets tattooed, and on those who pluck the hair of eyebrows so as to make them thinner, and Allah’s curse be on those women who (artificially) create a space between teeth in order to appear beautiful, on those who bring about a change in what Allah has created. (Ma’ani al-Qur’ān 2:935)

Entrusting a post (of responsibility) to an undeserving person

In one Hadith the Messenger of Allah ﷺ is reported to have said: “Any person who has been entrusted a certain responsibility by the common Muslims. And then he gives another person a post of responsibility, merely on account of friendship and without knowing him to be deserving thereof, then such a person is cursed by Allah. Neither his obligatory acts of worship are accepted, nor the voluntary ones, until he is made to enter Hell.” (Jami al-Sunna p.325)

In some traditions comes that if a person has given any other person a post of responsibility, although he knew that there are people who are more suitable for that post, than he has betrayed Allah, the Messenger of Allah ﷺ and all the Muslims. The state of squatters and in ruin which is now a days so rampant among Muslim governments is naught but the out come of ignoring the teachings of the Holy Qur’ān, posts are allotted on account of recommendations and bribes, the result of which is that incapable, undeserving people hold important offices thus putting Allah’s creatures into trouble. The whole system of governance is ruined because of that. This is why the Messenger of Allah ﷺ said: “When posts (of responsibility) are entrusted to undeserving people, then wait for the Hour.” (This has been mentioned in Sahih Bukhari, in the Book of knowledge). (Ma’ani al-Qur’ān 2:446)

One peculiarity of Surah An’ām

In some traditions it has been related from Sayyidinā Ali that if this Surah (i.e. Surah An’ām) is recited near a patient, then Allah shall cure him. (Ma’ani al-Qur’ān 3:512)

A tear which has been shed due to fear of Allah and the Hereafter shall extinguish even the greatest fire of Hell
Scattered Pearls

In one Hadith it is said that the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) said: ‘A person’s Du’aa is accepted as long as he does not pray for anything sinful or the severing of the ties of kinship, and as long as he does not make haste; the noble companions replied: ‘What does making haste mean?’ The Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) said: ‘It means that a person begins to think that I have been praying for so long, but my du’aa has not been accepted yet, until he gets frustrated and gives up praying unto Allah.’

In another Hadith it is said that the Noble Prophet (peace be upon him) said: ‘When you pray, then pray in such a manner that there remains no doubt within you regarding the acceptance of your prayer.’ (Wa’ilufi Qura’an 3/94)

The Noble Prophet’s companionship is independent of colour and race

Tabarani recorded the following from SayyidatnAbdullaha bin Umar (peace be upon him): One Abyssian presented himself to the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) and said: ‘O Messenger of Allah, I hear you are distinguished from us by your hand some features, your beautiful complexion as well as prophet hood and Messengership. If I was to believe in what you believe, and if I was to do the same deeds you do, then can I be together with you in paradise?’

The Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) said: ‘Yes, for sure! (Do not worry about your looks). I swear by Him in whose hands my soul is, in Paradise people of dark complexion shall become fair and attractive. Their faces shall be so radiant that the gleam there of is visible over a distance of one thousand years. And Allah Himself has taken the responsibility of every person who says: ‘I believe in Allah, and if a person ever says then I shall be forty thousand virtues shall be written to his credit.’

On hearing this, one of the people said, ‘O Messenger of Allah, if when Allah rewards good deeds so generously, then how could we ever perish or be overtaken by punishment?’ The Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) said: ‘Nay, rather on the Day of Judgement some people shall have good deeds which...’

Don’t give up to pray unto Allah because of frustration

The weight of a scholar’s ink and a martyr’s blood

Imam Zahabi recorded from SayyidatnImam bin Husain that the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) said: ‘On the day of Judgement, the ink which was used by a scholar to put religious knowledge and injunctions into writing, and the martyrs’ blood shall be weighed. The scholar’s ink however shall turn out to be heavier than the martyr’s blood.’ (Wa’ilufi Qura’an 3/235)

The first obligation after faith is to cover one’s nakedness

Covering one’s nakedness has been declared to be the first obligation after faith. Prayers, fasting, and so on come only thereafter. Sayyidatn Omar Faruq narrated that the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) said: ‘When a person dons a new dress, when he should pray thus:

الحمد لله الذي كسبنا ما أورى به عورتي واتجه به في حياني

‘Praise be to Allah who gave me this (dress) through which I cover my nakedness and adorn myself during my lifetime.’

He also said that if a person, after donning new clothes, gives his old clothing to the poor and needy, then he has come under Allah’s protection and care, during all circumstances of his life and death. (Sunan Kudai, with reference to Nawm Ahmad) (Wa’ilufi Qura’an 3/534) would weigh down a mountain, if one were to place them on a mountain, but them if these good deeds are compared to Allah's blessings, and they had none their weight, except Allah shows mercy during the conversation with the Abyssinian, the following Ayat of Surah Dahr was revealed:

\[\text{O Messenger of Allah, shall my eyes behold the same bounties which your blessed eyes shall behold?} \]

The Messenger of Allah said: 'Yes, for sure.' When the Abyssinian heard this, he began to cry bitterly. He cried until his soul departed from his mortal confines. The Messenger of Allah then himself shrouded him. (Mat'ariful Qur'an 2/619)

The mosque and congregation

'Abdul-Maimon stated that the Noble Prophet's companions said: 'Mosques are Allah's houses on earth. If anyone visits those houses in order to meet Allah, then He has taken it upon Himself to honour such a person.' (Bukhari, Schu'da'lam, Abdur-Razzag, Ibn Jarir and Buhay, Shu' ada)

Buildings of mosques here refers to keeping a mosque populated for the sake of worship, Divine remembrance, and the dissemination of Quranic teachings as well as other religious knowledge.

1. Sayyidina Abu Said Khudri narrated that the Messenger of Allah said: 'If you see a person frequently visiting the mosque (i.e. he heads for the mosque as soon as he is free from work), then bear witness to his being a believer, because Allah Most High said:

\[\text{إنا نصر الله مع سعد الله من ابن بالله واليوم الآخر} \]

(Tirmidhi, Daraami, Al-Bukhari)

2. Sayyidina Abu Hurairah narrated that the Messenger of Allah said: 'If a person goes to the mosque mornings and evenings, then whenever he goes Allah arranges for him a house in Paradise. (Agreed upon)

3. Sayyidina Abu Hurairah narrated that the Messenger of Allah said: 'Seven people shall be shamed by Allah on the Day on which there is no shade except Allah's shade. The Messenger of Allah then enumerated those seven people, and he also mentioned a person whose heart is attached to the mosque (i.e. when he leaves the mosque, he keeps thinking about the mosque). (Agreed upon)

4. Sayyidina Salman narrated that the Messenger of Allah said: 'If anyone performs wudu' well and leaves his home, heading for the mosque, then he is like one who meets Allah (i.e. he is Allah's guest), and it is the best's duty to honour his guest. (Tirmidhi, Abu-Dawud, Ibn Jarir and Buhay, Shu' ada)

5. Sayyidina Abu Hurairah narrated that the Messenger of Allah said: 'If anyone performs wudu' well and leaves his home, heading for the mosque, then he is like one who meets Allah (i.e. he is Allah's guest), and it is the best's duty to honour his guest. (Tirmidhi, Abu-Dawud, Ibn Jarir and Buhay, Shu' ada)

6. It has been mentioned in a Hadith that those who populate the mosques are friends of Allah.

7. In one Hadith it has been mentioned that when Allah casts a glance at His mosques, then He averts His punishment from a whole people.

8. In one Hadith it has been mentioned that Allah Most High says: 'By My Glory and Majesty! I wish to mete out punishment to those who dwell on earth, but when I cast a glance at those who populate My houses, and those who love each other for My sake, and those who seek forgiveness in the hours before dawn, then I avert My punishment.'

9. Ibn Asakir mentioned that Satan is like a wolf for man, he is just like a wolf that attacks goats which stray, from the herd, so save yourselves from differences and contention, and hold fast upto the Jama'ah, the general body of Muslims and the mosques.
(Tafsir Ibn Kathir 2/238)

Some of the peculiarities of the Muslim Ummah which were mentioned in Sayyidina Musa's tablets and Sayyidina Musa's desire to belong to this Ummah

Qatada stated the following regarding: When Sayyidina Musa found the following words inscribed in the tablets: 'There shall be an Ummah of excellence which shall always bid good and forbid evil.' He said: 'O Lord, let it be my Ummah!' Upon this Allah replied: 'O Musa, this shall be Ahmad's Ummah.' Sayyidina Musa then said: 'O Lord, in the tablets is made mention of an Ummah which shall appear last (in this world), but they shall be the first to enter Paradise. O Lord, let it be my Ummah!' Allah said: 'This shall be Ahmad's Ummah.' He then said: 'O Lord, let it be my Ummah!' Allah said: 'This shall be Ahmad's Ummah.' He then said: 'O Lord, let it be my Ummah!' Allah said: 'This shall be Ahmad's Ummah.' He then said: 'In the tablets is mentioned that they shall intercede for others, and that others shall intercede for them. O Lord, let it be my Ummah!' Allah said: 'No, rather this shall be Ahmad's Ummah.'

Qatada further stated that Sayyidina Musa then put down the tablets and said: 'O Lord, let me belong to Ahmad's Ummah.' (Tafsir Ibn Kathir 2/223 – 224)

Almost the same tradition has been mentioned in Tafsir –e-Mazhari.

Even the dreams of evil-doers and infidels are true at times

It is learnt from the Holy Qur'an and the Sunnah, as well as from various experiences, that sometimes even evil-doers, transgressors and infidels see true dreams. In the Holy Qur'an, in Surah Yusuf, has been made mention of the dreams which Sayyidina Yusuf's companion is prison had seen, as well as the dream which the ruler of Egypt had seen, although these three were non-Muslims. In the sacred Ahadith mention has been made of Khosro's dream. This dream was related to the commencement of Sayyidina Muhammad's Prophetic mission, and this dream was true dream, and that although Khosro was an infidel. Atika, the paternal aunt of Allah's Messenger, too, saw a dream pertaining to his august person, while she was an infidel. The dream which the infidel king Nebukadnezzar had seen and which the Prophet Danial had interpreted for him, was a true dream. From this is learnt that if a person sees a dream, and this dream turns out to be true, then this is not necessarily a proof for the integrity, ploy or faith of that person. Yes, true dreams are usually seen by righteous persons, whereas wicked people usually see dreams which result from their desires or which are instigations from Satan, but at times it happens otherwise. Any way, true dreams are — as has been explicitly stated in the sacred Hadith — either glad tidings for the Muslim Ummah, or a warning. They are nothing more than that. Under no circumstances are dreams to be considered a legal proof, neither with regard to oneself nor with regard to others. Some simple-minded people — after seeing any such dream — fall prey to all kinds of devilish whisperings. Some consider such a dream to be an indication of their saintliness, while others consider them equal to any shaiti’s injunction. All these things are however baseless, especially if one knows that quite often such dreams become intermingled with all sorts of vain imaginations and devilish whisperings. (Muhammad Quran 59)

The Virtue of ‘Chillah’

In one Hadith the Messenger of Allah is reported to have said that if a person worships Allah with sincerity for forty days, then Allah causes springs of wisdom to gush forth from his heart. (Rah - al-Bayy), (Muhammad Quran 958)

That fortunate companion who resembled the Messenger of Allah

On the day of Uhud the Standard – bearer of the Muslims, Sayyidina Mus’ab bin Umar رضي الله عنه kept close to the Messenger of Allah سل الله عليه وسلم. He fought the infidels until he was martyred. Thereafter the standard was handed over to Sayyidina Ali رضي الله عنه.

Since Sayyidina Mus’ab رضي الله عنه resembled the Messenger of Allah سل الله عليه وسلم, Satan spread the rumour that the Messenger of Allah سل الله عليه وسلم was martyred. (Sure - e-Mustafæ 2/205)

An important counsel

1. Adab is the means to properly understand religious knowledge.

2. Religious knowledge causes one’s deeds to be rectified.
3. Deeds are the means to attain wisdom.
4. Wisdom is the foundation of abstinence.
5. Abstinence causes one to give up worldliness.
6. Giving up worldliness causes one to incline to the Hereafter.
7. And an inclination toward the hereafter is the means to attain a rank in the sight of Allah.

"Those who set out on the path of conviction, they were granted refuge at each station. Those who got scared because of whisperings, they slipped backward with each step."

The companion who died at the feet of Allah’s Messenger

During the Battle of Uhud, Sayyidina Ziyad bin Sakan رضي الله عنه sustained heavy injuries. The Messenger of Allah سل الله عليه وسلم ordered: ‘Bring him close to me.’ So the people carried him there. He then put his head on the blessed foot of Allah’s Messenger سل الله عليه وسلم and breathed his last.

Glorified be Allah!
How Satan calls people unto himself

It has been reported from Sayyidina Abu Umacah that the Messenger of Allah, ﷺ, said: When Iblis was sent down to earth, he said to Allah: ‘O Lord, you sent me here, thus causing me to be homeless. Give me a home!’ Allah said: ‘Your dwelling shall be in bathrooms.’ Iblis then said: ‘Give me a place to sit!’ Allah said: ‘The paths of market squares are your place to sit.’ Iblis then said: ‘Give me something to eat!’ Allah said: ‘Everything over which My name has not been mentioned.’ Iblis said: ‘Give me to drink!’ Allah said: ‘Everything that causes intoxication.’ Iblis said: ‘Give me something with which I can call others unto myself!’ Allah said: ‘Musical instruments.’ Iblis said: ‘Give me a Quran (i.e., something that is read again and again).’ Allah said: ‘Obscene and vulgar poetry are your Quran.’ Iblis said: ‘Give me something to write.’ Allah said: ‘Tattoos are your writing.’ Iblis said: ‘Give me speech.’ Allah said: ‘Falsehood is your speech.’ Iblis said: ‘Give me a trap.’ Allah said: ‘Women are your trap.’

From this Hadith it is learnt that Satan uses musical instruments and related items to call people unto himself. If we take a look around us, then we come to realize how true this saying of Allah’s Messenger ﷺ is.

A special invocation to attain Allah’s proximity

In order to attain Allah’s proximity, one should regularly recite this Dua:

Imam Abu Hanifa saw Allah Most High one hundred times in his dreams. When he saw Him the hundredth time, he asked Allah what a servant should say in order to attain Allah’s proximity. Allah then taught him this Dua in his dream. (Darru’ Makhthar, through Maulana Ahsan - Rahmat Khurram)

An Arabic invocation
It is a sin to call a person whose name is Abdur - Razzaq Razzaq only.

و ذرو الذين يعانون في اسماء سبعون ما كانوا يعملون

'And leave those who blaspheme His names. They will be required what they used to do.' (Surah Al-Nisa', Ayat 180)

There are several aspect of blaspheming Allah's names and this Ayat covers all aspects of such blasphemy. One aspect is to use any such name for Allah which is neither proven from the Holy Qur'an, nor the Sunnah of Allah's Messenger. The scholars who follow the truth are all agreed that no one has got the option to give Allah any name he pleases, or to exalt Him for any quality or attribute he fancies. Rather it is crucial to use only such words with regard to His names and attributes which are mentioned in the Holy Qur'an and the Sunnah as belonging to His names and attributes. One can for example, call Allah 'Karim'. But not 'Sakhi'. One can call Him 'Nur' but not 'Abydil'. One can call him 'Shafi' but not 'Tabiib'. That is because these words - in spite of being synonymous - were not related (as suitable descriptions attributes of Allah).

Another aspect of blasphemy is to consider any of Allah's names in which are mentioned in the Holy Qur'an and the Sunnah as inappropriate, and not to make mention of them. This shows one's disrespect. The third aspect of blasphemy is to use certain names which are peculiar to Allah alone, for anyone else than Allah. Here however, ought to be mentioned that there are some of the Beautiful names which were used in Holy Qur'an and the sacred Ahadith for others. Those names the use of which for anyone else but Allah has been proven from the Holy Qur'an and the Sunnah, can be used for others, such as 'Rahim', 'Rashid', 'Al', 'Karim', 'Aziz', etc. but those names the use of which for anyone else but Allah is not proven from the Holy Qur'an and the Sunnah, are peculiar to Allah alone. Using them for anyone else but Allah is an aspect of blaspheming His names. Doing so is hence unlawful and impermissible. 'Rahman', 'Subhan',

The virtues of Ramadhan

It has been reported from Sayyidina Abu Said Khudri that the Messenger of Allah said: 'When a believer prays during a night of Ramadhan, then for each prostration on thousand five virtues are recorded for him, and a house of red ruby is built for him in Paradise. This house is so big that it has seven thousand doors, and on each door there is a palace of gold (that means i.e. as though there are seven thousand palaces), and whenever he prostrates during the month of Ramadhan - whether it be day or night - he shall receive a tree in Paradise the shade of which extends over a distance of five hundred years. (At-Targhib wet- Tarhib 2/93)
About those sins the commission of which award one any sort of pleasure, comfort or worldly benefit, one might be able to say that a certain desire or need forced one to commit this sin, but alas! Muslim's nowadays commit due to their oblivion and ignorance many such easily avoidable sins, which award them neither any sort of worldly benefit nor the least of pleasure or comfort. The reason for this is that no one seems to be concerned any longer about what is lawful and unlawful, permissible and impermissible.

The effect of Sayyidina Musa’s invocation

"Our Lord! Destroy their riches!"

(Qur’ān 26:149)

Qatadah stated that as a result of this invocation all the gold, jewels, coins, orchards, fields were turned into stones. During the days of Umar bin Abdul Aziz, a bag was found which contained things belonging to the days of Firawn. Among those things were purified eggs and almonds.

The scholars of exegesis mentioned that Allah turned all those fruits, catties and grains into stone.

The evil eye is a reality (and so is a glance cast for the sake of goodness)

This has been attested by the Messenger of Allah. In one Hadith comes that the evil eye brings a man to his grave and a camel into the cauldron. This is why the Messenger of Allah not only himself sought among other things refuge from the evil eye, but also exhorted his Ummah to do so.

The incident of Sayyidina Abu Sahil bin Hunafī is well-known. He once took off his clothes in order to take a bath, when Sayyidina Ansir bin Rabihah happened to cast a glance at him. When he saw his healthy, well-proportioned, fair-

1. Note: Khuda is the Persian word for the Divine Being.
complexioned body, he exclaimed: 'I never saw such a beautiful body before.' He had hardly completed his statement, when Sayyiduna Sahh ibn Sa'd got high fever. When the Messenger of Allah صلی الله علیه و سلم got to know about this, he ordered Sayyiduna Amir bin Rabah to perform ablution and to collect the water in any dish. This water was then poured over Sayyiduna Sahh who instantly recovered. He then accompanied the Messenger of Allah صلی الله علیه و سلم to the place where they actually intended to go.

On this occasion the Messenger of Allah صلی الله علیه و سلم reprimanded Sayyiduna Amir ibn Sa'd. 'Why would any of you kill his brother? Why did you not pray to Allah for blessing when his body seemed attractive to you? The evil eye is a reality,' from this Hadith it is learned that if anyone witnesses anything pleasant regarding a person’s life or belongings, then he should ask Allah for blessing. In some traditions it has been mentioned that one should say: (Al-Adab al-Mufrad) in order to ward off the evil eye. It is also learnt that if anyone suffers from the evil eye, then one should make the evil eye wash his face, hands and feet, collect the water which drops off from his limb, and pour it over the patient in order to cure him. Qur’ubi further stated that all the scholars of the Ahl al-Sunnah wal Jama‘ah are agreed that the evil eye can indeed cause harm.

Note: if the evil eye can affect others, then a glance cast with good intentions, can do so, too. When the friend of Allah and His chosen servants cast such a glance, then guidance begins to spread. (Masalik al-Qudaa’5/596)

A prophetic prescription to cure an aching foot.

Sayyiduna Uthman ibn Affan رضی اللہ عنہ, narrated that once the Messenger of Allah صلی الله علیه و سلم dispatched a group to Yemen. The youngest among them was appointed as their leader. The people were stationed for a couple of days at a place, unable to continue their journey. One person from among this group met the Messenger of Allah صلی الله علیه و سلم. It asked him: 'O sayyid, what happened, why have you not left yet?' That person replied: 'O Messenger of Allah صلی الله علیه و سلم, the foot of our leader hurts badly.' So he went to see their leader. He recited

Ar-Rasul صلی الله علیه و سلم seven times and blew over that person who then instantly recovered. (Tafseer - Sahih 2/78)

A prophetic prescription for blessed sustenance

One should greet with ‘Salaam’ when entering one’s dwelling, even if no one is at home. Then one should recite once Darud Sharif and once Surah Ikhlas. (Husain Hasan)

A prophetic prescription to remove anxieties and worries

Sayyiduna Abu Hurairah رضی اللہ عنہ, narrated: ‘Once I went somewhere with the Messenger of Allah صلی الله علیه و سلم who had taken me by hand. He passed by a person who seemed to be weighed down by anxiety and worries. He صلی الله علیه و سلم asked him: ‘What is wrong with you?’ he said: ‘Disease and indisposition made me like that; the Messenger of Allah صلی الله علیه و سلم said: ‘Should I not teach you some words which, if you recite them, shall relieve you of your illness and indisposition? These words are:

‘I seek refuge in Allah the Most Gracious, the Most Merciful, the Benefactor of the slave, who has not said: ‘La ilaha illa Allah’ nor said, ‘I am a god.’ I seek refuge in Allah from the evil of his evil deeds, from his evil speech and from his evil eye. I seek refuge in Allah from what is in my hand, what is in my tongue, and in my body. I seek refuge in Allah from the envy of the envier, from the backbiting of the backbiter, and from the murder of the murderer. I seek refuge in Allah from the evil of the evil, from the evil of the evil, from the evil of the evil. I seek refuge in Allah from what is in my hand, what is in my tongue, and in my body. I seek refuge in Allah from what is in my hand, what is in my tongue, and in my body.

‘I seek refuge in Allah from the evil of the evil, from the evil of the evil, from the evil of the evil. I seek refuge in Allah from what is in my hand, what is in my tongue, and in my body. I seek refuge in Allah from what is in my hand, what is in my tongue, and in my body.’" (Musnad 5/331)

Sayyiduna Umar رضی اللہ عنہ was cautiousness regarding the wealth of the Muslim community.
1) Sayyidina Umar رضي الله عنه said: “I consider Allah’s wealth (i.e., the wealth of the Muslim community which is deposited in the Baitul Maal) to be like the wealth of an orphan, as regards my own person. I avoid it if I do not need it, and I take a suitable amount there from when I require it.” In another tradition comes that he said: “I consider Allah’s wealth to be like the wealth of an orphan, as regards my own person. And Allah stated in the Holy Qur’an

من كان غني فليس عليه ومن كان قريرا فليكن بالمعروف

‘Who so is rich, let him abstain generously, and who so is poor, let him take thereof in reason.’

(Al-Nasr, Ayat 10) (Hujjatul - Salihah 2/311)

2) One son of Sayyidina Baraa bin Ma’rur رضي الله عنه fell sick. He was advised to have honey, and at that time there happened to be a flask of honey in the Baitul Maal. (He himself did not take that honey.) He went to the mosque, ascended the pulpit and said: “I require honey to treat my ailment, and there happens to be some in the Baitul Maal. So if you permit me, then I shall take some of it. Otherwise it is not lawful for me.”

The people happily granted him permission. (Hujjatul - Salihah 2/313)

3) Ismail bin Muhmmad bin Saad bin Abi Waqqas رضي الله عنه narrated that once Sayyidina Umar رضي الله عنه received some musk and ambergris from Bahrain. Sayyidina Umar رضي الله عنه said: “By Allah! I wish I’d find any woman who knows the art of weighing, so that I could weigh this stuff, so that I could distribute it among the Muslims. His wife Sayyidah Aarahah bint Zaid bin Amr bin Nufair رضي الله عنها said: ‘I am quite good at that, give it to me, I shall weigh it for you.’ Sayyidina Umar رضي الله عنه said: ‘No, I don’t want you to weigh it. I am afraid that you would touch it with your hands when keeping it on the scales (thus some of it would stick to your hands, then he gestured toward his temples and his neck), and when you touch your temples your neck. Thus you would receive more than the other Muslims.” (Hujjatul - Salihah 2/319)

4) Malik bin Aws bin Harith رضي الله عنه said: “Once a courier who was sent by the Roman emperor came to Sayyidina Umar bin Al Khattab رضي الله عنه and asked him to return to the perfumes. He filled the perfume into flasks and sent it through the courier to the wife of the Roman emperor. When the courier gave the present, she emptied the flasks, filled them with jewels and said: ‘Go and give this to the wife of Umar bin Al Khattab.’ When she received those flasks, she took out the jewels spread them on her bedding. When Sayyidina Umar رضي الله عنه came home, he asked her: ‘What is this?’ She then told him the whole story. Sayyidina Umar رضي الله عنه then took the jewels and sold them. One Dinar he gave to his wife and the remaining he deposited in the Baitul Maal. (Hujjatul - Salihah 2/316)

5) Sayyidina Ibn Umar رضي الله عنه narrated: “I once purchased some camels. And I let them graze in the pastures belonging to the Baitul Maal. When they had become fat and healthy I took them to the market in order to sell them. Sayyidina Umar رضي الله عنه happened to be there, and when he saw such fat and healthy camels, he asked ‘to whom do these camels belong?’ The people told him: ‘They belong to Abdullah, the son of Umar.’ When he heard that he said: ‘O, Abdullah bin Umar, the son of the commander of the faithful!’ I came running and said: ‘O commander of the Faithful, what is the matter?’ He asked: ‘What about these camels?’ I said: ‘I had bought them and let them graze in the pastures of the Baitul Maal. (Now I brought them here) in order to sell them and make some profit, just like other Muslims do.’ Sayyidina Umar رضي الله عنه said: ‘Yes, the people in charge of the pastures of Baitul Maal must have said to each other let the camels of the son of the Commander of the Faithful graze, and give them to drink (i.e., they took good care of your camels because you are my son).’ O son of Umar tell these camels, keep the amount for which you had purchased
If Allah loves someone, He grants him the strength to recite this Dua

The Messenger of Allah, peace be upon him, once said to Sayyidina Buraidah: if Allah wishes any of His servants well, then He teaches him these words:

"You are a part of the people of the Book, and I am a part of them. If you recite this Ayat, then I want to be with you on the Day of Judgement, and you will be with me on the Day of Judgement." (Bukhari)

He also said: 'If Allah teaches anyone these words, then he shall not forget them until he dies.' (Ibn Majah: Al Baab 297)

Acceptance of prayers

Said bin Jubair: I know an Ayat of the Holy Qur'an because of which a person's prayers are accepted, when he recites it. He then recited the following Ayat:

"وإِذَا سَأَلَنَّكُمُ الْهَيْبَةَ وَرَسُولُ الْمُسْلِمِينَ وَالْمُبِينِ وَالْمُهْتَدِينَ

'Say, O Allah, Creator of the heavens and the earth, the unseen and the manifest. You shall judge between Your servants regarding what they used to differ about.' (Surah Zumar Ayat 46, Tafsir al-Tabarani and Many Other)" (Ibn Majah: Al Baab 297)

An important guideline regarding the differences among the companions of the Noble Prophets

When Kabi' bin Khattab was asked about the martyrdom of Sayyidina Husain, he heaved a sigh and recited the following Ayat:

A Prophetic Prescription for forgiveness of one's sins

The Messenger of Allah, peace be upon him, said: 'If anyone recites one hundred times: "Surely Allah is the Forgiving, Most Merciful," then recite this Ayat. In Rub-ul-Mani has further been mentioned that this is a great teaching regarding etiquettes, which one should always remember.' (Mishkat al-Masabih 7566)

A special prayer to be recited when taking ablutions

In one Hadith it comes that if a person, while taking ablutions, recites the prayer mentioned below, then a decree concerning his forgiveness shall be written on a piece of paper. This paper shall then be sealed, and the seal shall not be broken until the day of judgement, and the decree concerning his forgiveness shall not be changed.

A prophetic prescription to protect oneself against there ailments.

Sayyidina Qubaisah bin Makkari narrated: I once went to the Noble Prophet, peace be upon him, who asked me about the purpose of my visit. I told him: 'I am old, and my bones have become fragile. I have come so that you teach me anything through which Allah grants me benefit.' The Messenger of Allah, peace be upon him, said: 'Each tree and stone which you passed by, pray for your forgiveness. O Qubaisah, say three times: "O Allah, forgive me, and forgive me, and forgive me." After each Hajj-prayer. This way you shall be saved from...
blindness, leprosy and paralysis. O Qubaisah, and (also) recite this prayer:

الله من الله ماحلكما على من الله ماحلكما

"O Allah, I ask of You whatever is with You (of blessings), and shower upon me Your bounty, and spread Your mercy over me, and let descend upon me Your blessing." (Hujjat - Sahihah 3/7/9)

Satan urinates into the ears of humans

Sayyidina Abdullah bin Mas'ud narrated that over the Messenger of Allah, he was told about a person who sleeps till morning and does not even get up for prayers. The Messenger of Allah remarked:

ما بال الشيطان في أذن

"That is a person in whose ears Satan poop."

(Tarikh Isma'il see Shajarah, Bukhari and Abduullah p 388)

Sayyidina Umar's question to Munkar and Nakir in the grave.

In one tradition comes that the Messenger of Allah said: By Him who sent me with the truth! Sayyidina Jibra'il just told me that Munkar and Nakir shall come to you in the grave and ask you: 'O Umar, who is your Lord?' You shall then reply: 'my Lord is Allah. And who is your Lord? (Sayyidina Muhammad) Muhammad is my prophet. Who is your Prophet? And Islam is my religion. What is your religion?' These two shall then say: 'How strange, we don't know whether we were sent to you or you were sent to us' (Hujjat - Sahihah 3/99)

Five phrase for this world, five phrases for the Hereafter.

It has been reported from Sayyidina Buraidah that the Messenger of Allah said something to the following:

effect: If a person recites the following phrases at the time of Jar (i.e., either before or after the prayer), then he shall find Allah suffice him right at the time he recites these phrases, and he shall also find himself rewarded for reciting these phrases. Five of these phrases are related to this world, and five are related to the Hereafter. These five are for this world:

1. جسَمَ عَلىٰ

Allah suffices me regarding my religious affairs.

2. جسَمَ عَلىٰ

Allah suffices me regarding all my worries.

3. جسَمَ عَلىٰ

Allah suffices me against whoever wrongs me.

4. جسَمَ عَلىٰ

Allah suffices me against whoever envies me.

5. جسَمَ عَلىٰ

Allah suffices me against who attempts to deceive me with evil.

And these five are for the Hereafter:

1. جسَمَ عَلىٰ

Allah suffices me at the time of death.

2. جسَمَ عَلىٰ

Allah suffices me during the interrogation in the grave.

3. جسَمَ عَلىٰ

Allah suffices me at the scales (of deeds).

4. جسَمَ عَلىٰ

Allah suffices me at the time of crossing the bridge "Sirat".

5. جسَمَ عَلىٰ

Allah suffices me, there is no god besides Him. In Him I put my trust, and unto Him I turn." (With reference to Dustur-ul-mantiir fi-Tafsir bil ma'ahif, Allamah Sayyid, 2/103)
A Prophetic Prescription to obtain freedom

A prophetic prescription to obtain freedom from captivity in Scattered Pearls has been mentioned that when Sayyidina Awn Ashiq's son, Sayyidina Salim, was captured by the infidels, the Messenger of Allah asked someone to tell him to recite: 'I am not a sinner.' One day out of a sudden his prison opened and he ran away from there. He got hold of a she-camel belonging to his captors, and mounted it. On his way he came across some stallions which he took along. His captors came running after him, but could not catch up with him. When he reached his home he called unto his parents. His father said: 'By Allah it is Salim!' His mother said: 'How could that be? He lingers in prison!' Then his parents as well as a servant of theirs rushed to the door. When they opened it they saw Salim standing there as well as the many, many camels he had brought with him. They asked him: 'What about these camels? And he told them the whole story.' They said: 'Let us ask Allah's Messenger about them.' The Messenger of Allah said: 'They belong to you. Do whatever you like with them.' (Tafsir Ibn Kathir 3/576)

An effective method against misfortunes and to attain one's objectives

In one Hadith comes that Allah's Messenger urged Sayyidina Awn bin Malik, 'Recite: "I am not a sinner."' in abundance in order to rid himself from misfortunes and to attain his objectives.

Hazrat Muaddid Ali Thani said that this phrase is highly effective in warding off all kinds of calamities and disasters as well as in attaining all sorts of benefits. He further suggested that one should recite one hundred times Darud Sharif, five hundred times Darud Sharif, followed by one hundred times, Darud sharif, and thereafter pray for the attainment of one's objective. (Tafsir al-Mahani/Ma'ani al-Qur'an)

A Dua which caused an angel of the fourth heaven to descend and grant their support.

Sayyidina Anas bin Malik narrated that one of the Noble Prophet's companions was known by the Kunayt Abu Muqaffa. This person was a merchant, and he dealt with other people's goods. He was a staunch worshipper and very, very pious and abstinent. Once while he was on a journey, he encountered a heavily armed robber. The robber shied at him: 'Keep all your goods here. I shall kill you.' The companion said: 'If you want to take the goods, then take them.' The robber said: 'No, I also want to shed your blood.' Upon this the companion remarked: 'Give me some time so that I can offer prayers.' The robber told him, 'Pray as much as you like.' The companion took ablution, offered his prayer and then recited three times:

بودود يد هذا العرش الباجع لما وردنا السمكة بعترتك

Then suddenly appeared a horseman who held a dagger in his hand. He raised the dagger between the ears of his horse and stabbed the robber to death. Then he turned toward the merchant, who asked him, 'Who are you? Allah has helped me through you.' He said: 'I am an angel residing on the fourth heaven. When you recited your dua the first time, I heard the rattling sound of the gates of heaven. When you recited it the second time, I heard the hue and cry raised by the dwellers of heaven. When you recited it the third time, someone said: 'This is the dua of a calamity-struck soul.' I submitted myself in the Divine Court and said: 'Assign me the duty of hitting this robber.' He further said: 'Glad tidings to you, when a person takes ablution, offers four Rakat of prayer and then recites this dua, then his prayer shall be accepted, no matter whether he is calamity-struck or not.' (Hayatus Sahabah 3/776)
Scattered Pearls vol.1

People of old ought to be like that.

Once Sayyidina Munadh bin Jabal رضي الله عنهم said: "I stood at the grave of Allah's Messenger ﷺ and wept. Sayyidina Umar رضي الله عنهم asked him for the reason of his weeping. He said: 'I heard a Hadith that Allah the sublime loves such people who are god-fearing and who live concealed. When they attend a gathering, no one recognizes them and when they are not attending a gathering, no one looks for them, no one asks why such-and-such not come? Their hearts are lanterns of guidance. They are protected against each trial. People of old ought to be like that - hard working and having a sound relationship with Allah. They live in concealment, so not many people on earth know them. In the heavens however, everyone knows them.'

(Al-Bukhārī - Sahihah 2/785)

How the Messenger of Allah ﷺ settled an argument between Sayyidina Abdur-Rahman bin Awf and Sayyidina Khalid bin Walid رضي الله عنهم and how he stated the virtues of these two.

Sayyidina Abdur-Rahman bin Awf رضي الله عنهم once complained to the Messenger of Allah ﷺ that Sayyidina Khalid bin Walid رضي الله عنهم always argued with him. The Messenger of Allah ﷺ then said: 'Khalid, don't say anything (bad) to Abdur-Rahman bin Awf, for he has participated in the Battle of Badr.' Sayyidina Khalid رضي الله عنهم then said: 'But he also keeps arguing with me!' Upon this the Messenger of Allah ﷺ said: 'Don't say anything (bad) to Khalid, for he is the sword of Allah.'

The Messenger of Allah ﷺ spoke well of both of them and set affairs right between them, thus, when differences occur among companions one ought to speak well of the parties involved and settle affairs between them.

The proof that eggs are lawful

It has been reported from Sayyidina Abu Hurairah that the Messenger of Allah ﷺ said: 'On Friday the angels stand at the gates of the mosque and record the names of those who come (for the prayer). Those who come in the first time are like someone who has sacrificed a camel for Allah's sake. Those who come thereafter are like some one who has sacrificed a cow for Allah's sake. Those who come thereafter are like someone who sacrificed a ram for Allah's sake. Those who come thereafter are like someone who presented an egg. Then, when the Imam approaches the pulpit, the angels close their registers and listen to the sermon.' (Sahih Bukhari and Sahih Muslim)
If one's companion made sacrifices, then one must treat their offspring well, otherwise neither one's obligatory nor voluntary acts of worship will be accepted.

Sayyidina Abdur-Rahman bin Awf narrated that when the Messenger of Allah's (peace be upon him) time had drawn close, his companions said: 'O Messenger of Allah! Why do you not allow us to eat something?' He said: 'I enjoin you to treat well the first who led the way from among the Muhajirun, and their offspring after them. If you don't do so, then neither your obligatory acts of worship will be accepted, nor the voluntary ones.' (Hayyub - Sahih 2/485)

It is necessary to treat well the offspring of those who assist one. The best treatment is to lovingly encourage them to call others unto Allah, and to wish them well.

The proof that the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) used pantaloons

Sayyidina Abu Hurairah narrated that the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) purchased pantaloons for four Dirhams. I asked him whether he was going to wear them. Upon this the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) said: 'Yes, during day and night, while on a journey and while at home. I was ordered to cover my nakedness, and I could not find anything better than that.' (Hayyub - Sahih 2/707)

The companion who died in Madinah, and whose bier was carried by the angels to Tabuk where Allah's Messenger offered his funeral prayer

Sayyidina Muawiyah bin Muawiyah bin Al Ansari narrated that he died in Al Madinah (while the Messenger of Allah was in Tabuk). Sayyidina Jibril, along with several thousand angels carried his bier to Tabuk, where the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) came to meet him and those who were with him offered his funeral prayer. The bier was then carried back, and the burial was arranged in Al Baqi'. When the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) asked Sayyidina Jibril about the reason for this...
Men's nature tends to be hot. This is why they express their anger or displeasure through shouting and beating. Women are however bashful, there is a certain coolness in their nature, this is why they do not tend to display their anger or displeasure. Their anger however is not any less than that of men, rather it is more. They get angry on occasions on which men do not get angry, because their faculty of reasoning is deficient. So there are more instances when women get angry. Another point is that their anger tends to be long lasting. Those who give vent to their frustration through shouting and beating cool down quickly, whereas women's anger - you can call it 'sweet anger' if you like - keeps accumulating within their hearts, which sooner or later turns into malice. So one evil is anger, the other evil is malice. Hence women's anger comprises two evils: anger and malice. If one does not give vent to one's anger, then it remains like a burden on one's heart which gives rise to many, many unpleasantities. Malice is not just a sin, it is the root of many other sins. Malice comes from sweet anger, and sweet anger is more commonly found in women. Hence women's anger leads to thousands of sins. This is not the least with men's anger. Men's anger is of hot, violent nature, while women's anger is sweet.

Three types of women

Sayyidina Umar stated that there are three types of women:

1) Women who are chaste, stout Muslims, soft tempered, loving, able to give birth to many children, doing their chores themselves thus helping her family, rather than leaving her family alone. Such women however rare.

2) Then these are women who demand much from their husbands and do nothing but giving birth to children.

3) Then there are women who are like an iron - collar around their husband's necks. They cling to him like lice, (i.e. they are ill-tempered and their Mahr is also high, that's why their husbands can't leave them) Allah puts such a woman around the neck of whomever He

Accepting a gift a poor companion

Once Sayyidina Zaid bin Haritha (رضي الله عنه) brought his mare 'Shibl' which was his most treasured possession, to the Messenger of Allah (صلى الله عليه وسلم) and said: 'I give this mare for Allah's sake,' the Messenger of Allah (صلى الله عليه وسلم) accepted it and gave it to Sayyidina Usamah bin Zaid (رضي الله عنه) so that he may use it. (Sayyidina Zaid (رضي الله عنه) found strange that the horse which he gave in charity was given to his son, and that such a thing given in charity returned to his own house). The Messenger of Allah (صلى الله عليه وسلم) sensed his displeasure and said: 'Allah has accepted your charity. (So if the mare is returned to you, then this does in no way decrease your reward.)' (Hadjat - Sahaba 3652)

Sayyidina Abdullah bin Abb at bin Rabbah (رضي الله عنه) who say in his dream) and angel give Azan stated: once I presented myself to Allah's Messenger (صلى الله عليه وسلم) said: 'O Messenger of Allah (صلى الله عليه وسلم) this garden of mine is charity, and I hand it over to Allah and this Messenger (صلى الله عليه وسلم) so that they may use it as they deem proper.' When his parents got to know about that, they went to the Noble Prophet (صلى الله عليه وسلم) and said: 'O Messenger of Allah (صلى الله عليه وسلم) we received our livelihood from this garden which our son gave in charity. Upon this the Messenger of Allah (صلى الله عليه وسلم) returned the garden to them. When they died, this garden was inherited by their son Abdullah (رضي الله عنه) Thus become heir and owner of the garden.

(Riyadus Salihin 2215)

In each pomegranate there is a seed of Paradise.

Sayyidina Ibn Abbas (رضي الله عنه) once picked up a pomegranate seed and ate it. When he was asked why he did that, he said: 'It has reached me that in every pomegranate there is a seed of Paradise. It might have been this one.' (Tahanani, and the chain of transmission is sound)
This statement has been traced back to the Messenger of Allah Sallallahu alaihi wa Sallam, too. (Tibh e Nabi, Rizvi Usman, Jannat e bayon Mutane, p 589).

If one is not able to sleep, then one should recite this Du'a

In the Musnad Ahmad comes that the Messenger of Allah سل الله عليه وسلم taught us a Du'a against getting startled during one's sleep, which is to be recited when going to bed:

بسم الله اعوذ بكمامة الله الشامخة من شجاعة ومن شجاعة ومن هجرات الشياطين والخضوع

Sayyidah Ummar رضي الله عنها used to teach this Du'a to such of his children who had come of age, and he would write it and hang it around the neck of those who were still too young (to memorise it)

This Hadith has also been recorded by Abu Dawud, Tirmidhi and Nasa'i, Imam Tirmidhi, and Nasa'i, graded it as 'Hasan Gharib.' (Tafseer Ibn Kathir 3/4109).

Five advices which Allah's Messenger ﷺ gave Sayyidah Anas رضي الله عنه

Sayyidah Anas رضي الله عنه narrated: The Noble Prophet ﷺ enjoined upon me five things. He said: 'O Anas, perform ablution well, for this shall prolong your life. When you meet one of my followers, greet him with salam, this shall increase yourvirtue. Greet with salam when you enter your homes, for this is a source of goodness. Offer the fajr prayer, for this is what the saints and old used to do. O Anas! Be kind to those who are junior (to you) and honour those who are senior (to you), and you shall be with me on the Day of Judgement.' (Tafseer Ibn Kathir 3/529)

Sayyidah Aishah رضي الله عنها's letter to Sayyidah Muawiyah رضي الله عنها

Sayyidah Muawiyah related that once he wrote a letter to the Mother of the Faithful Sayyidah Aishah requesting her to give him counsel, but to keep it short, easy and comprehensive. She wrote: 'Peace be upon you, Amma Ba'ad. I heard the Messenger of Allah سل الله عليه وسلم say: 'If some one wants to please Allah and the people are cross with him, then Allah makes him independent from the people, and He Himself becomes sufficient for him. And if someone wants to please people, dispelves Allah, then Allah turns him over to the people. And peace be with you.' (Ibrah Ta'limi) (Musnad of Hadi 2/763).

Three advices which Allah's Messenger ﷺ gave to Sayyidah Abu Bakr رضي الله عنه

The Messenger of Allah سل الله عليه وسلم said: 'Abu Bakr, listent! Three things are a true indeed; 'If someone is wronged and he conceals the matter, then surely Allah shall honor him and aid him if someone opens the doors of good treatment and kindness in order to strengthen the ties of kinship, then Allah shall grant him blessings and all sorts of goodness. If someone opens the door to begging in order to increase (his wealth), and keeps asking from one or the other, then Allah shall not grant him blessing and such a person will always be in need.' This has been recorded by Abu Dawud.

A few words to have one's prayers accepted

Sayyidah Said bin Musayyib رضي الله عنه narrated: once I was resting in the mosque, when I heard suddenly a voice addressing me: O Said, recite these words and Allah shall accept your prayers.

Sayyidah Said bin Musayyib رضي الله عنه further stated that what ever prayer he made after reciting these words was accepted. (Ruh-ul- man, exegesis of Ulama Maud (Maulana Muhammad Yunus Palanpuri) prayed for himself, his family and the whole Ummat thus:)
Scattered Pearls

Four signs of wretchedness
In a Hadith it states that there are four signs of wretchedness:

1) That one's eyes do not shed tears
2) Hard-heartedness
3) Longing
4) Greed for the things of this world

(Quoted with reference to Al-Bazzaz, on the authority of Sayyiduna Anas (Mishkat al-Ulama, p.379))

Specifying the night preceding Friday for Tabligh

It is not an innovation to specify a certain day or night for Tabligh and Talim, nor is it an innovation to do so on a regular basis. There are certain periods for each subject taught in Madrasa, and such timetables are strictly adhered to. No one has any misgiving in this regard, whether it is an innovation or not.

The essence of Tasawwuf

Maulana Ashraf Ali Thanvi (r.a.) said that the essence of Tasawwuf is only that much: if you feel lazy about carrying out an act of obedience, challenge laziness and carry it out, and if you have the urge to commit a sin, then just keep away from it.

One who can do that needs just about nothing beyond it because this very act of wisdom helps establish communion with Allah, and this is his guard on duty and this is his promoter. (Kashf al-Afhar, p.323)

Scattered Pearls

If a friend from among the friends of Allah passes by a town then the dwellers of it is to shall bear the blessings of his passing by, so that Allah rewards them.

(Merit however is the criteria in this matter.) (Kashf al-Afhar, p.323)

Shaykh Abdul Qadir Jillani (r.a.), granted one of his disciples Khilafat, and said to him: 'Go to such and such place and preach the true religion of Allah. When he was about to leave, the disciple asked the Shaykh for advice. He said to him: I give you two advices:

1) Never ever claim divinity.
2) Never ever claim prophethood.

The disciple uttered in amazement: I spent so many years in your company, is there still apprehension that I might claim divinity or prophethood?' He replied: 'First understand what it means to claim divinity or prophethood. The Divine Decree is final. There is no way of acting against it. If a person presents his opinion in a way that no one can disagree with it or act against it, then he has claimed divinity. A Prophet is one who speaks naught but truth and what is right. He never utters any falsehood. If some one says anything about any of his statements that it is absolutely true, that there is no way of going against it, then he has laid a hidden claim to Prophethood, namely that nothing he says is wrong, and that although it is nothing but his own opinion.' (Kashf al-Afhar, p.323)

Treating one's wife well

'If a man were to call his wife upon his death bed, she would not answer him, wouldn't hear him, wouldn't obey his commands. If a woman were to answer him, and if she were to obey his commands, it would be as if a man were to call his dead wife upon his death bed, she would not answer him, wouldn't hear him, wouldn't obey his commands. If a woman were to answer him, and if she were to obey his commands, it would be as if a man were to call his dead wife upon his death bed, she would not answer him, wouldn't hear him, wouldn't obey his commands. If a woman were to answer him, and if she were to obey his commands, it would be as if a man were to call his dead wife upon his death bed, she would not answer him, wouldn't hear him, wouldn't obey his commands. If a woman were to answer him, and if she were to obey his commands, it would be as if a man were to call his dead wife upon his death bed, she would not answer him, wouldn't hear him, wouldn't obey his commands. If a woman were to answer him, and if she were to obey his commands, it would be as if a man were to call his dead wife upon his death bed, she would not answer him, wouldn't hear him, wouldn't obey his commands. If a woman were to answer him, and if she were to obey his commands, it would be as if a man were to call his dead wife upon his death bed, she would not answer him, wouldn't hear him, wouldn't obey his commands. If a woman were to answer him, and if she were to obey his commands, it would be as if a man were to call his dead wife upon his death bed, she would not answer him, wouldn't hear him, wouldn't obey his commands. If a woman were to answer him, and if she were to obey his commands, it would be as if a man were to call his dead wife upon his death bed, she would not answer him, wouldn't hear him, wouldn't obey his commands. If a woman were to answer him, and if she were to obey his commands, it would be as if a man were to call his dead wife upon his death bed, she would not answer him, wouldn't hear him, wouldn't obey his commands. If a woman were to answer him, and if she were to obey his commands, it would be as if a man were to call his dead wife upon his death bed, she would not answer him, wouldn't hear him, wouldn't obey his commands. If a woman were to answer him, and if she were to obey his commands, it would be as if a man were to call his dead wife upon his death bed, she would not answer him, wouldn't hear him, wouldn't obey his commands. If a woman were to answer him, and if she were to obey his commands, it would be as if a man were to call his dead wife upon his death bed, she would not answer him, wouldn't hear him, wouldn't obey his commands.
Rely on Allah under all circumstances

Imam Fakhruddin Razi wrote somewhere — most probably in Surah Yusuf the following: Throughout my life I experienced that of one relies on any one else but Allah, then this causes him difficulty and hardship. And if he relies on Allah alone, not at all considering anyone else, then his task will certainly be accomplished in the best of manners.

We been making this experience throughout my life right from my childhood until now (when I am 57 years old), and the following fact has thoroughly penetrated my heart, that the only way to resolve one's difficulties is to hope for Allah's Kindness, and not to rely on anyone else but Allah. (Fayat → Fakhr, p 38) disobedience, and to make obedience obligatory upon oneself. And this is what is known among the Sufis as Bay’at or Tarîqat. Denying it is nothing but ignorance and lack of relevant knowledge. (Haqiqat v Tarîqat p.9)

A child was brought back to life because of a prayer.

قَالَ نَبِيُّ اللَّهُ صَلَّى اللَّهُ صَلَّى عَلَيْهِ وَسَلَّمَ قَاتَلَانَ اسْتِرَاحَتِهَا وَمَا يُعْلَنَّهَا بِمَا لَهَا. فَذَكَرَ اللَّهُ مَالَى عَلَيْهِ وَسَلَّمَ نَبِيَّاً وَمَا رَأَى مَالَى عَلَيْهِ وَسَلَّمَ نَبِيَّاً مَّا رَأَى مَالَى عَلَيْهِ وَسَلَّمَ نَبِيَّاً مَّا رَأَى مَالَى عَلَيْهِ وَسَلَّمَ نَبِيَّاً مَّا رَأَى مَالَى عَلَيْهِ وَسَلَّمَ نَبِيَّاً.

Sayyidina Anas narrated, 'We were with the Messenger of Allah صلی الله علیه و وسلم in the Suffah, when a woman from the Mulhajum came to him. Her son who had come of age too, was with her. The woman then went to the other women, while her son came to us. Shortly afterwards Madinah was taken by an epidemic. One day the boy fell ill and died. The Prophet صلی الله علیه و وسلم closed the boys eyes and ordered that arrangements for his burial be made. When we intended to bathe him, the Prophet صلی الله علیه و وسلم said: O Anas, go to his mother and inform her.' So I informed her. She came and sat down near his son's feet. She took hold of his big toe and said, O Allah, I submitted myself to you willingly; and I keep away from false gods, and I migrated, longing for you!' (Sayyidina Anas رضی الله علیه و صلی الله علیه و وسلم said) By Allah! She had not finished her speech yet when the boys feet began to move. He took the cloth off his face and he lived until his Messenger صلی الله علیه و وسلم died.

The Mahr of the wide-eyed virgins of paradise

Giving up worldliness becomes Mahr for the Hereafter.

The Prophet صلی الله علیه و وسلم said: 'The Mahr of the wide-eyed virgins of Paradise consists of pieces of dates and breadcrumbs.' This too, was mentioned by Thalabi. Sayyidina Abu Hurairah ﺑُنَوْيَٰ ﺷَرَّاءً ﺑُنَوْيَٰ ﺑُنَوْيَٰ ﺑُنَوْيَٰ ﺑُنَوْيَٰ ﺑُنَوْيَٰ ﺑُنَوْيَٰ ﺑُنَوْيَٰ ﺑُنَوْيَٰ ﺑُنَوْيَٰ ﺑُنَوْيَٰ ﺑُنَوْيَٰ ﺑُنَوْيَٰ ﺑُنَوْيَٰ ﺑُنَوْيَٰ ﺑُنَوْيَٰ ﺑُنَوْيَٰ ﺑُنَوْيَٰ ﺑُنَوْيَٰ ﺑُنَوْيَٰ

... Ath-Thalabi traced this Hadith from Sayyidina Anas ﺑُنَوْيَٰ ﺑُنَوْيَٰ

And on the authority of Sayyidina Abu Hurairah ﺑُنَوْيَٰ ﺑُنَوْيَٰ ﺑُنَوْيَٰ ﺑُنَوْيَٰ ﺑُنَوْيَٰ ﺑُنَوْيَٰ ﺑُنَوْيَٰ ﺑُنَوْيَٰ ﺑُنَوْيَٰ ﺑُنَوْيَٰ ﺑُنَوْيَٰ ﺑُنَوْيَٰ ﺑُنَوْيَٰ ﺑُنَوْيَٰ ﺑُنَوْيَٰ ﺑُنَوْيَٰ ﺑُنَوْيَٰ ﺑُنَوْيَٰ ﺑُنَوْيَٰ ﺑُنَوْيَٰ ﺑُنَوْيَٰ ﺑُنَوْيَٰ ﺑُنَوْيَٰ ﺑُنَوْيَٰ ﺑُنَوْيَٰ ﺑُنَوْيَٰ ﺑُنَوْيَٰ ﺑُنَوْيَٰ ﺑُنَوْيَٰ ﺑُنَوْيَٰ ﺑُنَوْيَٰ ﺑُنَوْيَٰ ﺑُنَوْيَٰ ﺑُنَوْيَٰ ﺑُنَوْيَٰ ﺑُنَوْيَٰ ﺑُنَوْيَٰ ﺑُنَوْيَٰ ﺑُنَوْيَٰ ﺑُنَوْيَٰ ﺑُنَوْيَٰ ﺑُنَوْيَٰ ﺑُنَوْيَٰ ﺑُنَوْيَٰ ﺑُنَوْيَٰ ﺑُنَوْيَٰ

woman in exchange for much wealth, but he leaves behind the wide-eyed virgins of Paradise which he could get in exchange for a morsel, a date, or some crumbs.

It has been related from Thabit that he said: My father was from among those who stood (in worship) before Allah in the darkness, of the night. He said: one night I saw in my dream a woman (so beautiful that) no other woman resembled her. I asked her: Who are you? She said: I am a Hawra, one of Allah's bondmads. I told her: Will you marry me? She said: Ask my Lord for my hand in marriage and pay my Mahr. asked: What is your Mahr? She said: offering long voluntary prayers at night.” Then someone recited one of these verses:

وَمَا ذَا الْيَلِدُ بِالْجِهَدِ
وَصِمَّاهَا فَهُمْ مُهْرَاهَا
(Qasas Al-Anbiya 26:78)

The left-overs of a believer contain a cure

قال النعمان بن أبي شعيب في الدارقطني في الأهرام عن ابن عباس: قال: إن الشروط أن يشرب الرجل من صوره عن هئته كالنقيب على رسول الله صلى الله عليه وسلم وحكمه رقيق البصر شفافاً
(Kashaf Al-Rashe 3:428)

وإن رقيق البصر شفافاً ليس يحدث ولكن معاد صبح في الصيام حتى صلى الله عليه وسلم إذا أشكل الإنسان الجبشي أي أركان بقارة أوجاز قال باسهمية يعني سقياً ولا يراك ثم رمحا لهم قال صلى الله عليه وسلم: بريئة بما بين يدي النبي صلى الله عليه وسلم
(Kashaf Al-Rashe 3:436)

How to cut one's nails

The conditions for a vow to become binding

A vow to make arrangements for reciting the Holy Qur'an from beginning to end (Qur'an, khaban) is not binding. Making a vow is permissible from the shari'a point of view, but there are certain conditions to be fulfilled:

Hafiz Ibn Hajar Ash'ari and Ibn Daqiq al-Madhhli both stated that one cannot say with certainty that the Noble Prophet صلى الله عليه وسلم prescribed any particular method or time of cutting one's nails. Hence it is not permissible to consider the method described above as mustahabb (Rasid al-Madhhil 1/13).

Some animals will go to Paradise

Allamah Sayid Ahmad Hamani جلده الله عليه وسلم said, quoted in Sharh al-Ishab wa-nazair p 395, with reference to Sharh Shafiiy al-Islam, Maqatil al-Hanafi, and as follows: Ten animals shall go to Paradise:

1. Sayyidina Muhammad's she-Camel
2. Sayyidina Saleh's she-Camel
3. Sayyidina Ibrahim's Calf
4. Sayyidina Ismail's ram
5. Sayyidina Musa's cow
6. The fish which swallowed Sayyidina Yunus
7. Sayyidina Uzair's donkey
8. Sayyidina Sulaiman's ant
9. The hoopoe which visited Bilqis
10. The dog of the people of camel

In Awzar al-Mishkat has been mentioned that these animals shall be resurrected also. (Fatawa Mahomediyah 5392)

The conditions for a vow to become binding

A vow to make arrangements for reciting the Holy Qur'an from beginning to end (Qur'an, khaban) is not binding. Making a vow is permissible from the shari'a point of view, but there are certain conditions to be fulfilled:
1 - The vow must be for Allah. It is not permissible to make a vow in the name of anyone else but Allah, rather doing so is sinful.
2 - A vow must consist of an act of worship. If it does not, then the vow is not in order.
3 - The worship must be such which is Fardh or Wajib at times, such as prayers, fast, hajj, sacrifice etc. A vow, consisting of any act of worship which does not fall into this category is not proper. Hence an oath to arrange the recital of the Holy Qur'an is not binding. (Ibn Abi Arâfah 3/413)

The virtue of washing hands before eating

Salman reported: I read in the Torah that the blessing of food is in wash after it. When I mentioned it to the Prophet, he said: The blessing of food is in wash before it and wash after it. (Tirmizi, Abu Dawud)

It is a Sunnah to wash one's hands up to the elbows

How many authentic traditions are there?

Imam Abū Ja‘far bin Al-Husain Al-Baghdadi recorded in his book ‘At-Tamaz’ that Imam Sufyan Thawri, Imam Shàbah, Imam Yahya, Imam Abdur-Rahman bin Mahdi, and Imam Ahmad bin Hanbal, are agreed on the following:

Hence the compilers of the Sahih have included approximately that many Hadith in their collections.

Seeing the Noble Prophet while awake

In Faidul Bari it is mentioned that Allamah Jalaluddin Suyutsi saw the Noble Prophet, صلى الله عليه وسلم eight times in the state of wakefulness. Here however needs to be remarked that one does not become a ‘Sahabi’ on account of such a vision.

Once Maulana Syed Husain Ahmad Madani delivered a lecture in Masjid-e-Nabwi, near Bab-e-Rahmat. During this lecture the issue of ‘Hayyatun-Nabi’ was mentioned. Some students raised objections to which he replied. Then again there were objections, and again he replied. Then out of a sudden when he looked in the direction of the sacred tomb, there was no building, no structure. The place was clean and empty, and Noble Prophet, صلى الله عليه وسلم himself stood there. All those who were present could see him. The respected Maulana said, ‘So you people were raising objections. Now do you still have any objections?’ Then he again diverted his attention toward his book, as did his students. Then, when the students again looked in the direction of the sacred tomb, its building was in its place, as it was before. (Mawariz Faidul Imam p 49, part one)

Offering the Zuhr – Prayer on Friday in congregation

If one happens to be on a journey, the one can offer on Friday the Zuhr – prayer in congregation; I (and if one was not able to offer the Friday – prayer) then one should definitely offer the Zuhr prayer in congregation. (Fatwa-e-Darul Uloom 2/53)
Using a steel band for a wrist watch

If one can choose between a leather and a steel band, then using a leather band is closer to precaution.

Baghdad recorded from Kaab Alhurth that birds cannot fly higher than twelve miles. (Tafsir - r - Maxani 6/419)

The use of Alcohol

Question: In western countries most medicines contain 1% to 25% alcohol. These medicines are usually used for the treatment of colds, cough, and throat infections, or similar ailments. Ninety percent of such medicines contain alcohol, and nowadays it is difficult rather impossible to find medicines which do not contain alcohol. Under the given circumstances, is it permissible to use such medicines?

Answer: The problem of medicines containing alcohol is no longer limited to western countries only, the whole world, including Islamic countries, faces this problem.

According to Imam Abu Hanifa, the solution to this problem is easy. The reason is that according to him and Imam Abu Yusuf, it is permissible to use liquor provided it has not been derived from grapes or dates - in quantities too small to cause inebriation, as an invigorant. (Fathul Qoud 8/15)

On the other hand, most of the medicines which contain alcohol contain alcohol which has been derived from grapes, dates, honey, sugar, grains, etc., rather than from grapes and dates.

Hello, according to Imam Abu Hanifa and Imam Abu Yusuf, it is permissible to use medicines containing alcohol made from any thing else than grapes and dates, provided these medicines do not cause inebriation. As far as medical treatment is concerned, one can hence adopt the stance of the two Imams. However, the medicine contains alcohol derived from grapes or dates, then the use thereof is not permissible. If however an expert physician has explicitly stated that there is no other way to treat this ailment, then, under such circumstances, it is permissible to use such medicines, as according to the Hanafi scholars deem medical treatment through prohibited items to be permissible. (Faydh Masahib, Mauthanat Tariq Usmani)

An admonitory incident concerning Miswak

Allamah Ibn Kathir mentioned with reference to Ibn Khalkan the following incident in his celebrated work "Al Bidaya Wan-Nihayah" (Vol 1/907): In Basra there lived a person Abu Salamah who was well known for his boldness and shamelessness. Once when the many virtues of Miswak were mentioned in front of him, he flew into a rage and swore that he shall use Miswak in his anus, and he indeed fulfilled his oath. This outrageous act did not go unrequited. Nine months after this incident he developed a bad stomach ache, after which an (extremely ugly) animal issued forth from his stomach. It had the body of a wild rat, a tail which was about one span and four fingers in length, four feet, and it had a head like that of a fish. Four teeth stuck out of his mouth. Right after this creature came out from his body it shrieked three times, upon which a child killed it by crushing its head. Three days afterwards this person too, died. He said that this animal had perforated his intestines. This happened in the year 660 A.H. Many people, including preachers, were witness to this incident.

A prescription to have handsome offspring

If a woman frequently eats musk melon during her pregnancy, then she shall give birth to healthy, handsome offspring. (Tibb - r - Naim p 86)

The proof that it is proper to give a lecture while sitting on a chair

قال حدثنا شيخان بن ذكى: قال أبو رفاعة: انتهى إلى النبي صلى الله عليه وسلم وهو يخطب قال تفذّل يا رسول الله:
The tradition mentioning the reward of 49 crores

"Whoever goes himself forth in Allah's way, shall receive (a reward) of seven hundred thousand Dirhams in turn of each Dirham (he spent). Then he recited the Ayat: 'And Allah increases manifold for whomsoever He wills.' (Sahih - Bukhari 1:561)

The Noble Prophet said: Indeed the prayer, the fast and Divine Remembrance are rewarded seven hundred times more than spending in Allah's way.

Seven lac multiplied by seven makes forty nine crore.

Someone who dies with his ablution intact is a martyr.

A highly effective 'Aml'

Below is given 'Aml' which has been tested many times by Mufti Ilahi Baksh, who was one of Shah Abdul Aziz Muhaddith Dehlawi's eminent disciples, as well as ancestor of Maulana Muhammad Ilyas Kandhalavi. One who performs it shall be blessed with love for Allah and His acquaintance, as a result of which it becomes easy to perform good deeds and to keep away from sins. Love for Allah is vital for performing acts of obedience, worship and good deeds in abundance. This Aml is also highly effective in warding off disasters and attaining one's objectives, as has been stated by Al Haqf Mufti Iltiquehar-ul-Hasan Kandhalavi who is the Khulifa of Maulana Shah Abdul Qadir Raijpur.

What to do: This Aml is to be done for seven consecutive days, starting from the first Friday of any lunar month. One can recite it any time during day or the night, specifying any such time and place which suits one's convenience. If however one needs to change the time or the place, then there is no harm in it.

Note: If one is really not able to recite the Arabic words then one can recite the equivalent there in any other language. One shall not remain deprived, insha Allah.

1 - Friday : 1000
2 - Saturday : 1000
3 - Sunday : 1000
4 - Monday : 1000
5 - Tuesday : 1000
6 - Wednesday : 1000
7 - Thursday : 1000

Then on Friday, after the Friday prayer one should recite the following dua at least three times:

'O Allah, I beg you - through the intermediary of these great and blessed names - to shower blessings on Sayyidina Muhammad and on the people of his house, and I ask you to include me among your virtuous servants who have attained Your proximity.
One sentence uttered in pride turned a handsome youth into an ugly dwarf.

Nawwāb bin Mahīq related: In the mosque of Najrah I saw a tall, heavy-boned young man, intoxicated with the height of his youth. His body was well-proportioned, he had a fair complexion and his features were extraordinarily handsome. I kept looking at him, amazed by so much beauty. He said: 'What are you looking at?' I replied: 'I am beholding your beauty in utter amazement.' He said: 'Well, even Allah is amazed.' Nawwāb further said that he had hardly uttered these words when he began to shrink. His face lost its glow radiance and handsomeness. He kept shrinking until he was about one span in size. A close relative of his then picked him up, put him in his sleeve and carried him away. (Tafsīr ibn Kathīr 4/123)

Once upon a time grains of wheat were as big as dates.

In the Musnad of Imam Ahmad, it is mentioned that during Ziyād's days a bag was found which contained grains of wheat as big as large date stones. It also contained a piece of paper which read: 'This sprouted forth during a time in which justice and equity were prevalent. (Tafsīr ibn Kathīr 4/176)

A sinner stands in need of three things:
1. Allah's forgiveness so that he will be saved from punishment.
2. Concealment so that he will be saved from disgrace.
3. Protection so that he will not commit that sin again.

The shariah injunctions regarding teeth made from gold

In Mumbai there used to live a dentist who was considered a true expert of this field. He also used to be a true well-wisher and friend of this humble servant. As far as my limited knowledge is concerned, Allah had bestowed upon him religious mindedness and god-consciousness. Once when I went to Mumbai, he mentioned that there are some patients who require gold teeth, as no other material suits them. He wanted to know whether it is proper from the shari`i point of view to give them gold-teeth.

I told him that under such circumstances there is nothing wrong with providing a patient with gold teeth. After days later I received a letter in which he mentioned that a quite religious person came to him for treatment; and when he was advised to get himself gold teeth, he said that a Maudh told him that it is not permissible for men to use gold teeth. The said dentist requested me to investigate the matter and to let him know whether or not it is permissible for men to use gold-teeth, and that he'd avoid this kind of case in case it is not permissible, and in case of its being permissible, to elucidate this matter in such a manner that he himself contended and that the Maudh who declared it to be impermissible might reconsider his statement.

(It seemed appropriate to get the reply which has given to the honorable doctor, published in Furan.)

Respected friend As-Salamau As-Sallam and Rahmatullah u.w.Burakhaba.

I received the letter you send on 14th April. I complied with your request to probe into the matter. After consulting various books, I came to the following conclusion, that the use of gold-teeth is legally permissible, provided that and expert dentist considers it to be necessary. This is proved, from the Hadith by Sayyiduna Ibn Asad which has been recorded by Imam Tirmidhi, Imam Abu Dawud and Imam Nasai and which has also been cited by the compilers of Mishkatul Masabih, with relevant references. According to this Hadith, Sayyidina Arafah bin Asad's nose was cut off during a battle. He got himself an artificial nose made of silver. After a few days, however, it developed a bad smell. The Messenger of Allah (pbuh) then ordered him to get an artificial nose made of gold.

In the tradition by Imam Tirmidhi, the following words form the concluding statement.

And the same applies as far as teeth are concerned, namely that the use of gold is permissible. This regulation has been derived through analogy from the above Hadith. Further it does not matter whether one uses one teeth with (wires made of) gold or whether one gets oneself tooth made of gold. Both are permissible.

And Nasir Raya (a commentary of the (Hidayah) have been quoted several Ahadith regarding this issue. According to one Hadith which has been mentioned is Mujaam Awaas Tabarani, Sayyidina Abu bin Al Alf and front teeth had become loose. The Messenger of Allah (pbuh) then ordered him to tie them with gold:

And there is an even more explicit Hadith which Imam Zaydah cited with reference to Ibn Qayn's Mujaamus -Sahaba, namely that, the son of Abdullah bin Ubayy bin Sallam. Sayyidina Abdullah (pbuh) narrated: 'My front teeth broke during the battle of Sayyidina Umar bin Khattab (R.A) once said to the people: 'What is wrong with you? You see that a person goes around causing injury to another's honour and repute, and yet you neither stop him nor do you mind what he does!' The people said: 'We bear his vicious tongue, lest he assaults our honour and repute in case we speak out.' Sayyidina Umar bin Khattab replied: 'If that is the case, then you are not eligible to bear testimony.' Ibn Abi Jahl, while quoting this tradition explained its meaning as follows, that on the Day of Judgement such Mudahines will not give testimony regarding the followers of the former Prophets and the Khaleefah.

Those who call others unto Allah need to avoid six vices beginning with the Arabic letter 'ghayn'. It is expected that Allah will grant success.

1 - Avoid (i.e. exceeding the proper limits)
   'Exceed not in your religion'
   (Surat Al-Maidah 5:88)

2 - Avoid (rancour)
   'Place not in our hearts any rancour toward those who believe'
   (Surat Al-Baqara 2:143)

3 - Avoid (pride)
   'Turn not your cheek in scorn'
   (Surat Al-Maidah 5:30)

4 - Avoid (obliviousness)
   'Be not among the oblivious'
   (Surat Al-Maidah 5:89)

5 - Avoid (backbiting)
   (Backbiting is worse than adultery)
   (Surat Al-Maidah 5:90)

6 - Avoid (anger)
   (Repeat a third time)
   'for if you were stern and fierce of heart....'

Once one reaches forty years of age, one should get into the habit of reciting the following Dua.

رَبِ ازْعِعْنِي أَنْ أَشْكُرُ بِمَاتِكَ الَّذِي نَعْمَتُ عَلَيْنَ وَأَلْبَى
وَأَغْفِلْ ذَنَاكَ وَأَمْشِ عَلَى الْطَّرِيقِ الَّذِي نَتَقَلَّبُ يَدَيْكَ
وَأَنْعِمْنَا عَلَى الْأَهْلِ وَأَنْعِمْنَا عَلَى الْأُمُودِينَ

The excellence of the companions

1. Sayyidina Abu Bakr Siddiq is called from all the eight gates of Paradise.
2. The angels recited: Ya Amin al-furqan min al-furqan when Sayyidina Abu Bakr Siddiq passed away. (Ma’ rail Qur’an 5/89)
3. Allah Most High conveyed His Salam to him (Hadith)
4. Sayyidina Abu Bakr Siddiq is the only companion whose parents and children became all Muslims.

According to Ruh-ul-Ma’ini this is peculiar to Sayyidina Abu Bakr Siddiq alone (Ma’ rail Qur’an, commentary of Ruh-ul-Ma’ini).

The injunction concerning abortion after the fourth month

Aborting children alive or killing them is a major sin and great wrong. Aborting a child in the fourth month of pregnancy, too, is covered by this regulation, as in the fourth month the child is given what is known as ‘Ruh’ (i.e. Soul, spirit), and one begins to consider it as living human being. Similarly, if a person kills a pregnant woman on her belly, as a result of which she aborts, then, according to the consensus of the Ummah, the one who hit her must give a slave or the price thereof as blood-wit. And if the child which issued from her body was alive and died thereafter, then he will have to pay the full blood-wit.

Aborting a fetus before the fourth month is not lawful, either there be compelling circumstances, but an abortion unless before the fourth month is not as great a crime as an abortion after the fourth month, as in that case it is not definite killing of a human being. (Ma’ rail) (Ma’ rail Qur’an 3/208)

Regulations concerning birth-control through tablets and other medicines

Adopting any method which prevents conception has become known as birth-control for (or family planning) throughout the world. There are hundreds of such methods. The Messenger of Allah referred to this as ‘wad Khuff’, namely secretly burying children alive.

(As has been related by Muslim, on the authority of Khadijah bint Wahbi)

And according to some traditions the Messenger of Allah kept silent regarding ‘A’sT (ie any such method which prevents the semen from reaching the womb), or that he did not prohibit it. This however is peculiar to occasions of need, as it is a non-permanent form of birth-control. (Ma’ rail)

Some methods of birth-control what are in vogue nowadays prevent a couple from having children for good. Adopting such methods is not permissible under any circumstances. Verily Allah knows best (Ma’ rail Qur’an 6/283)

A prophetic prescription to treat ailments of the heart

Sayyidina Saad bin Abi Waqqas, narrated: I fell ill and the Messenger of Allah came to visit me. He kept his hand between my shoulders, and I felt the coolness of his hand spread all over my chest. He said: he suffered a heart-attack. Take him to Harith bin Khilad who works as a physician in Thaqfi. He should pound seven Ajwah-dates along with their stones and administer them to him.

This Hadith is of great significance as far as the benefits of dates are concerned. This was the first time in the history of medicine that heart attack was diagnosed.

An effective method of treating ailments of the heart.
One should keep one’s hand on the heart, recite ‘Subhanallah. Wa ihlimallah. 111 times and blow one’s breath over one’s chest. One will feel better, Inshallah. This method has been tried many times with success.

The ups and downs the Messenger of Allah experienced during his mission of calling others unto Allah

- At a time he attained proximity of two bows’ length.
- At a time he was made to suffer Abu Jahil’s assaults.
- At times he was given honorific titles of Shahad and Bashir.
- At a time he was referred to as poet, madman and magician.
- At a time he was addressed: لو أراك لا حلف إلا اللؤلؤ (Was it not for you, I had never created the worlds)
- At a time it was said to him: لو اندراس في كل مرة شرما (If we warned We had sent a Warner unto each township).
- At times the keys to all treasures were kept at the doorstep of his dwelling.
- At a time he had to go to the door of Abu Shahmah the Jew, for a handful of barley. (Mukhtati, - Sudi, p. 534)

Six advices given by Sayyidina Umar ﷺ

1. Excessive laughing reduces a person’s awe.
2. If some one jokes too much, then people treat him lightly and consider him of little worth.
3. Too much talking leads to many lapses.
4. Many lapses cause one’s sense of shame and modesty to decrease.
5. An absence of shame and modesty leads to a decrease of abstinence and sobriety.
6. A decrease of abstinence and sobriety causes one’s heart to die. (Haytam - Salatun 3/562)

Protection against thieves and satanic influences

- Someone who recites twenty-one times ‘Bismillah’ before going to bed shall be protected against thieves, satanic influences and sudden death.

Over overpowering an oppressor

If someone recites fifty times ‘Bismillah’ in front of an oppressor then Allah shall cause him to be triumphant. (With reference to Muzaffari - Ahabad, p. 87)

Indigence and affluence

- Indigence results from seven things:
  1. Offering prayers in a haste.
  2. Urinating while standing.
  3. Taking ablution in the same place where one has urinated.
  4. Drinking water while standing.
  5. Putting out the lantern with one’s mouth.
  7. Wiping one’s face with the sleeves or hem of one’s dress.

- Affluence results from seven things:
  1. Receiving the Holy Qur’an.
  2. Offering Prayers five times a day.
  3. Being grateful to Allah.
  4. Helping the poor and needy.
  5. Asking forgiveness for one’s sins.
  6. Treating one’s parents and other relatives well.

Improving one’s mind and memory

If one recites 786 times and blows it over some water and then drinks this water when the sun rises, then this shall sharpen one’s mind and improve one’s memory.
Memorizing the Holy Qur’an

Write Surah Inshirah (with saffron or some non-toxic ink) and then dissolve it in water. Consuming such water shall help one memorize the Holy Qur’an and to acquire (religious) knowledge.

For a strong memory

If someone has got a weak memory, then he should write the following Ayat on some pieces of bread, and eat that bread.

On Saturday he should write:

On Sunday he should write:

On Monday he should write:

On Tuesday he should write:

On Wednesday he should write:

On Thursday he should write:

On Friday he should write:

(This should be done in the morning, with one’s ablution intact. Inshallah one’s memory will improve.) (Fadaha-Dunya, with reference to Khayamah e-’Amail, p 17)

Peculiarities of Surah Duha
(For getting a job)

Many Amils have stated that Surah Duha has got peculiar effects. The letter ‘Kaaf’ appears nine times in this Surah. Someone who is desirous of getting employed should remain seated in the place where he had offered his Fajr prayers. Then he should recite Surah Duha as follows: When ever he comes across the letter ‘Kaaf’ he should recite nine times ‘Ya Karim’. This he should do for nine days. If his objectives has not been obtained, then he should recite this Amal eighteen times. And in case his objective has still not been obtained, he should recite it twenty seven times, saying twenty seven time ‘Ya Karim’ whenever he comes across the letter ‘Kaaf’. Inshallah he shall get a job. (Shahzaib) (With reference to Khayamah e-’Amail, p 11)

The testimony of a person who stays bare-headed

Islam upholds teachings of highest moral and ethical standing. It forbids all sorts of mean and vile behaviour and manners. Roaming around bare-headed in market-places and streets is contradiction to human dignity. This is why the honourable jurists have stated that the testimony given by such a person shall not be accepted by the court. The custom of roaming around bareheaded has resulted from the Muslim’s attempt to copy western lifestyles and civilization. Otherwise, going about with an uncovered head is not thought well of in an Islamic society. (Tahsin al-Sinanah 3/229) (Masq al-musadd 848)

The blessings of prayer

A Hadhramite Arzaq was given two Dirhams by his wife to purchase some flour. While going to the market he met a slave who wept bitterly. He asked him for the reason of his crying. The slave answered: ‘My master gave me two Dirhams to purchase groceries, but I lost the money now he will surely beat me!’ Arzaq gave the slave two Dirhams and engaged himself in prayers until evening, hoping that he might get some thing but in vain. In the evening he went to the shop of his friend who was a carpenter. His friend told him: ‘Take along this sack of cubelts, you can use it to kindle fire in your stove. I have nothing else to give you.’ He took the sack and went to his home. There he threw the sack inside and went to the mosque. He offered prayers and then kept sitting for very long time, hoping that his family would go to sleep and not quarrel with him. When he finally went home, he saw that the folk of his house-hold was busy baking bread. He asked them: ‘From where did you get flour?’ They said: ‘It is the same flour you brought in that sack. You should always buy flour from where you bought it today.’ He said: ‘I will do so.’ (Raihun al-Sharif, p.62)

Cause and cure of Children’s misbehaviour

Children’s misbehaviour and disobedience usually result from their parents sins. The parents should first of all reform themselves. Also recite these times Surah Fathah, blow it over some water and make the child drink it. (Masq al-musadd 7/208)

The punishment for slander

In Zarqani (Sharif Muwatta Imam Malik) a very strange incident has been mentioned. In the outskirts of Madina lived a woman. One day she died, and another woman was giving her the last bath. When her hand touched the dead woman’s thigh, she said, (to some women who were sitting nearby): ‘Sisters! This woman who died today had illicit relations with such a person.’ She had hardly finished her speech, when her hand stuck to the dead woman’s thigh. No matter how much she pulled, she was not able to release her hand. Quite some time had passed that way. The woman’s heirs said: ‘Lady, hurry up with bathing our dead. Soon it will be evening, and we have to offer the funeral prayer and bury her as well,’ the woman said: ‘I am done with your dead, but she is not done with me.’ Night came, but the woman’s hand still stuck to the thigh of the dead woman. The matter complicated, so the dead woman’s heirs decided to consult scholars on this matter. One scholar, on being told that a woman gave the last bath to another woman when suddenly her hand stuck to the dead woman’s thigh, that no one is able to release it, advised that the woman’s hand be amputated. The heirs of the woman however did not want to disable her. So they went to another scholar, who advised them to cut the flesh of the dead woman. The heirs of the dead woman however said that they do not want to mutilate the corpse. Three days passed like that, and since it was not the corpse began to stink. The news of this odd situation spread all over the outskirts of Madina. The people thought that here there is no solution to their problem, so they decided to go to Madina where Imam Malik is, was acting as Qadi-ul-Qadah. They presented themselves to the honourable Imam and said: ‘Sir! One woman has died, another woman was bathing her when suddenly her hand got stuck to the dead woman’s thigh, and there is no way of releasing her hand. Three days have passed like that. What is your decree? Imam Malik is, said: ‘Take me there.’ He then asked the woman from behind a screen: ‘Lady, when your hand got stuck, were you saying anything?’ She said: ‘Yes! I said only that much that the dead woman had illicit relations with such a person,’ Imam Malik is, asked her: ‘Lady, did you slander her or do you have four eye witnesses (to support your statement)?’ She said: ‘No.’ He asked: ‘Then why did you slander her? She said: ‘She used to pass by his door, carrying a water-pot.’ On hearing this the honourable Imam went through the whole Qur'an. Then he said: 'In the Holy Qur'an comes:

And those who accuse honourable women but bring not four witnesses, scourge them with eighty stripes.'
(Surat Nis, Ayat 3)

He further said: 'You accused a dead woman, and you have no witness. I hence decree that you be scourged.' So they began to scourge her, stripe after stripe. After seventy stripes her hand still stuck to the dead woman's thigh, and also after seventy-five and even seventy-nine stripes. After the eightieth stripe however her hand was released. (Mawdi ki bahya p32)

Strengthening the ties of kinship

Our beloved Prophet Muhammad ﷺ said:
1. Strengthening the ties of kinship fosters love
2. It increases one's wealth
3. It increases one's life span
4. It causes an expansion of provisions
5. It prevents one from dying an evil death
6. It avoids all sorts of calamities and afflictions
7. It reinvigorates a country regarding its population, and also otherwise
8. It is a means of forgiveness of sins
9. Good deeds are accepted on account thereof
10. One becomes entitled to go to Paradise because of it
11. Allah strengthens His relation with those who strengthen the ties of kinship
12. Allah's mercy descends upon a nation where those who strengthen the ties of kinship dwell.

The Messenger of Allah ﷺ further said: 'Learn about Your ancestors so that you may recognize your relatives and strengthen your relation with them. He further said:

'\begin{quote}
A person who desires to maintain close relationships and desires a long life span ought to strengthen the ties of kinship with his relatives.
(Bukhari and Muslim)
\end{quote}'

A person who desires a long life span and that he does not die an evil death, ought to fear Allah and treat his relatives well. (Targhib wa Tarhib)

Allah increases the life span of a person who is charitable and who strengthens the ties of kinship; He saves him from dying an evil death and keeps calamities and affliction away from him. (Targhib wa Tarhib)

'Ahm' (i.e. the womb kinship) is a branch of Divine mercy, Allah said: I shall strengthen my relation with those who strengthen your ties, and I shall sever relation with those who sever your ties. (Bukhari)

The Messenger of Allah ﷺ further said, Allah's mercy does not descend upon a people among whom there is a person who severs relations with his relatives. (Shud al Inam, Baitulq)

There is no sin worse than rebellion and severing relations with one's relatives, as these sins call for immediate punishment in this world as well as in the hereafter. (Tirmidhi and Abu Dawud)

The Messenger of Allah ﷺ said: 'A person who severs relations with his relatives shall not enter Paradise.' (Bukhari and Muslim)

Our beloved Prophet was going some where when a desert Arab came to him pulling his camel by its nose-string. He said, 'O Messenger of Allah, I am going some where and I have paid Zakah, tell me something on account of which I shall get Paradise and redemption from Hell.' He said: 'Worship Allah alone, do not associate anything with Him. Offer the prayer, pay the Zakah, and strengthen the ties of kinship.' After he left, the Messenger of Allah ﷺ said, 'If he does what I told him then he shall get Paradise.' (Bukhari and Muslim)
The Messenger of Allah ﷺ said: ‘Allah causes a people to populate a country. He grants them wealth and never looks at them with enmity.’ The companions asked: ‘O Messenger of Allah ﷺ, how come Allah is so kind to this people?’ He replied: ‘People who strengthen the ties of kinship are treated that way.’ (Targhib wa Tarhib)

He also said: ‘A soft-tempered person shall reap the goodness of both worlds, and treating one’s relatives well, looking after one’s neighbours and being kind to the people in general causes a country to be fertile and well-populated. And people who do so shall have a longer life.’ (Targhib wa Tarhib)

A person once said: ‘O Messenger of Allah ﷺ, have I committed a major sin? How could my repentance ever be accepted?’ He said: ‘Is your mother alive?’ He said: ‘No.’ He further asked: ‘Is your mother sister alive?’ He replied: ‘Yes.’ The Messenger of Allah ﷺ then told him to treat her well. (Targhib wa Tarhib)

Once the Messenger of Allah ﷺ addressed a gathering: ‘A person who does not fulfill the rights of his relatives should sit by us.’ On hearing this, one person got up and left the gathering. He went to his maternal aunt with whom he was not on friendly terms, apologized to her and asked her to forgive him. Then he returned to the gathering. When he arrived, the Messenger of Allah ﷺ said: ‘Allah’s mercy does not descend upon a people among whom there is a person who does not maintain friendly relations with his relatives.’ (Targhib wa Tarhib)

He further said: ‘On the night before Friday the deeds and acts of worship of all mankind are presented to Allah. The deeds of a person who does not treat his relatives well, shall however not be accepted.’ (Targhib wa Tarhib)

A strange story about strengthening the ties of kinship

Once the Messenger of Allah ﷺ enjoined the women folk to give charity, telling them to give their jewelry if they have got nothing else to give. Sayyidah Zainab bint al-Harithah heard this, said to her husband Sayyidina Abdullah bin Masud: ‘Go to the Messenger of Allah ﷺ and ask him if it would be alright if I give you whatever I want to give in charity, as you are needy.’ Sayyidina Abdullah bin Masud said: ‘Go and ask yourself.’ When she arrived at the mosque she found another woman who had come for the same purpose. Both were overcome with awe that they could not muster the courage to go inside and ask the Messenger of Allah ﷺ. Sayyidah Zainab left. When Sayyidah Bilal bin Rabi‘ah bin Thabit came out they requested him to go inside and tell the Noble Prophet ﷺ that there are two women who want to know whether they can give their charity to their husbands and the orphan children under their care. They also requested him not to mention who they were. Sayyidah Bilal went back in. The Messenger of Allah ﷺ wanted to know who put the question. Sayyidah Bilal replied: ‘One woman from the Ansar, and a woman named Zainab.’ He asked: ‘Which Zainab?’ He replied: ‘Zainab, wife of Abdullah bin Masud.’ The Messenger of Allah ﷺ then said: ‘Tell them that they shall get a double reward, one for treating their relatives well, and one for charity.’ (Tadhkira and Musnad)

Matter pertaining to Dua and Zikr

A person who says:

لَهُمَا رَبَّانَا يَا سُجَّدُوا لِلّهِ وَبَيَاءُهُ. (Hisban Ham - Ibn Abi Shaddad, p 335)

Says: ‘These are for Me.’ Then say ten times: Salallahu alayh. The Messenger of Allah ﷺ taught me some words, but nothing lengthy. The Messenger of Allah ﷺ said: ‘Teach me some words, but nothing lengthy. The Messenger of Allah ﷺ said: ‘Say ten times: Allahu Akbar, Allah will reply: ‘These are for Me.’ Then say ten times: Subhanallah, Allah will reply: ‘These are for Me.’ Then say: ‘I have forgiven you.’ And if you say that ten times, then Allah will say each time: ‘I have forgiven you.’ (Hisban Ham - Tabari, p 494)"

The Messenger of Allah said: if a person says

"If you mount, ride; and if you dismount, don't be a burden to others. If you ascend, ascend; and if you descend, don't be a burden to others. If you ascend, ascend; and if you descend, don't be a burden to others."

then these words shall be written as they are, and hung to the Mighty throne. No sin he commits shall cause them to be erased until on the Day of Judgement when he stands before his Lord, he shall find these words just as he has uttered them.

(Hanjal Hain - Bevran p 40)

Hasan bin Abi Thalib said: I stated that Sayyidina Samurah bin Jundub said: Should I not narrate unto thee a Hadith which I had heard several times from Allah's Messenger and from Sayyidina Abu Bakr and from Sayyidina Umar and from Sayyidina 'Amir ibn al-'As? I said: For sure, narrate if Sayyidina Samurah then said: If a person recites morning and evenings:

(O Allah, guided me)

And You guided me

And You gave me to eat

And You gave me to drink

And You shall cause me to die

And You shall bring me back to life

Then Allah shall surely grant him whatever he asks for.

(Muntakhab Al-Adil, Hon Zikr-E-Din, p 442)

A person who is appointed as a judge between two people may in order to find out the truth, make a statement in opposition to his actual decision.

In Musnad Ahmad relates that the Messenger of Allah said: There were two women who had their two children with them. A wolf came and snatched one of the children. The women haggled with each other about the remaining child, both claiming it to be theirs. The mother was brought to notice of Sayyidina Dawud, who judged in favour of the elder woman, that the child belonged to her. They had hardly left when Sayyidina Salaminan said: 'Get me a knife; I will cut the child into two halves and give one half to both.' The elder woman kept quite, but the young one raised a hue and cry. 'May Allah have mercy on you, don't do that! The boy belongs to the other woman, give it to her,' Sayyidina Salamanan understood and gave the boy to the younger woman.

Why the people of Paradise shall be made to wear bracelets.

إن الله يخلد الذين أزواج وعملوا الصلاة جرت تجلى من حديث النبهان من ابن مسرور في البصائر.

Laat Allah will cause those who believe and do good works to enter Gardens underneath which rivers flow, wherein they will be made to wear bracelets of gold, and pearls, and their remnant therein will be silk.” (Surah Hujj, Ayat 23).

Here one might think that wearing bracelets is womanish, and that it is not becoming for a male.

The answer to this is as follows, that it is a mark of distinction for kings to wear a crown on their heads, and bracelets around their wrists. In one Hadith it has been mentioned that when Suraqah bin Malik – prior to his embracing Islam – the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) was on his journey of migration, his horse as manifestation of Allah’s might – got stuck in the soil. When Suraqah repented, the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) prayed to Allah and the horse was released. At that time the Noble Prophet (peace be upon him) promised Suraqah that the Muslims take Kiara’s bracelets as spoils of war, shall given to him. Then during the days of Sayyidina Omar (may Allah be pleased with him) when Persia was conquered, these bracelets were brought along with other spoils of war. Suraqah bin Malik claimed them, and they were given to him. In short, it is not customary for ordinary men to wear a crown on their heads, rather it is a mark of regal distinction, as is the case with bracelets. This is the reason why the people of Paradise shall be made to wear bracelets. As for as the bracelets themselves are concerned, in this Surah and in Surah Fath it is made clear that they shall be made of gold; while in Surah Nisa it has been mentioned that they shall be made of silver. Hence the exegeters have stated that the people of Paradise shall be made to wear three types of bracelets.

1. Those made of gold
2. Those made of silver
3. Those made of pearls, as has been mentioned in this Ayat.

(Mu'awilah Qur'an, p 234, Ayat 17)

A prophetic prescription how to save oneself from the mischief of the jinn

(Im Abi Hatim mentioned that there was a patient who was troubled by some jinn. Sayyidina Abdullahu bin Mas'ud, then recited the following Ayat into his ear:

لا تحسبوا أنني سأركبكم عابدا ولا يكون الله في القبائل. قاله碎ال'Bala. قال إنما أريد أن يكون الله في القبائل. قاله碎ال'Bala. قال إنما أريد أن يكون الله في القبائل. قاله碎ال'Bala. قال إنما أريد أن يكون الله في القبائل. قاله碎ال'Bala. قال إنما أريد أن يكون الله في القبائل. قاله碎ال'Bala. قال إنما أريد أن يكون الله في القبائل. قاله碎ال'Bala. قال إنما أريد أن يكون الله في القبائل. قاله碎ال'Bala. قال إنما أريد أن يكون الله في القبائل. قاله碎ال'Bala. قال إنما أريد أن يكون الله في القبائل. قاله碎ال'Bala. قال إنما أريد أن يكون الله في القبائل. قاله碎ال'Bala. قال إنما أريد أن يكون الله في القبائل. قاله碎ال'Bala. قال إنما أريد أن يكون الله في القبائل. قاله碎ال'Bala. قال إنما أريد أن يكون الله في القبائل. قاله碎ال'Bala. قال إنما أريد أن يكون الله في القبائل. قاله碎ال'Bala. قال إنما أريد أن يكون الله في القبائل. قاله碎ال'Bala. قال إنما أريد أن يكون الله في القبائل. قاله碎ال'Bala. قال إنما أريد أن يكون الله في القبائل. قاله碎ال'Bala. قال إنما أريد أن يكون الله في القبائل. قاله碎ال'Bala. قال إنما أريد أن يكون الله في القبائل. قاله碎ال'Bala. قال إنما أريد أن يكون الله في القبائل. قاله碎ال'Bala. قال إنما أريد أن يكون الله في القبائل. قاله碎ال'Bala. قال إنما أريد أن يكون الله في القبائل. قاله碎ال'Bala. قال إنما أريد أن يكون الله في القبائل. قاله碎ال'Bala. قال إنما أريد أن يكون الله في القبائل. قاله碎ال'Bala. قال إنما أريد أن يكون الله في القبائل. قاله碎ال'Bala. قال إنما أريد أن يكون الله في القبائل. قاله碎ال'Bala. قال إنما أريد أن يكون الله في القبائل. قاله碎ال'Bala. قال إنما أريد أن يكون الله في القبائل. قاله碎ال'Bala. قال إنما أريد أن يكون الله في القبائل. قاله碎ال'Bala. قال إنما أريد أن يكون الله في القبائل. قاله碎ال'Bala. قال إنما أريد أن يكون الله في القبائل. قاله碎ال'Bala. قال إنما أريد أن يكون الله في القبائل. قاله碎ال'Bala. قال إنما أريد أن يكون الله في القبائل. قاله碎ال'Bala. قال إنما أريد أن يكون الله في القبائل. قاله碎ال'Bala. قال إنما أريد أن يكون الله في القبائل. قاله碎ال'Bala. قال إنما أريد أن يكون الله في القبائل. قاله碎ال'Bala. قال إنما أريد أن يكون الله في القبائل. قاله碎ال'Bala. قال إنما أريد أن يكون الله في القبائل. قاله碎ال'Bala. قال إنما أريد أن يكون الله في القبائل. قاله碎ال'Bala. قال إنما أريد أن يكون الله في القبائل. قاله碎ال'Bala. قال إنما أريد أن يكون الله في القبائل. قاله碎ال'Bala. قال إنما أريد أن يكون الله في القبائل. قاله碎ال'Bala. قال إنما أريد أن يكون الله في القبائل. قاله碎ال'Bala. قال إنما أريد أن يكون الله في القبائل. قاله碎ال'Bala. قال إنما أريد أن يكون الله في القبائل. قاله碎ال'Bala. قال إنما أريد أن يكون الله في القبائل. قاله碎al'Bala. (Sayad: 115-116)

Deemed you then that We had created you for naught, and that you would not be returned unto us? Now Allah be Exalted, the True king! There is no god save Him, the Lord of the Throne of grace. He who craves unto any other god along with Allah has no proof thereof. His redeeming is only with his Lord. Let disbelievers will not be successful. And say: My Lord! Forgive and have mercy for You are best of all who show mercy. (Surah: Manzumah Ayat 115-116)

That person recovered. When this was mentioned to the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him), he said: 'O Abdullah, what did... you receive in his ear? so Sayyidina Abdullah told him, The Noble Prophet passed on the following saying: 'You have brought him back to life by reciting these Ayahs into his ear. By Allah, if a person was to recite these Ayahs with full faith over a mountain, the mountain would move from its place.' (Tafseer Ibn Kathir 4/74)

When a group goes forth, they should recite this prayer mornings and evenings:

Abu Nu'aim recorded: The Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) had dispatched a troop, and ordered them to recite mornings and evenings the Ayah:

We kept reciting it both mornings and evenings, and returned safe and sound with plenty of booty. The Messenger of Allah further said: My followers shall be saved from drowning when they recite the following prayer when embarking on a vessel:

The sermon which Sayyidina Abdullah bin Salam delivered in front of those who slew Sayyidina Uthman

Baghawi recorded on his own authority the sermon which Sayyidina Abdullah bin Salam delivered during the Fifteen etiquettes pertaining to the mosque.

1 - One should greet those who are already present in the mosque with Salam, and if there is no one, then one should say:

السلام عليكم ورحمة الله وبركاته

Here one should however remember that it is appropriate to greet only in case those who are present are not engaged in optional prayers, reciting the Holy Qur'an, Divine remembrance, etc.

2 - One should offer two Rakat ‘Tahiyyat Masjid’ after entering the mosque and before sitting down, provided it is not any of the execrable times, i.e., sunrise, sunset, or when the sun is in the zenith.

3 - One should not engage in buying and selling.
4 - One should not take out arms, such as swords and arrows.
5 - One should not make any announcement regarding one's lost property.
6 - One should not raise one's voice.
7 - One should not talk about worldly matters.
8 - One should not quarrel with anyone present in the mosque.
9 - One should not forcefully make one's way into the row, if there is not enough space.
10 - One should not pass in front of someone who is offering prayers.
11 - One should not play with any part of one's body.
12 - One should not crack one's fingers.
13 - One should not spit or blow one's nose in the mosque.
14 - One should be neat and clean and unsoiled by any impurity, and one should not take insane people or little children to the mosque.
15 - One should engage oneself in Divine remembrance. Qurutubi stated, after mentioning these fifteen etiquettes, that a person who does all the above has discharged the right of the mosque, and the mosque has become a haven of peace and security for him. (Ma'ariful Qur'an 6/416)

Buildings which are meant for Divine Remembrance teaching the Holy Qur'an and other matters pertaining to religion are governed by the same regulations as mosques.

Abu Hayyan stated in the Tafsir 'Bahr Muhit' that the word 'سراير' has been used in the Holy Qur'an in a general sense. It includes mosques as well as all such buildings which were built especially for teaching the Holy Qur'an and other matters pertaining to religion, delivering sermon, and engaging in Divine Remembrance, such as Madaris and Khanqahs. These buildings too, are governed by the same injunctions, hence it is incumbent to duly respect them. (Ma'ariful Qur'an 6/417)

This refers to mosques, i.e. the raising of mosques.

Allah most High has permitted the raising of mosques, and the giving of permission here is tantamount to a command; and raising of mosques means to duly honour and respect them. Sayyidina Ibn Abbas رضي الله عنه said: 'In the command to raise (mosques) Allah prohibited all kinds of absurd talk and actions in the mosque. Ibn Katheer, Kirmah, Muhofid, and other exegetes stated that the raising of mosques refers to the building of mosques, as has been stated in the Holy Qur'an: وَإِذٌ نَسْحَاهَا بَيْنَ الْبَيْنِينَ (87) بَيْنَ اسْتٍ وَالْبَيْنِينَ Here raising the foundations means (building the foundations thereof). Hasan Basri رضي الله عنه said that raising of mosques means honouring and respecting them, and keeping them clean of dust and impurities, as has been stated in a Hadith, that if anyone carries filth into the mosque, then the mosque shrinks just like skin shrinks when scorched by fire. Sayyidina Abu Sufyan رضي الله عنه said: 'If anyone removes dirt, filth or any thing troublesome from the mosque, then Allah shall build for him a house in Paradise.' (Ibn Majah)

Sayyidina Aishah رضي الله عنها narrated that the Messenger of Allah ﷺ ordered as to make mosques (i.e. a place meant for offering prayers) in our houses, and to keep them clean. (Qurutubi)

As a matter of fact, the word ﷺ implies the building of mosque, as well as honouring and respecting them and keeping them neat and clean. Keeping them neat and clean means keeping them clean of dust and impurities, as well as of every thing foul smelling. This is why the Messenger of Allah ﷺ would not let a person who had eaten onions or garlic enter the mosque, until he cleans his mouth, as has been stated in the books of Hadith. Entering the mosque after having smoked a cigarette, humagh, or after having eaten Belal or tobacco is governed by the same injunction.

In Sahih Muslim it has been recorded from Sayyidina Umar Faruq ﷺ that if the Messenger of Allah ﷺ perceived the smell of onions or garlic, from a person's mouth, he would make him leave the mosque and send him to Baqi. He said that if anyone has to eat onions or garlic, then he should eat them only after cooking them well, so as to remove their bad odour.

From this the honourable jurists have deduced that if a person suffers from any such ailment which causes trouble to those standing near him, then it is proper to make him leave the mosque, rather such a person should himself stay at home and offer his prayers there. (Materijal Qur'an 5414)

Raising of mosques

The meaning of 'raising of mosques' is, according to the majority of Sahaba and Tabais, the construction of mosques and keeping them neat and clean. Some have stated that this means also to adornment of the mosques so as to make them look impressive as well as their height. Sayyidina Uthman, adorned the Noble Prophet's mosque with wooden work, and Umar bin Abdul Aziz had lots of engravings and stone carvings done on the Noble Prophets mosque. All this happened at a time when many of the companions were still alive, and none of them disapproved thereof. The subsequent rulers spent considerable amounts on the construction of mosques. Walid bin Abdul Malik spent during his reign thirty the amount of the annual income of Syria on the construction and adornment of the Grand Mosque of Damascus. The mosque built by him stands up to this day. Imam Abu Hanifa holds that it is not forbidden to build high and beautiful mosques, provided one does not do so in order to show off, but with an intention of honouring and revering the house of Allah, and that doing so might yield a great reward. (Materijal Qur'an 6415)

Sayyidina Umar's crying on being counselled by an old woman

Once Sayyidina Umar and some other companions had set out on an important expedition. On their way they came across an old woman whose back was bent due to age. She was walking very slowly, supporting herself on a stick. She said to Sayyidina Umar: O Umar! What is the problem? O Umar! Where are you going? So when Sayyidina Umar stopped, she straightened herself, leaning on her stick. She said: O Umar, I have seen you in three different phases of your life. One was when in the scorching heat you took camels to their pasture, letting them graze from morning to evening. Then when he referred at night he was beaten by Al Khattab who said: Why did you not let them graze properly? His sister used to say: Nothing good comes from you. The old woman said: One phase was when you led camels to their pasture, and there was a place of canvas or an old blanket on your head, and you had a stick in your hand which you used to shake off leaves. The second phase was when the people began to call you Umar. This was so because Abu Jahl's name also happened to be Umar, and he had decreed that no one should call himself after him. Then in the second year after Hijrah Abu Jahl was killed. But until then the people had called him Umar. The old woman continued: Now no one calls you Umar or Umar. Rather people address you as 'Commander of the Faithful'. After all that the old woman said: Fear Allah with regard to your subjects. It is easy to become the 'Commander of the Faithful', but it is difficult to discharge the rights of all those who have got a right, and you shall be asked about the rights of your subjects. So fulfill the rights of those who have got a right on you. Sayyidina Umar began to cry bitterly, until his blessed beard was wet with tears. The companions who were with him indicated the old woman that she should go now. Sayyidina Umar cried so bitterly that he was not able to speak, but he gestured that they should let her say whatever she has to say. Then after she left, the companions asked: Who was this old woman who wasted so much of your time? Sayyidina Umar said: Even if she had stood there whole night long, Umar would not have stirred from his place, except for offering the Fajr-prayr. This lady was Khawlah bint Tha'lubah whose complaint went high above the seventh heaven, and in response to which Allah Most High said:
Yahya Andalusi's honesty

Yahya Andalusi (who hailed from Andalusia which was once upon a time a centre of Islamic learning, and the soil of which brought forth great scholars like Hafiz Abdul Birr, Allamah Humaidi and Shaykh Akbar) was teaching Hadith, and countless people benefited from his knowledge. One day he stopped teaching and announced that he would take leave for an undetermined period of time. When his students asked why, he told them, 'I have to go to the remotest corner of Africa.' His students said, 'But why? It is very difficult to get there, the route is dangerous and there are all sorts of poisonous creatures!' He replied, 'I owe a Dirham to a merchant. I have to go there to pay him his dues.' The people said, 'It is only a Dirham!' He said: 'It has reached me then he began to narrate Hadith which had been transmitted through him. That giving charity of hundred thousand, hundred thousand, that means six hundred thousand does not carry as much reward as settling a due of one Dirham.' May Allah exalted Be His name also include as among those who discharge the rights of others, and through the blessings of those who discharged the rights of others - include us among those who fulfill all the demands of faith, Allahumma Amint.

A Tafsir in thousand volumes

The Tafsir (i.e. exegesis of the Holy Qur'an) 'Hadaa'iq dhat balghah' consisted of thousand volumes. It has however been lost to mankind. The exegesis of Surah Fatiha filled twenty-five volumes, and the exegesis of 'Bismillah' filled five volumes.

A one month's journey to learn the At-Tahiyyat

In the same 'Hadaa'iq' comes - though without any reference or source - that once, during the reign of Sayyidina Umar, an old man of maybe seventy, eighty years had come all the way from Syria to Madinah. Sayyidina Umar asked him: 'Why did you see him? Travelling for so long in the scorching sun had darkened his face so much that even earth seemed to be lighter in colour than his skin, and his hair had become long and dishevelled. Sayyidina Umar asked him what brought him here. Why he undertook such a long and arduous journey in his age. That man replied: 'I came to learn the At-Tahiyyat.' When Sayyidina Umar heard this, he began to cry until his blessed beard was wet with tears.

The reason for undertaking this journey.

One might ask: during Sayyidina Umar's reign there were no arrangements in Syria to teach the way of offering prayers? Well there were definitely arrangements, as many high-ranking companions resided there, so what could then have been the reason for undertaking such a long journey?

The companions who transmitted the Tashashud

The reason is that there were twenty - four companions who transmitted the Tashashud. Taking a closer look at the blessed Ahadith reveals that there is some minor difference in the wording as well as in grammatical details. In some versions comes: Shakht et la ilaha allahu wali yarcka Allah. In short the At-Tahiyyat transmitted by Sayyidina 'Imn Abbas differs from the one transmitted by Sayyidah Aishah.
difference on the Al-Tahiyat transmitted by Sayyidina Jabir ibn Waleed and Sayyidina Abdullah bin Mas'ud. Thus there were twenty-four companions who transmitted the Al-Tahiyat. Imam Abu Hanifa, however, adopted the one transmitted by Sayyidina Ibn Mas'ud, and there are twenty-two reasons to justify his preference. These twenty-two reasons have been mentioned differently by interpreters of Hadith. They are mentioned in detail in 'Inayah of Fathul Qadir and other books of Fiqh one reason why the old man undertook that journey was to find out which Al-Tahiyat is in vogue among the people of Madinah, because in Madinah there were still many companions who had offered their prayers behind the Messenger of Allah. These would become known which Al-Tahiyat they had heard from the Messenger of Allah. This is why he undertook that journey.

Sayyidina Muhammad's lofty character

Once the Messenger of Allah had to go to Quba. He was mounted on an unslatted donkey. Sayyidina Abu Hurairah too, was with him. The Messenger of Allah told him to mount the donkey. Sayyidina Abu Hurairah was a man of heavy build. He jumped to mount the donkey, but couldn't do so. Then he tried again, trying to hold onto Allah's Messenger, but this way both of them fell down. Allah's Messenger mounted again and said: 'Come, I shall have you mount too.' Sayyidina Abu Hurairah said: 'Fine', but again he could not mount, and again both of them fell down. Once again Allah's Messenger asked him to mount, but Sayyidina Abu Hurairah said: 'By Him who has sent you with the truth, I shall not cause you to fall a third time. I shall not try to mount again.'

Once the Messenger of Allah was on a journey, when one of his companions suggested to roast a goat. One person said: 'I shall slaughter it.' Another said: 'I shall skin it.' Yet another said: 'I shall roast it.' The Messenger of Allah said: 'I shall collect fire-wood.' His companions said: 'O Messenger of Allah (صلى الله عليه وسلم), we can do it for you!' he said: 'Yes, I know that you'd do that for me, but I dislike to distinguish myself from my companions in matter like these, and Allah Most High, too, dislikes it (when one of His servants tries to distinguish himself from his companions).

Once, while on a journey, the Messenger of Allah alighted in order to offer the prayer. He went to the place where he intended to pray, but came back again. The people asked him where he was going. He said: 'I am going to tie my camel.' The people said, 'Why did you take the trouble? We can do that for you!' He said: 'None of you should ask people for help, not even when breaking a Miswak.'

Once the Messenger of Allah was sitting with his companions, eating dates. Sayyidina Suhairah joined them, too. He had covered one of his eyes as it was badly infected. He greeted and reached out for the dates. Allah's Messenger said to him: 'Your eye is sore, yet you want to have something sweet?' Sayyidina Suhairah said: 'O Messenger of Allah (صلى الله عليه وسلم), I am eating on behalf of the other eye.' This made the Messenger of Allah laugh.

Once the Messenger of Allah was having fresh dates. When Sayyidina Ali (صلى الله عليه وسلم) passed by. One of his eyes happened to be sore. He, too, drew close to have some dates. The Messenger of Allah (صلى الله عليه وسلم) said: 'Your eye is sore and yet you want to eat something sweet?' So Sayyidina Ali stepped back and sat down. The Messenger of Allah (صلى الله عليه وسلم) looked toward him, and he looked toward the Messenger of Allah (صلى الله عليه وسلم). He then took a date and threw it toward him, then one more and one more, until he had thrown seven dates. He said: 'These should suffice you. If you eat dates in an odd number then they won't harm you?' (Monthly 'Al-Muharram', May–June 2001, p.20)

Hoarding victuals to sell them at exorbitant prices causes perilous diseases

In the Musnad it has been mentioned that once, when leaving the mosque, Amirul Mu'minin Sayyidina Umar Faruq...
Scattered Pearls

victual spread on the ground. He asked where they had come from. The people said: They are for sale.' Sayyidina Umar رضى الله عنه then prayer to Allah for blessing. The people said: 'Someone had hoarded them.' He asked: 'Who did that?' They said: 'One is Farwakhi, the Freedman of Uthman, and the other is one of your freed slaves.' He then sent for both of them and asked them why they had done that. They said: 'We purchased these victuals from our wealth, and it is up to us when we sell them. It is our choice.' Sayyidina Umar رضى الله عنه said: 'Listen! I heard the Messenger of Allah said: say that if someone hoards foodstuff in order to sell it to the Muslims at a higher rate, then Allah shall cause him to become indigent or affect him with leprosy.' When Farwakhi heard that, he said: 'I turn to Allah in repentance. I shall never do that again.' The slave freed by Sayyidina Umar رضى الله عنه, however said: 'We bought it from our wealth and make profit when selling it. What is wrong with that?' The narrator of this Hadith, Abu Yahya رضي الله عنه said that when he saw that person again, he was afflicted by leprosy and roamed around as a leper.

In Ibn Majah comes that if someone hoards the Muslims; victuals to sell them at a higher rate, then Allah, shall raise him to become indigent or affect him with leprosy. (Musnad Ibn Kathir, p 372)

Three friends of a Human being

Knowledge, wealth and honour were friends. One day the time of their separation had come. Knowledge said: 'I can be found in places of learning.' Wealth said: 'You can look for me in the palaces of the rich and the rulers.' Honour however kept quit. Knowledge and wealth wanted to know why honour remained silent. Honour heaved a sigh and said: 'Once I part from someone there is no way to get me back.'

Ten characteristics of person who calls others unto Allah

Unto this then summon
And be upright as you were commanded
And follow not their lusts

And say: I believe in whatever Scripture Allah has sent down
And I am commanded to be just among you
Allah is our Lord and your Lord
Unto us our works and unto you your works
No argument between us and you
Allah will bring us together
And unto Him is the journeying
(Hujjat u. al-Imam 4: 283)

Hafiz Ibn Kathir said that this Ayat consists of ten complete sentences, and each sentence comprises certain injunctions. It is as though this Ayat contains ten commands. There is nothing to match this Ayat in the whole Qur'an excepting the Ayatul Kursi. The Ayatul Kursi, too, contains ten statements in ten sections.
(Ma'rifat Qur'an 2680)

The reality of repentance

The literal meaning of 'Tawbah' is to return, to have recourse to. In the terminology of the Holy Shariah 'Tawbah' means to give up a certain sin, to repent from a sin. Three conditions need to be fulfilled for repentance to be proper and in order, the first is that one immediately gives up the sin in which one is involved. The second is that one truly regrets one's deed. The third is that one firmly resolves not to commit that sin again. If one had omitted any legal obligation, then one should discharge it as soon as possible, and if the rights of Allah's bondmen were involved, then it is conditional to restore that right. If money had been involved then in case that person is still alive, the amount must be returned, or he should ask to be forgiven. And if the person has died, then one must give the amount to his heirs, and if there are no heirs, then one must deposit that amount in the Baitul Maal. And if there is no Baitul Maal, then one must give the amount in charity on behalf of that person. And if one had
If our balance of good deeds is heavy, then we shall go to Paradise, and if our balance of evil deeds is heavy, then we shall go to Hell.

A thought-provoking incident

Ever since watching TV is on the rise, more and more incidents of people who, under their death, were destined to be punished in the grave because of their watching TV, became known to us.

At times we are shown such incidents so that we may receive admonition. In a booklet entitled 'Perils of Television' there is mentioned a very thought-provoking incident concerning a young woman, a young woman and her mother lived together in a house. It was the month of Ramadhan, and the time to break the fast had come close. The mother said: 'Today we are expecting some guests. We have to prepare something to break the fast so come and help me!' The daughter replied: 'Not right now. There is a program on TV which I want to watch. I'll help you after wards.' As there was little time left, the mother insisted that she should help her right now. Her daughter however pretended not to have heard her, picked up the TV and went upstairs, thinking that if she stayed downstairs, then her mother would keep interrupting her. She went into her room upstairs, locked the door and settled down to watch that program. Her mother kept calling her, but she simply ignored her. Her mother prepared whatever she could for breaking the fast. In the meantime the guests had arrived, too. The guests sat down to break their fast. The mother called her daughter so that she would join them, but she got no reply. The mother became somewhat worried, so she went upstairs and knocked at the door, but again she got no reply. The mother then called her husband and sons upstairs. They also knocked the door and called the girl, but in vain. Finally they decided to break up the door and went in. Once inside they saw that the girl was dead, lying on her face.

The whole family was upset and they started to pick up the dead body, but they couldn't. It was as though the girl weighed several tons. That made the people more upset. One person happened to pick up the TV, and when he picked up the TV, the people could lift the dead body, as well. Soon they came to realize that they could not lift the body unless the TV was lifted, too. So they carried the dead body and the TV downstairs. They bathed the girl's dead body and shrouded her. Then when they wanted to take the body for it was again heavy as though someone had put a mountain on it, but as soon as they picked up the TV, the bier could easily be lifted. That was indeed a source of great embarrassment for the people. But they had to take the bier, of course, so someone picked up the TV and made the head, followed by the people carrying the bier. Also during the funeral prayer the TV stayed near the bier. Then on the way to the grave-yard again someone who carried the TV made the lead, while those who carried the bier followed. Then, after they had put the dead body into the grave filled up the grave with earth and levelled the ground, and when the people were about to go home, someone said, 'Pick up that TV.' But as soon as they picked up the TV the dead body was cast out of the grave. What an admonitory incident! So take admonition, O you who have eyes? So the people buried her again. But again, as soon as they picked up the TV, the dead body was cast out of the grave. The people said: 'It seems like we'll have to bury the TV as well.' Thus the girl was buried along with the TV.

May Allah protect us! Just think what an evil end, and what the girl has to suffer. Allah shows us things like that so that we may take heed. Now if we still don't learn our lesson, then it is nothing but our own fault.

(Tafsir Musjid - v: 1 - Ni-America, P. 139)

Four types of hearts

In the Musnad Ahmad comes that the Messenger of Allah ﷺ said: There are four

1 - Hearts which are clean. Such hearts are like a bright, shining lamp.
2 - Hearts which are as though they were covered up.
3 - Hearts which are turned over.
4 - Hearts which combine several characteristics.

The first type of heart belongs to a believer. It is beaming with light and radiance. The second type of heart belongs to an infidel. His heart is covered up. The third type of heart belongs to a hypocrite, who knows the truth and yet denies it. The fourth kind of heart belongs to a person who has traits of faith as well as of hypocrisy. Faith is like a meadow which is irrigated with pure water. And hypocrisy is like a boiler which is full of blood and pus. Now whichever characteristic increases shall dominate. This report has an excellent chain of transmission. (Tafsir ibn Katir 1/99)

A most enviable person

It has been related from Sayyidina Abu Umarah that the Messenger of Allah ﷺ said: The most enviable person among my friends is such a believer who has the least liabilities (i.e. he does not have a large family or much, wealth), he spends much of his time in prayer, and his worship bears the characteristic of 'Ihsan'; he is obedient to Allah, and always conscious of him. All this he does secretly and in solitude. No one knows who he is, no one points fingers at him. His livelihood barely suffices him, and he is patient and content with whatever he gets. Then the Messenger of Allah ﷺ said: 'He dies an early death, and there are only few women to cry for him, and he leaves behind only little.' (Musnad Ahmad, Jān Tāhirī, Sunan Ibn Mājah)

Note: This saying of Allah’s Messenger ﷺ means that although there are many friends of mine and many people who are favourable accepted by Allah, and although their characteristics and circumstances differ yet, the most enviable among the believers are those whose life matches... the above description — they have only little belongings and few dependants. Much of their time is spent in worship, yet they remain unknown. No one points at them, saying, 'Look! He is such — and such saint!' Their livelihood barely suffices them. They are patient and content. When their time has come, they die out of a sudden. Neither do they leave much behind — in terms of money, assets, buildings, gardens so there are hardly any disputes regarding the distribution of inheritance nor are there many women to cry over them.

This is truly an enviable condition in which these servants of Allah spend their lives. And - praise be to Allah - even today there are people who spend their lives in this manner. (Ma'arif al-Hadaa 2/86)

A strange incident regarding Sayyidina Abu Bakr’s رضي الله عنه acceptance of Islam

Allamah Jalaluddin Sayuti رضي الله عنه wrote that once, before the advent of Islam and before the beginning of Sayyidina Muhammad’sرسال علیه السلام mission, Sayyidina Abu Bakr رضي الله عنه had gone on a trade-journey to Syria. Shortly before reaching his destination, he saw a dream which Bahira the Monk interpreted from him. The monk said: Allah shall make your dream come true. A prophet shall be raised amongst you people, during his life-time you shall be his aide and support, and after his death you shall be his successor. Sayyidina Abu Bakr رضي الله عنه did not tell any one about his dream until Sayyidina Muhammad’sرسال الله عليه وسلم was granted prophethood. When he heard the Sayyidina Muhammad’sرسال الله عليه وسلم claim prophet hood, he went to him and asked: 'What is the proof that your claim is true?' Sayyidina Muhammad’sرسال الله عليه وسلم said: 'the dream which you saw on your trip to Syria! Overcome by happiness Sayyidina Abu Bakr رضي الله عنه embraced the Messenger of Allah’sرسال الله عليه وسلم and kissed him on his forehead. (Khasas – e – Kubra 1/29, kashid – e – Ma'arif al, p 97)

A well-tried prescription for the well-being of one's family

One companion once said: 'O Messenger of Allah صلى الله عليه وسلم, I am worried lest any harm befalls my children and my family!' The Messenger of Allah صلى الله عليه وسلم asked him how he was now. It said: 'By Him who has sent you with the truth, all my fears have vanished now.' (Ibn Umar 2/66, Kashid – e – Ma'arif al, p 75)

A person who is eager for this world, cannot safe him self from falling into sin

It has been reported from Sayyidina Anas رضي الله عنه that the Messenger of Allah صلى الله عليه وسلم said one day: 'Is it possible for someone to walk over water without wetting his feet?' The people replied 'That is not possible.' Upon hearing this the Messenger of Allah صلى الله عليه وسلم remarked, 'Similarly a person who is eager for this world cannot save himself from falling into sin. (Saheeh Al-Bukhari)

Note: A person who is eager for this world refers to such a person who has made worldliness the main objective of his existence. How could such a person possibly save himself from sin? But if a person, in spite of being occupied with worldly matters, intends to please Allah and to work for the hereafter, then his occupation in worldly matters becomes for him a means to achieve the objective. Such a person would not be considered as someone who is eager for this world, and despite of his being occupied with worldly matters he can save himself from falling into sin. (Ma'arif al-Hadaa 2/70)

Allah Most High keeps those who are dear to Him away from the world.

It has been recorded from Qatadah bin Nu'man that the Messenger of Allah صلى الله عليه وسلم said: If Allah loves a person, then He keeps him away from the world, just like you people
Scattered Pearls

keep a patient away from water when you know that it would harm him. (Munad Ahmad, Jana Tirmidhi)

Note: The world is what causes one to become oblivious of Allah, and which causes one to forget that one's real destination is the Hereafter. So if Allah loves someone and wished to grant that person the best of rewards then He keeps him away from the world just like we make a patient abstain from water. (Munafiq Hadith, 2/70)

What Sayyidina Abu Ad-Dardaa رضى الله عنه said to his wife who desired affluence

It has been related from Sayyidina Um Ad-Dardaa رضى الله عنها, that once she said to her husband: 'Why don't you aspire for affluence and office like others do?' He said: 'I heard the Messenger of Allah صلى الله عليه وسلم say: 'Ahead of you lies a valley which is indeed difficult to cross. People who have burdened themselves shall not be in a position to go through it easily. This is why I prefer to remain unburdened, so that I can cross that valley without trouble.' (This is why I do not aspire for affluence and office.) (Bukhari, Shahih al-Bukhari)

Don't be happy when your brother is struck by some misfortune

It has been related from Sayyidina Wathila bin Al Ash'ā رضى الله عنها, that the Messenger of Allah صلى الله عليه وسلم said: 'Don't be happy when your brother is struck by some misfortune (for if you do so then it might be that Allah saves him and puts you into trouble.' (Jami Tirmidhi)

Note: When differences arise between two people, and these differences then turn into enmity, then it happens that one of them feels happy at the other's distress. This is called 'Shamatat.' It is a vice just like jealousy, envy and malice are vices. This vice is greatly disliked by Allah. It happens quite often that one is punished for it already in this world. Allah saves the one who was struck by misfortune, and puts the other to trouble instead. (Munafiq Hadith 2/72)

A warning to those who are ostentatious

It has been related from Sayyidina Junub رضى الله عنه, that the Messenger of Allah صلى الله عليه وسلم said: 'If a person does a deed merely for the sake of fame, then Allah shall grant him fame, and if a person does a deed merely to show off then Allah shall cause it to be seen.' (Bukhari and Muslim)

Note: That means that one way of punishing those who do good deeds merely for the sake of fame and to show off, is to make their ostentation and hypocrisy known to all and sundry, everyone shall be made to witness that such-and-such wretch did not do this deed for Allah, but merely to earn himself a reputation. In short, apart from the torment of Hell, the veil which screened their ostentation and hypocrisy shall be torn apart and their wicked nature shall be shown to everyone. (Munafiq Hadith, 2/334)

A severe warning to all those who show off, trying to earn worldly fortune in the name of religion.

It has been related from Sayyidina Abu Huraira رضى الله عنه, that the Messenger of Allah صلى الله عليه وسلم said: Toward the end of times there will be a fraudulent people who try to earn worldly fortunes through religion. They will show off their poverty and asceticism, and they will wear dresses made from lamb-skin in order to impress the people. Their speech will be sweeter than sugar while in their breasts are the hearts of wolves. Allah says (with regard to them) that they are deluded by His giving them respite, or they dare to challenge me. I swear by My own self that I shall put them to such trials that even the wisest among them shall be left aghast. (Jami Tirmidhi)

Note: From this Hadith it is learnt that it is a kind of ostentation to adopt the outer appearance of worshippers and ascetic, and to say sweet words similarly to those uttered by Allah's favourites - in order to deceive simple-minded people and to earn worldly comforts in that manner. Allah threatens those people that already before their death they shall be put to great trials. (Ma'rifat Hadith 2/334)

An easy reckoning

It has been recorded from Sayyidah Aishah that after the prayer the Messenger of Allah would occasionally say: "O Allah let me have an easy reckoning." I asked: 'What does 'easy reckoning' mean?' He said: 'An easy reckoning that only a cursory glance shall be cast a person's book of deeds, then he is allowed to leave (i.e. he shall not be interrogated); O Aishah, someone who is interrogated on that day, is doomed.'

(Masud Thumad) (Ma'rifat Hadith)

Those who stay awake at night for Allah's sake shall enter Paradise without any reckoning

It has been recorded from Sayyidah Asma Bint Yazid that the Messenger of Allah said: 'On the Day of Judgement all people shall be gathered in a vast plain (i.e. after their resurrection). Then one of Allah's callers shall call out: 'Where are those who did not let their sides touch their beds (i.e. those who left their beds to offer the Tahajjud (prayer))? These people shall get up, and there shall be only few. Then they shall - by Allah's command enter Paradise without any reckoning, whereas every one else shall be ordered to come for the reckoning.' (Sahih al-Bukhari)

A great number of Sayyidina Muhammad's followers shall enter Paradise without any reckoning

Sayyidina Abu Umamah related that I heard the Messenger of Allah say: 'My Lord promised me that seventy thousand of my followers shall enter Paradise without reckoning, and each thousand shall be accompanied by another seventy-thousand, and three Hithiyas besides that. (That means that many people from among my followers shall enter Paradise without any reckoning.)'

Note: If one's both hands are filled, then this is called 'Hithiya' in Arabic. The English synonym would be 'full to the brim'. This Hadith means that Allah Most High has promised His beloved. "So Allah said to His Messenger: I shall send in My servants a thousand of his followers shall be sent to Paradise without any reckoning. Besides that each thousand shall be accompanied by another seventy-thousand who shall be sent to Paradise without reckoning and without being punished. Moreover Allah shall - in His infinities mercy - admit three great batches of Muslims into Paradise. All these people shall enter Paradise without having to give any reckoning and without any punishment.

The true meaning of such Ahadith will become manifest only on that very Day when all this shall happen. In this worldly life our knowledge and comprehension are too limited to understand these as well as many other matters; at times we even fail to fully understand what we read in the newspaper; but things like these we never had a chance to observe or to scrutinize.

Provisions from the invisible Treasure

Sayyidina Abu Hurairah related that during the days of Allah's Messenger a person returned home to his family who were starving. On seeing that, he went into the wilderness (to pray to Allah in utter humbleness). When his wife saw that (her husband went to pray) she was confident that Allah would surely provide for them. She made all the necessary preparations. She set her hand mill right, that in case there would come some grain from somewhere, she could quickly grind it into flour. She also heated the oven so that she could quickly bake bread. Then she herself prayed to Allah. 'O Lord, Provided for us!' Then she saw that the vessel near the hand mill... which was meant to store the freshly ground flour, was full with flour. When she went to the oven, she saw that the oven, too was full - with freshly backed bread! When her husband came back, he asked her: 'Did you get anything since I had left?' She said: 'There we've got some thing from our Sustainer.' Then he too, went to the hand mill, and lifted it in matter amazement. When this was mentioned to the Messenger of Allah (صلى الله عليه وسلم), he said: 'Had you not lifted it, then it would have kept grinding flour for you until the Day of Judgement.' (Ahmed Abad)

Coveting wealth and riches

Sayyidina Hakim bin Hizam narrated: Once I asked the Messenger of Allah (صلى الله عليه وسلم) for some wealth, and he gave me some. Then I asked again and he gave me again, and he said to me, 'O Hakim, wealth seems to be green and sweet to everyone; if someone acquires it without coveting it, then he shall be blessed therein; and if someone acquires it in greed, then he shall not be blessed therein. His condition shall be like that of a person suffering from an overly voracious appetite - no matter how much he eats, he never feels content. And the upper hand is better than the lower hand (i.e. giving is better than taking),' hearing this, Sayyidina Hakim bin Hizam exclaimed: 'O Messenger of Allah (صلى الله عليه وسلم), by Him who has sent you with the truth, after you I shall never ask anything of anyone until I die!' (Bukhari and Muslim)

Note: In Sahih Bukhari there is another Hadith according to which Sayyidina Hakim bin Hizam lived up to his pledge so far that even during the reign of Sayyidina Abu Bakr and Sayyidina Umar, he would not accept any stipend or gift, no matter how much they insisted. In Fathul Bari has been mentioned with reference to the Mustad of Ishaq bin Rahwyah, that Sayyidina Hakim bin Hizam did not accept anything during the Caliphate of Sayyidina Uthman, nor during the reign of Sayyidina Muawiyah until he passed away in the year 54 A.H., at the age of 120 years. (Mawarif Hatih 2/296)

A person who does not disclose his distress shall be forgiven

Sayyidina Abdullah bin Abbas said: 'If a person is in distress no matter whether his distress is related to his person or wealth - and he neither discloses his distress. Nor does he complain to the people, then Allah has taken it upon Himself to forgive him.' (Mawarif Hatih 2/296)

Note: This is indeed the highest degree of patience, not to disclose one's suffering to anyone. Such people were given a firm promise of forgiveness, Allah has taken it upon Himself to forgive them. May Allah grant us unshakable belief in His promises and may He grant us the strength to benefit there from. (Mawarif Hatih 2/296)

How Allah's Messenger exhorted his daughter to be patient

Sayyidina Usamah bin Zaid narrated that once Sayyidina Zainab, the daughter of Allah's Messenger (صلى الله عليه وسلم), sent someone to her august father to tell him that her child was about to breathe her last, and she also requested him to come. He sent someone to convey his Salam to her as well as the following message, 'Daughter, no matter what Allah takes from someone it is His alone, and whatever He gives to someone, it is His alone, and there is an appointed time for everything, so be patient and hope for reward.' His daughter then again sent someone to her father beseeching him to come. So he and some of his companions, namely Sayyidina Saad bin Ubada, Muadh bin Jabal, Ubay bin Kaab, Zaid bin Haritha, etc., all the others got up and went there. The child whose breath was fast and irregular was placed in the lap of Allah's Messenger (صلى الله عليه وسلم) who, on seeing the child's condition, began to shed tears. Sayyidina Saad bin Ubada asked: 'What is this, O Messenger of Allah (صلى الله عليه وسلم)?' he said: 'This is the outcome of the compassion which Allah has kept in the hearts of this bondmen, and Allah is compassionate only to those who are compassionate to each other.' (Bukhari and Muslim)
Scattered Pearls

Note: From the last part of the Hadith is learnt that shedding tears due to any grief is not a sign of impatience. Patience demands only that much that a person accepts anything that distresses him as something that had been decreed by Allah, and to bear it without despairing of Allah's mercy, without lamenting his fate, and without transgressing the limits set by Allah. Besides that it is just natural to shed tears if one's heart is overcome with emotion and the spirit of compassion with which Allah has endowed His servants. Such compassion is a blessing from Allah, and a heart which is completely lacking this feeling, shall remain deprived of Allah's glance of mercy. Sayyidina Saad bin Ubada, was amazed when he saw tears rolling down from the eyes of Allah's Messenger (صلی الله عیہ وسلم) as up to then it was not known to him that the heart's being affected in such manner, and the shedding of tears is not against the demands of patience. (Ma'ani al-Hadith 2/302)

Allah's favourites do not live in comfort and pleasure

Sayyidina Muadh bin Jabal (صلی الله عیہ وسلم) narrated that when the Messenger of Allah (صلی الله عیہ وسلم) sent him to Yemen, he advised him: 'O Muadh, beware of seeking comfort and pleasure, for Allah's favourites do not live in comfort and pleasure.' (Munzd Almad)

Note: Living a life in comfort and pleasure is neither unlawful nor impermissible, but doing so does not behave Allah's favourites.

لَلَّهِ لَا عِیشَ اِلَّا عیشَ الاضْرَّاء (Ma'ani al-Hadith 2/397)

Forgive your servant even though he commits mistakes seventy times per day

Sayyidina Abdullah bin Umar (صلی الله عیہ وسلم) narrated that once a person came to the Messenger of Allah (صلی الله عیہ وسلم) and asked him: 'O Messenger of Allah (صلی الله عیہ وسلم), if my servant commits any mistake, then how often should I forgive him?' He (صلی الله عیہ وسلم) did not reply and kept silent. That person asked again: 'O Messenger of Allah (صلی الله عیہ وسلم), how often should I forgive my servant?' He (صلی الله عیہ وسلم) said: 'Seventy times per day.' (Ismi Tirmidhi)

Note: The one who put the question wanted to know how often he is to forgive his servants in case he keeps making mistakes, and when he should be punished. The Messenger of Allah (صلی الله عیہ وسلم) replied that he should forgive his servant even if he commits mistakes seventy times per day. By this he meant that it forgiveness should not be limited and that it is the demand of a good moral character and sympathy to forgive even if the other person commits mistakes seventy times per day.

Note: It has already been mentioned several times that stating a numerical value on such occasions does not imply a limitation, but rather aims at frequency. This should keep in mind especially regarding this Hadith. (Ma'ani al-Hadith 2/386)

How to cure hard-heartedness

Sayyidina Abu Hurairah (صلی الله عیہ وسلم) narrated that once a person complained to the Messenger of Allah (صلی الله عیہ وسلم) about being hard-hearted. The Messenger of Allah (صلی الله عیہ وسلم) then advised him to correct the head of orphans and to feed the poor. (Munzd Almad)

Note: Hard-heartedness is a spiritual ailment and a sign of wretchedness. The one who put the question mentioned this condition of his to the Messenger of Allah (صلی الله عیہ وسلم) asking him about the cure. The Messenger of Allah (صلی الله عیہ وسلم) consequently advised him to do two things: to correct the heads of orphans in affection, and to feed the poor. This method which was told by Allah's Messenger (صلی الله عیہ وسلم) is based on a principle of pertaining to knowledge of human nature - rather one should say that this is confirmed and corroborated by this statement of Sayyidina Muhammad صلى الله عليه وسلم, namely that if one would like to foster a certain feeling or state which one is lacking so far, the one should adopt the outward manifestations of that feeling or state. This way one will Inshaallah in a short time acquire that feeling or state. The honourable arifs have in order to acquire love for Allah suggested that one should engage oneself in Divine remembrance. This prescription, too, is based on the same principle. Anyway, keeping one's heart on the head of an orphan and feeding the poor are outward manifestations of compassion. But if one's heart is lacking that feeling, and that person needs to force himself to do so, then yet this feeling will develop Inshaallah. (Mubtafat Hafiz 2/174)

The greatness of Sayyidina Abu Bakr Siddiq

Imam Bukhari has quoted the following tradition by Sayyidina Abu Ad-Darda'، صلى الله عليه وسلم, with reference to an Ayat of the Holy Quran: One day there happened to be some kind of differences between Sayyidina Abu Bakr and Sayyidina Umar، صلى الله عليه وسلم. Sayyidina Umar، صلى الله عليه وسلم got annoyed and left. When Sayyidina Abu Bakr، صلى الله عليه وسلم saw this, he went behind him to appease him, but Sayyidina Umar، صلى الله عليه وسلم was not appeased, and on reaching his dwelling, he went in and closed the door. Sayyidina Abu Bakr، صلى الله عليه وسلم had no other choice but to leave. He decided to go to the Messenger of Allah، صلى الله عليه وسلم. After some time Sayyidina Umar، صلى الله عليه وسلم felt sorry for what he had done. He left his house went to the Messenger of Allah، صلى الله عليه وسلم, too, and told him what had happened. Sayyidina Abu Ad-Darda'، صلى الله عليه وسلم stated that the Messenger of Allah، صلى الله عليه وسلم got angry. When Sayyidina Abu Bakr، صلى الله عليه وسلم realized that he said, "O Messenger of Allah، صلى الله عليه وسلم, it was all my fault!" The Messenger of Allah، صلى الله عليه وسلم said: "Can't you spare my companion from your harm? Don't you know that I have said by leave of Allah: 'O Mankind! I have been sent as Allah's Messenger unto you all. All of you However denied me, only Abu Bakr، صلى الله عليه وسلم, believed in me the first time.' (Qasas Al-Anbiya, Surah Al-Maidah 5:46, 47)

Sayyidina Ali، صلى الله عليه وسلم, narrated that the Noble Messenger، صلى الله عليه وسلم, had taken a loan from a Jew. That Jew came and demanded that his dues be paid. Sayyidina Umar، صلى الله عليه وسلم, replied: "I don't have anything right now. Give me some time." The jew repeated his demand saying: "I will not leave you until you repay your loan!" The Messenger of Allah، صلى الله عليه وسلم, said: "That is up to you. I shall sit with you." So the Messenger of Allah، صلى الله عليه وسلم, sat down. He offered his Zuhr, Asr Maghrib, Isha and Fajr prayers at this very place. Seeing this scene made the noble companions sad and angry. They tried to threaten and frighten the Jew, so that he would leave Allah's Messenger، صلى الله عليه وسلم, but he made him stay. When he asked his companions what they were doing, they said: "O Messenger of Allah، صلى الله عليه وسلم, how could we bear it that a Jew imprisons you?" The Messenger of Allah، صلى الله عليه وسلم, said: "My Lord forbade me to oppress anyone who has entered a contract with me." When the Jew heard this, he recited Al-Naas, and Allah made him repent and become thus a Muslim. He said: "O Messenger of Allah، صلى الله عليه وسلم, I don't have half of my wealth for Allah's sake, and I swear by Allah the truth of what you said, I did it merely to try you, because in the Torah is mentioned regarding you: 'The offspring of Muhammad bin Abdullah shall reside in Makkah and migrate toward At-Taybah, and Syria shall be their country. Neither shall they be harsh in behaviour nor speech.

Neither shall they make noise in the markets, nor shall they do behave indecent and vulgar. I tried you regarding all those characteristics, and found you to be true. Thus I bear witness that there is no god besides Allah and that you are indeed the Messenger of Allah، صلى الله عليه وسلم. This is half of my wealth, do with it whatever you please. That Jew happened to be very rich, and even half of his wealth made a considerable estate. This tradition has been mentioned in Tafsir مازة (Mazari), with
The Messenger of Allah did not offer the funeral prayer for person who died without having settled his dues.

In one tradition comes that the Messenger of Allah did not offer the funeral prayer of such people on whom other had a claim. This is why he would ask before the prayer whether anyone has a claim on the deceased. Once he refused to offer the funeral prayer of one of his companions, for that very reason, but when Sayyidina Abu Qatada took it upon himself to settle these dues, he offered the prayer.

Sayyidina Abu Qatada related that once a bier was brought to the Messenger of Allah so that he would offer the funeral prayer for the deceased. Allah's Messenger, however, told his companions to offer the prayer as that person died without having settled his dues. Sayyidina Abu Qatada then said: 'It is up to me to pay his dues.' The Messenger of Allah asked: 'Will you do that?' Sayyidina Abu Qatada said: 'Yes, I will.' Then the Messenger of Allah offered the prayer for him.

Note: When the Muslims began to make conquests the Messenger of Allah took it upon himself to pay the dues of one who died in debt, and he would offer the funeral prayer for him. (Aap ke Masaal Aur Na Ka Haf 3/31; Rahmatul - Ild Alamin 1/2/6; Nasir, p 315)

The blessings of olive-oil

(Afrom a blessed olive-tree)

This Ayat proves that the olive as well as the olive tree are indeed blessed and beneficial. The scholars mentioned that Allah has kept in it countless benefits. Olive-oil is used for lighting lamps. The light produced by this oil is clearer and brighter than that of any other oil. Olive-oil can be eaten in stead of curry along with bread; olives can also be used as condiment. One does not need any machine to procure olive oil, the oil comes out almost on its own. The Messenger of Allah said: 'Use olive-oil in your food, and rub on your body, as it comes from a blessed tree. (Baghawa, Taimitha - Mutahar) (Muhiyul Qur'an 6413)

The near relatives of Allah's favorites usually remain deprived

And warn your tribe of near kindred.

In Ibn Asakir comes that once Sayyidina Abu Ad-Dardaa was sitting in the mosque delivering and answering people's questions. The mosque was packed full with people. Their gazes were directed towards his face and they listened to him eagerly. His own sons and some other family members however did not show the least interest as they were busy talking to each other. Someone pointed this out to Sayyidina Abu Ad-Dardaa, and he said: 'The one who was eagerly listening to him, while his own family did not at all seem to be interested as they were busily talking to each other. He replied: 'I heard the Messenger of Allah said that the Prophets and the righteously guided are those who are the most abstinent regarding worldly matters, and that their own relatives weigh down heavily on them, and this is what the Ayat says about.'

Did you see him who took his vain desires as a god?

Following one's vain desires is also a kind of idol-worship

Arayt sa alhuha, ida hoa

This Ayat states that a person who follows his vain desires rather than the demands of Islam and the Holy Shariah is like one who has taken his desires as a god. Sayyidina Ibn Abbas.
Eight of Allah names which are written on the sun

Al Liq 2, Al Fataar 3, Al Salih 4, Al Musiq 5, Al Haseer 6, Al Biser 7, Al Makmum 8, Al Balaq.

(Al qunqeet text, Jawad, bukhari 16)

The position of poetry and poets in the Islamic Shari'ah

As for poets, the erring follow them.

From the beginning of the above-mentioned Ayat is learnt that poets and poetry are held in disdain by Allah Most High, but the exception mentioned in the subsequent Ayat proves that poetry as such is not an evil thing; only such poetry is evil which incites people to disobey the Almighty or which unjustly belittles or taunts any body, or which is vulgar and obscene with regard to language or content. Poetry which is void of these evils has been exempted by Allah through the statement.

Some poetry might even become a source of reward, due to its reformatory, wise contents, in a Hadith narrated by Sayyidina Uthayy bin Kaab, who belonged to the ten highest ranking jurists of Madinah was an eloquent poet.

And no one from among the people of knowledge can call the poetry by Qadii Zubair bin Bakar bad.

Those factions which disapprove of poetry are applicable only in case one becomes so absorbed in poetry that one becomes oblivious to Divine remembrance reciting the Holy Qur'an and other acts of worship. Imam Bukhari mentioned this in a separate chapter in which he cited the following tradition by Sayyidina Abu Hurairah:

It is better for a man to fill his stomach with pus than to fill it with poetry.

Imam Bukhari stated: according to my opinion this means that this applies only if one's being engaged in Divine remembrances, reciting the Holy Qur'an and the acquisition of religious knowledge suffers due to one's being engaged with poetry, but if this is not the case, then there is nothing wrong with it. And if the poetry consists of obscenities and vulgar subjects reproaching and belittling people, of anything other subject which is not sanctioned by the holy Law, then such poetry is unlawful and impermissible according to the consensus of the Ummah. And this injunction is not peculiar to poetry alone, it applies also to prose. (Qur'an)

Sayyidina Umar bin Al Khattab removed his governor Adi bin 'Aoubad from his post because he was given to composing vulgar poetry. Sayyidina Umar bin 'Abdul Aziz, ordered that 'Umar bin Rabiah and Al Aas be sent to exile for this very reason. 'Amr bin Rabiah however repented, and his repentance was accepted. (Qur'an)

An amazing incident pertaining to Sayyidina Yusuf's grave

Ibn Abi Hatim mentioned that once the messenger of Allah was host to a desert Arab, who proved to be a generous host. When he was about to leave, the Messenger of Allah came and visited him in Al Madinah. A few days later that Arab came to meet the Messenger of Allah. The Messenger of Allah said: "Do you want anything?" The Arab replied: "Yes, I want a she-camel with a covered litter and a goat which gives milk." Allah's Messenger said: "'Abdul Aziz had you only asked for something like an old woman belonging to Banu Israel had asked for! When the companions wanted to know about that incident, the Messenger of Allah said: "When Sayyidina Khallumah had Banu Israel out of Egypt, he forgot the way. He tried a thousand times to find it, but in vain. He gathered the people and asked them about the reason for this confusion. The scholars from among them replied: 'When Sayyidina Yusuf's time had come close, he had promised him to take his coffin along with us when we leave Egypt.' Sayyidina Musa then asked whether anyone knew where his grave was situated. None of the people replied in the affirmative, but thus said that there was a very old woman who knew where he was laid to rest. So Sayyidina Musa sent someone to her, asking her to show them the grave. The old woman said: 'I will show you, but first I will take what is due to me; Sayyidina Musa said: 'What do you want?' She said: 'I want to be your companion in Paradise.' This was quite hard for Sayyidina Musa, but at that very instance it was revealed to him that he ought to accept that condition. The old woman then took them to a lake and told them to draw its water, the colour of which had changed. They drew the water, and when the bed of the lake came visible, she told them: 'Dig here!' So they began to dig unto the grave became visible. They took the coffin. Then, when they resumed their journey, they found their way without any difficulty. (Ibn Kathir)

The letter which Sayyidina Umar wrote to the Nile

It has been related that after the conquest of Egypt the people there came to Sayyidina Anwar bin Aas and said: It is one of our ancient customs to make some offering to the river Nile in this month of the year. And if we don't do that, then the water level does not rise. Our offering to the river Nile is made on the twelfth of this month. We select a virgin girl; she has to be the only child of her parents whom we pay heavily to hand her over to us. Then we take that girl, dress her up, and adorn her with all sorts of jewelry. Then we cast her into the river. Thereafter the water-level rises, otherwise it doesn't. The valiant conqueror of Egypt Sayyidina Anwar bin Aas said: This is a foolish custom reeking of ignorance. Islam does not permit anything like that. Islam has wiped out all such customs. You can't do that! So the people refrained from it.

The water-level of the Nile did not rise. The whole month passed but the river-bed remained dry. As people could not bear it any longer (because they heavily depended on the river Nile), they made up their mind to leave Egypt. Sayyidina Anwar bin Aas thought it appropriate to inform the Khalifah: Sayyidina Umar bin Al Khattab about the situation. Sayyidina Umar bin Al Khattab sent the following reply: 'You did the right thing, I am sending you a letter addressed to the river Nile. Take it and throw it into the river.' Sayyidina Anwar bin Aas took the letter, which read as follows: From Allah's slave, the commander of the Faithful Umar, to the Nile, the river of the people of Egypt. After praising Allah and invoking blessings on Allah's Messenger (peace be upon him) and saying that if you flow on your own and according to your own will and pleasures, then don't flow. And if Allah, the One, the Omnipotent makes you flow, then we pray to Allah to make you flow again. Sayyidina Amr bin Ask, took this letter and threw it into the river.

One night had hardly passed and the water-level of the Nile had risen to 16 cubits. Anxieties and famine gave way to fertility and affluence. Hardship gave way to comfort and ease. Through the blessings of this letter Egypt became verdant and green. The river Nile kept flowing ever since. And there was no need for any further human sacrifices. Thus Egypt was purged once and for all from this impure custom. (Tafsir Ibn Kathir 2/23)

How Sayyidina Hasan and Hussain were saved through a snake

Sayyidina Salman Farsi said: We were sitting with the Messenger of Allah when suddenly Sayyidina Um Aliman came and said: 'O Messenger of Allah, say peace be upon him, peace be upon him, peace be upon him,' the Messenger of Allah said: 'Get up and look for my sons!' So everyone got up. People went into different directions to look for the two children. I took the same way as the Messenger of Allah. We walked until we reached the foot of a mountain. There we saw Hasan and Hussain standing, clinging to each other. Near them was a huge black snake which had raised its head. Sparks of fire came out from its mouth. (It seemed like Allah had sent the snake to stop the children from going any further.) The Messenger of Allah quickly went to the snake, which on seeing him, disappeared into a hole. Then the Messenger of Allah went to his grandsons separated them, caressed their faces and said: 'My parents be sacrificed for you! How dear you are to Allah.' Then he picked them up and made them sit on his shoulders - one on the right and one on the left. I said to them: 'Glad tidings unto you, what an excellent ride you've got!'

The Messenger of Allah said: 'These two are excellent riders, and their father is better than them.' (Hayaat - Sahih 2/899)

The incident of Ghar-e-Thawr

One of Sayyidina Isa's disciples once expressed his desire to see the last of Allah's Messengers (peace be upon him). When he prayed to Allah for the fulfillment of his desire, he got the following reply: 'You cannot see him in your current state, but if you want, then We can turn you into a snake. Then, when Sayyidina Muhammad (peace be upon him) shall leave Makkah, he shall stay in a cave. If you hide yourself in that cave, then you shall get a chance to see him.' The disciple accepted and thus he was turned into a snake. He had himself in the said cave and kept waiting. He waited for several hundred years, until finally prophethood was conferred on Sayyidina Muhammad (peace be upon him). The pagans however caused him much trouble, so far that they even plotted to kill him. Allah then ordered His Messenger (peace be upon him) to migrate (On his way to Madinah) The Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) stayed for some time in that cave, which is known as Ghar-e-Thawr. Sayyidina Abu Bakr Siddiq (peace be upon him) was with him, too. Before they entered, Sayyidina Abu Bakr said: 'Please, wait here for a moment. Let me see the cave first.' Then he went inside to have a look at it and to clean it. When he came back, the sheet he had worn before was missing. The Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) asked him, 'Where is your sheet? He said: I tore it into pieces to stuff the holes in the cave out of fear that any harmful creature might be hiding in those holes.' Then he was eager to arrange something to eat and drink for Allah's Messenger (peace be upon him). He saw a person who had some goats with him. He asked to whom they belonged and then he asked whether he can milk one of them. When the shepherd gave him permission, he milked one of the goats. Then he added some cold water to the milk and presented it to Allah's Messenger (peace be upon him). The Messenger asked him if he had thought the milk and drank it. Sayyidina Abu Bakr (peace be upon him) was pleased. Isn't that wonderful? One friend drinks and the other is happy. Anyway after the cave was cleaned, both of them went inside. Sayyidina Abu Bakr narrated: 'Why don’t you lie down? Keep your head in my lap and take some rest.' When the Messenger of Allah saw that he had forgotten to close one hole, he then covered the hole with his foot. It was in this hole where the snake had been waiting for so long. When the snake tried to come out it realized something was obstructing its way. Not knowing what to do it decided to bite. Sayyidina Abu Bakr was writhing with pain. He was worried that if he died as a result of this bite, then the Messenger of Allah would be all alone. His enemies who are pursuing him might find him and capture him. Lost in such thoughts tears rolled from his eyes. One tear fell on the blessed face of Allah’s Messenger . He asked him: 'What has happened?' Sayyidina Abu Bakr replied: 'Something bit me!' The Messenger of Allah then applied his blessed saliva to the wound, and thus the poison did not harm Sayyidina Abu Bakr. The Snake which had waited for centuries in that whole said to itself: 'O servant of Allah, this is your chance! The obstacle has been removed now have a look at the one whom you were so eager to see!' Sayyidina Is’aa‘ noted that the people of the Book had acquired much knowledge through Sayyidina Is’aa‘.

How a shameless woman became modest through the blessings of a morsel chewed by Allah’s Messenger

Sayyidina Abu Umamah narrated that once there was a woman who would talk to men without any feeling of shame. She was very bold and given to use foul language. Once she happened to pass by the Messenger of Allah . He was sitting on a slightly raised place, eating Tharid. That woman said: 'Look how he is sitting! He is sitting like a slave and eating like a slave.' When the Messenger of Allah heard this, he said: 'Which of Allah’s servants could be more willing to live in servitude than me?' That woman then said: 'How come you are eating yourself, without giving anything to me?' The Messenger of Allah said: 'Come and eat.' She said: 'I don’t want to eat anywhere but in your house.' So the Messenger of Allah gave some food to her. She said: 'Give me a morsel from your mouth.' So the Messenger of Allah gave her a morsel that was in his mouth (and through the blessings of the one who was overwhelmed by modesty and shame. Thereafter she never ever said anything shameless until she died. (Bukhari - Sahih, 2/104)

Incidents concerning Imam Abu Hanifa’s sharp mindedness

First incident

There was a man whose wife did not like him. He however was madly in love with her. As the woman did not get along well with her husband she wanted a divorce but he was not willing to divorce her. This was not because he wanted to vex her, but because he loved her very much. One day they were sitting together, talking to each other. Soon their conversation turned into a miff. The woman said something and the man said something in turn. Thereafter the woman kept quiet. The man said: 'If you don’t talk to me before the true dawn, then you are divorced.' The woman kept quiet, thinking: 'I better keep quiet so that I finally get rid of this one!' The poor man however became very upset. He tried his level best to make his wife talk, but she just kept quiet. He then understood that she wants to be divorced so as to become separated from him. In order to find a solution to his problem, he went to the jurisprudent residing in his town, and told them what had happened. They told him if she keeps quiet, then she’ll be divorced, because that was the condition laid down by him. They also advised him to try to reconcile and make her talk. Otherwise he’d lose her when dawn breaks. Finally he went to Imam Abu Hanifa when the Imam saw him, he asked: 'What happened? You seem to be distressed today?' That man said: ‘I said to my wife, “If you don’t talk to me before true dawn, then you are divorced.” Now she has stopped talking to me.’ Imam Abu Hanifa said: ‘Don’t worry. She won’t be divorced rest assured.’ That person then went away. When the other jurists got to know about Imam Abu Hanifa’s ṣoo’at, verdict they trusted him, saying that he is trying to make the unlawful lawful, and that the matter was absolutely clear — the woman would be divorced in case she didn’t talk, and yet he claimed that she would not be divorced.

Now listen well! Half an hour before true dawn, Imam Abu Hanifa ascended the minaret and gave Azan for the Tahajjud prayer. When the woman heard the Azan, she thought that dawn has broken. She said, ‘Dawn has broken. Now I am divorced. Now I will no longer stay with you!’ After some time however it became known that dawn had not broken yet, and that the Azan which the woman had heard was the Azan for Tahajjud. After this incident the people had to admit that Imam Abu Hanifa is not only a great jurist, but also a clever schemer. (Maqatil Hakamul Ummat p 214)

Second Incident

Once some burglars broke into a house. The burglars happened to live near the house into which they broke. After they had taken whatever they would to take, they caught the owner and forced him to take an oath that his wife would be divorced in case he tells anyone who the burglars were. That poor person had no other choice but to take the oath. He thought: ‘If I tell anyone who the burglars were, then I might get my belongings, but I’ll lose my wife, and if I keep quiet, then I lose my belongings; now he did not know what was dearer to him — his belongings or his wife. What should he keep? What should he let go? Lost in his thoughts, he went to Imam Abu Hanifa’s house. He told the Imam that he had been burgled, and the Imam asked him: ‘What happened? You seem to be very upset!’ He said: ‘I can’t say anything!’ The Imam however insisted: ‘That man replied; I don’t know what will happen if I tell you.’ The Imam said: ‘At least give me an idea!’ he said: ‘Burglars broke into my house. They stole everything and forced me to take an oath that if I tell anyone about their identity my wife shall be divorced. I know who the burglars are. They live in the same neighbourhood, but if I identify them, then my wife shall be divorced.’ The Imam said: ‘Rest assured, you will not lose your wife, and you will get your possessions back too. And you will be the one to identify the thieves.’ When the people of Kutah got to know about this, they raised a hue and cry how could Imam Abu Hanifa say something like that, that inspite of such an oath the man shall neither loose his wife nor his wealth. The scholars and jurists were utterly dumbfounded.

The Imam ʿAllah, said to that man: ‘Tomorrow I shall offer the Zuhr prayer in the mosque in your neighbourhood.’ So the Imam offered the prayer in the said mosque. After the prayer an announcement was made that all the gates of the mosque shall be closed, and that no one is to leave the mosque. The burglars, too, had offered their prayer in that mosque. The Imam then went toward one of the gates, opened it and sat down on one side of the gate while he had the man sit down on the other side. He gave him the following instructions to say: ‘He is not a thief when the person who left was indeed not a thief, and to keep quiet when the thieves left. The man acted accordingly — he said: he is not a thief when anyone else but the actual thieves left, and when the thieves left the mosque he kept quiet. Thus the thieves were identified without his naming them — his belongings were recovered and he didn’t loose his wife, either. This is what I call a good scheme. (Maqatil Hakamul Ummat p 216)

Funeral prayers are not offered for a rebel, a dacoit or one who killed his parents.

Question: Should a murderer be killed in retaliation or should he be sent to the gallows. What about his funeral prayer? What if he had killed his parents? Should one offer the funeral prayer in case an open penetrator of the Holy law (Faniq, Fajir) or an adulterer dies?

Answer: The funeral prayer is to be offered for every Muslim, even if he had committed major sins. If however a rebel or a dacoit are killed during combat, then they are neither to be given the last bath, nor is the funeral prayer to be offered for them. If a person who killed his parents is killed in retaliation, then one is not to offer the funeral prayer for him. And in case he dies a natural death, then the funeral prayer is to be offered for him. Dignitaries and people of respect should however not join his funeral-prayers. (Khatme Musawat aur in kahin 3/32)

The reality of 'Chillah'

Question: People engaged in Tabligh stress the importance of going for a 'Chillah' What is the reality of 'Chillah' on basis of which these people make such recommendations?

Answer: Spending a 'Chillah' (i.e. forty continuous days) doing a certain good deed is indeed a very blessed act which strongly affects one's soul and inner state. Sayyidina Musa ﷺ  was given the Torah after he had secluded himself for forty days on Mount Tur.

The honourable Sufis, too, arrange 'Chillas', hence it would be wrong to say that 'Chillah' is baseless. In one Hadith of the Messenger of Allah ﷺ said:

من صلى الله ﷺ أربعين يومًا في جماعة يذكر التكبير الاولي
كتب له برازانت برغمان من النار وبرغمان من الفناء

'Whoever offers for forty days the prayer with congregation, without missing the first takbir shall be redeemed from the Fire as well as from hypocrisy, provided he did so for the sake of Allah.'
(Tirmidhi 1/33; Misbah Sharif, p 102, Al-Jawhar Al-Mubin, Section Four.)

From this, it is learnt that 'Chillah' affects a person's state in a certain manner. See when a man's seed finds it may into a woman's womb and settles down there, then during the first forty days, it turns into what is known as 'Alaqah'. Then in the next forty days the 'Alaqah' turns into 'Mudghlah' (i.e. a lump of flesh). Then after forty days some parts of this 'Mudghlah' a developed into bones, and these bones are covered with flesh. Then (after these three stages of forty days), life and spirit are blown into this lump of flesh and bones. (Rasoolul Qura'an)

Once during the Caliphate of Sayyidina Umar ﷺ, a man became madly infatuated with a woman. That woman however happened to be very modest chaste and bashful. Since she was also a very prudent lady she requested someone to convey the following message to that man: Your matter will be decided only after you have offered forty the prayer behind Sayyidina Umar ﷺ without missing even the first Takbeer. That person did so and within forty days his state was completely changed. His love had turned into true love, not for that woman but for Allah! Love for Allah had penetrated each sphere of his being. When Sayyidina Umar ﷺ was told about this he said:

صد قل الله ورسوله أن العلقة تسيب عن الفحشاء و المكر

'Allah and His Messenger spoke the truth: Indeed the prayer stops one from indecencies and evil'. (Tafseer Rabi'unnaj; 6/384)

Note: In a Hadith comes that the Messenger of Allah ﷺ said: If anyone worship Allah for forty days with sincerity, then Allah causes springs of wisdom to gush forth from his heart. (Rah-ut-Bayan, (Masarif Qura'an)

Should one offer the funeral-prayer for a person who had committed suicide?

Question: Is it permissible to offer the funeral-prayer for a person who had killed himself?

Answer: No doubt, committing suicide is a great sin, but the Holy Law has given permission to offer the funeral prayer for a person who killed himself. It is acceptable if religious dignitaries do not participate in the funeral prayer of such a person so that the people receive admonition, but it is necessary that the people do not bury such a person without having offered the funeral prayer for him.
In a Hadith comes that it is obligatory to offer the funeral prayers for a deceased Muslim, no matter whether he was righteous or wicked.

In Durrie-Mukhtar comes: من تلبس نفسه رسول الله ﷺ بشرة ييمينه - (If a person kills himself - even in case he did so intentionally then (yet) he is to be bathed and the funeral prayer is to be offered for him. Fatawa are given in accordance with this.) Verily Allah knows best. (Shami 1985, Fatawa Khatami 1986)

The excellence of dying on Friday

Question: Mention has been made of the excellence of dying on Friday? Kindly provide some details regarding this.

Answer: The sacred Hadith says that a person who dies on Friday, or in the night preceding Friday shall not be questioned by Munkir and Nakir.

Allah has taken responsibility for five people:

Sahih Muslim bin Jabal reported that the Messenger of Allah ﷺ narrated: Allah has taken responsibility for five people:

1. A person who goes to the mosque mornings and evenings.
2. A person who goes to the mosque in order to help him.
3. A person who sits at home, neither speaking ill of anyone, nor backbiting anyone.
4. A strange incident about visiting a patient!

A strange incident about visiting a patient

It has been mentioned that when Abdullah bin Mubarak رضي الله عنه fell ill - the same illness which led to his death - many people came to visit him. The Messenger of Allah ﷺ said about such visits: "If any of you pays a visit to a sick person, then he should make it short."

One should not stay too long with a patient; as there are times when a patient needs privacy, as there are a number of things he cannot do freely and conveniently in the presence of visitors. Let your visit be short and source of comfort and ease for the patient.

Anyway, once Abdullah bin Mubarak رضي الله عنه was lying on his bed. One person came to see him. The visitor kept sitting, not even thinking about going back. Abdullah bin Mubarak رضي الله عنه thought that if this person left, he could be alone, and fulfill some of his needs. However he did not consider it appropriate to tell him to leave. Quite some time had passed, but that person still did not seem like he is about to leave. Abdullah bin Mubarak رضي الله عنه said to him: "This illness is already distressing enough and the visitors cause me further inconvenience. They come to visit a sick man and cause him much trouble.

Concerning the names of some Prophets

1. Adam: man, father of mankind.
2. Nuh: Noah, the father of comfort and ease for him.
3. Ismael: Ismail, means laughing. He had a friendly, smiling face.
4. Yaqub: Jacob, the father of Baha.
5. Musa: Moses, brought up in the desert.
6. Yahya: John, the father of perspective and hope.
7. Isa: Jesus, given his name due to his reddish complexion.
He said that hoping that maybe this visitor would get the hint and leave, but not that person did not get it. He said to Abdullah bin Mubarak: "Would you like me to close the door so that no one disturbs you?" Abdullah bin Mubarak said: "Yes brother, close it and make sure you close it from outside."

Well, there are some people cannot be dealt with in such a manner. But under normal circumstances one should try one's best not to let the other person feel one's increasing enmity. May Allah - in His infinite mercy - grant us all the strength to put these points into practice. Amin. (Ibn al-Ka'b 8/195)

A way of being blessed with a vision of Allah's Messenger

The saints have mentioned that if a person sincerely desires a vision of Allah's Messenger, he should on a Friday night (i.e., the night between Thursday and Friday) offer two Rakat of Nafl prayers. In each Rakat he should recite after Surah Fatihah the Ayat-ul-Kursi eleven times and also Surah At-Takathur eleven times. After concluding the prayer, he should recite the following Durood one hundred times.

If one does so for a number of times, then Allah might bless one with the honour of beholding the Noble Prophet, provided one has a true longing for this honour and keeps away from sins. (Ibn al-Ka'b 8/195)

Eight people shall not be questioned in the grave

In Shami has been mentioned the people who shall not be questioned in the grave are of eight types:

1) Martyrs.
2) Those who die while guarding the frontiers of an Islamic state.
3) Those who die from plague.
4) One who dies in a plague-infested area as a result from any (other) disease, provided he was patient and hoped for reward.
5) Siddiqin.
6) Children.
7) Those who died on a Friday or the night before Friday.
8) Those who recite Surah Mulk every night. (Some mentioned Surah Sajdah along with Surah Mulk.) Also those who recite Surah Al-Ikhlas in their last illness. The interpreter of the Hadith further stated that the Prophets, too, are to be added to that list, as they are of higher rank than the Siddiqin. (Sham, p.572)

Ibrahim bin Adham's father's fear of Allah

It has been mentioned that once Ibrahim bin Adham's father, a fruit seller, was passing by the orchards of Bukhara. He had sat down by a small stream (which was flowing through the orchards) to take absolution, when he saw an apple floating in the water. He thought that there was nothing wrong if he would eat that apple so he took it and ate it. After he had finished it, it occurred to him that he had not asked the owner for permission, and that he had acquired that apple in an unlawful manner. So he decided to go to the owner of that orchard, inform him and take his permission, so that the apple would be come lawful for him. He knocked at the gate of the orchard through which the stream was flowing. A girl heard the sound and came out. He told her that he wanted to see the owner of the orchard. The girl told him that the orchard was owned by a woman. He then requested her to take permission on his behalf for him to come and meet her. When he got permission, he went to her and told her what had happened. That woman said: 'Half of the orchard belongs to me and the other half belongs to the Sultan. The Sultan however does not live here. He lives in Balkh which is a ten days journey from Bukhara. Since the woman had forgiven him her half of the apple, he was now eager to ask the Sultan to forgive him the other half thus he went to Balkh. When he arrived there, the royal entourage was making its round. He accompanied it and told the king the whole story. The king said: ‘I can’t say anything right now. Come to see me tomorrow.’ The king had a very beautiful daughter, and many princes had asked for her hand in marriage, but her father, that means the king, had rejected them all, because his daughter was very pious and she helped virtuous people in high esteem. This is why she wanted to marry but a devout, pious abstinent person. When the king returned to his place, he told his daughter about the incident. He also said that he never saw such a devout, pious and abstinent person who comes all the way from Bukhara only to make half an apple lawful for himself. When the girl heard this, she agreed to marry that person. On the next day, Adham went to see the king. The king said: ‘I will not forgive you until you agree to marry my daughter.’ Adham first refused, but he was left with no other choice but to give in. Thus the king gave his daughter in marriage to Adham. When he went unto his wife, he found her to be of a ravishing beauty, exquisitely made up and adorned. The girl’s residence, too, was superbly decorated. Adham however went to one corner and engaged himself in prayers until morning. This continued for seven nights. Since the king had not forgiven him yet the half apple, Adham thought that may be he should remind him. The king however said: ‘I will not forgive you until you consummate the marriage with my daughter.’ Thus Adham رَعَى وَهَدَى had to consummate the marriage. After he had taken his purification bath, he offered the prayer, cried and fell down in prostration. The people then saw that he had breathed his last. The girl then gave birth to a boy, Ibrahim. Since the king of Balikh did not have any male offspring, Ibrahim inherited the kingdom. The incident how he gave up the kingdom of Balikh is well-known, and its roots lie in this story. (Sifatuna Ibn Batuta 1/106)

Entering Paradise because of a single good deed.

On the day of judgement there shall be brought a person whose good and evil deeds are of equal weight. This person has however no additional virtue to outweigh his vices. Allah – in His infinite mercy – then tells him to go around and ask the people whether they would give him a single good deed, on account of which he would be allowed to enter Paradise. That person will then desperately beseech the people to grant him just a single good deed, but no matter where he'll go everyone will tell him: ‘I fear making a scale of good deeds remains too light, and I need this good deed more than you.’ That person will almost lose hope, when he will come across a man who will ask him: ‘What do you want?’ He will say: ‘I need a single good deed. I have come across many people who have thousands of good deeds, but no one treated me generously.’ That person will then say: ‘I also met Allah and there was only a single good deed in my record, and I don’t think it will avail me anything, so accept my good deed as gift from my side and save yourself! The first person then will return to Allah in a state of utter delight, and Allah – in spite of his being perfectly aware of what had happened – will ask him: ‘How did you fare?’ He will say: ‘O Lord! I have accomplished my task (then he will tell him the whole story).’ Then Allah will let the other man come into his presence and say: ‘Today, My generosity shall be far greater than yours. Come, take your brother’s hand and go to Paradise!’ (At-Tarikh 1/519; Zajjaj 1/164)

Entering Paradise because of wishing one’s father well.

There is another incident, similar to the one above – a person’s good and evil deed shall be equal in weight. Allah will then declare that this person neither belongs to the dwellers of Paradise nor to the dwellers of Hell. Then suddenly an angel shall come and drop a paper on which ‘If’ (i.e., a word through which he expressed his displeasure with his parents) is written, and this piece of paper shall cause the scale of evil deeds to go down, because ‘If’ is a word which outweighs the mountains. So this person shall be convicted to go to Hell. He shall plead to be saved from Hell. Allah will then order the angels to bring that person back. He will say to him: ‘O you, who disobeyed your parents, why are you pleading to be released from Hell? He will say: ‘O Lord! I am condemned to Hell, and I don’t deserve to be released from it because I disobeyed my parents. But I have seen that my father, too, has been sentenced to Hell, so I have come to request you to release my father and
A strange incident about entrusting something to Allah

Allamah Dallali wrote: I found in a number of books a tradition which Zaid bin Aslam had related from his father. He said: Once while Sayyidina Umar was sitting in an assembly, addressing the people, a man and his son entered them. When Sayyidina Umar saw the child, he said: “I never saw anything more closely resembled a crow than this crow of yours (by this he made an allusion to the child’s dark complexion).

That person said: “O Commander of the Faithful, his mother gave birth to him after she had died.” When Sayyidina Umar heard this, he sat up straight and requested the stranger to tell him the whole story. He said: “O Commander of the Faithful, once I intended to go on a journey. The boy’s mother was expecting at that time. She said to me: ‘You are leaving me at a time when I am heavy with child?’

The stranger answered: ‘I entrust to Allah what ever is in your womb.’ Then I left. Several years had passed before I returned home. When I reached there I found my dwelling locked and was told that my wife had died. I recited the Tahlid prayers, and then I went to my wife’s grave. My cousin was with me. I stayed at the grave for very long and kept crying. My brother tried his best to console me. Finally he suggested that we should leave. We had hardly gone a few steps when something like fire lit up the graveyard. I asked my cousin: What is this fire? He said: ‘This fire becomes visible at your wife’s grave every night.’ When I heard this I said: ‘O Commander of the Faithful, put me to an end.’ She was a very pious woman and she regularly offered the Tahajjud prayer. Take me back to her grave! So he took me there again. When we had reached the graveyard, my cousin decided to stay at the gate, and I went alone to my wife’s grave. When I reached there, I saw that the grave was open. My wife was sitting there and this boy was frolicking around her. Suddenly a voice from the invisible addressed me: ‘O you who had entrusted something to Allah, take your trust. And had you entrusted your wife as well, you would have lost her, too!’ When I heard this I took the boy. I hardly picked him up when the grave became level again. O Commander of the Faithful, I swear by Allah that this story is true.”

Coming home after having spent twenty-seven years in Allah’s way

Abdur-Rahman Farwah, father of Imam Rabia’i Ar-Rai, once was sent on a mission to Khurasan. His wife was expecting at that time. He left 23000 Dinars for her, to cover her expenses. After reaching Khurasan, he had to face various odd situations which caused his return to be delayed. Thus twenty-seven years passed before he could finally return home. Rabia’i’s mother was a very wise noble-minded woman. When she realized her son’s potential, she arranged the best education possible for him, thus she spent the whole amount which her husband had left behind her son’s education. When Farwah finally came back to Madinah Munnawwarah, he did so in splendour – he was mounted on a horse, holding a spear in his hand. He knocked the door of his house. His son came out. Father and son stood face to face – not knowing each other. Rabia’i thought his father to be a stranger. He said: “O enemy of Allah! Are you attacking my home?” Farwah replied: “O enemy of Allah, how dare you enter my home?” It took not long before they began to physically assault each other. The tumult attracted many spectators, and within time Imam Malik bin Anas and several others arrived at the scene to help their great teacher. When Imam Malik arrived, Rabia’i said to Farwah: “By Allah, I shall not give in until I’ve brought you to the king.” Farwah said: “Why would I not bring you to the king when you have entered upon my wife and even dare to raise such a hue and cry among the people! When the spectators saw Imam Malik bin Anas, they all fell silent. Imam Malik said to Farwakh: ‘Old man, may be you should stay anywhere else.’ Farwakh said: ‘But this is my own house. I am Farwakh, the slave of such – and such.’ When Rabia’s mother heard this, she came out and said: ‘Yes Farwakh is my husband. And Rabia is my son. I was expecting Rabia when Farwakh had to go to Khurasan. Now that the confusion was resolved, father and son embraced each other and cried. Farwakh then went inside. He gestured toward Rabia and asked his wife: ‘This is my son?’ She said: ‘Yes.’ Then he asked her about the money which he had left with her. He also said: ‘Take these thousand Dinars. I have given them to Rabia’s mother. I have spent all the money on her son’s education. She said: ‘I have buried the money. I will dig it out in a couple of days. There is no need to hurry.’ Rabia then went to the mosque and delivered his lecture which was attended by Imam Malik, Hasan bin Zaid, Ibn Abi Ali and other outstanding scholars.

When Rabia’s mother was sure that the lecture was in process, she said to her husband: ‘Go to the mosque and offer your prayers there.’ So Farwakh went and offered his prayer in the Noble Prophet’s mosque. After the prayer, he saw that someone gave a lecture on Hadith, and that countless people had come to attend this lecture. He too, fell like attending this lecture. As he drew close, the people made room for him. Fearing lest his lecture would be disrupted, Imam Rabia bowed his head, and pretended like he had taken no notice of the arrival. Thus Farwakh was not able to recognize his son. He asked the people: ‘Who is that man?’ They said: ‘He is Rabia bin Abi Ahdur –Rahman.’ He said: ‘Indeed, Allah granted my son a very high rank.’

When he returned home, he said to his wife: ‘Today I saw your son in such an honourable position in which I never saw any other scholar or jurist!’ She said: ‘What do you prefer, the money or the exalted rank of your son?’ He replied: ‘By Allah, such honour is much dearer to me than the money.’ On hearing this
